PLAN AND SCOPE OF WORK

The Commission has considered its problem under the following sub-divisions:

1. A Study of the laws governing the Healing Art in Pennsylvania.
2. A survey of the laws governing the Healing Art in other States of the United States and in foreign countries.
3. Public Hearings.
4. Recommendations.

1. A Study of the Laws Governing the Healing Art in Pennsylvania.

Prior to the passage of the Act of March 24, 1877, P. L. 42, anyone, no matter what his education, experience or training, had the right to practice the healing art within our Commonwealth.

This law states that the standard qualifications of a practitioner of medicine, surgery, or obstetrics, shall be and consist of the following, namely, a good moral character, a thorough elementary education, a comprehensive knowledge of human anatomy, human physiology, pathology, chemistry, materia medica, obstetrics, and practice of medicine and surgery and public hygiene.

This law made it unlawful for anyone to announce him or herself as a practitioner of medicine, surgery or obstetrics, or to practice the same unless the person had received in a regular manner, from a chartered medical school, the degree of Doctor of Medicine, but it was provided that this Act did not apply to any resident practitioner of medicine, surgery, or obstetrics, who had been in continuous practice within the Commonwealth for five years prior to the passage of this Act.

By this Act the protecting cloak of law was thrown over the public health, and the practice of medicine, surgery and obstetrics, except in compliance with this law, became a misdemeanor.

The administration of this Act was placed in the hands of the Prothonotaries of the several counties of the state with whom the intending practitioner was required to register the places within the Commonwealth wherein the petitioner intended to practice.

Under the Act of May 18, 1893, there was established a "Medical Council" which Council supervised the examinations conducted by the three separate boards of examiners created by the Act which boards represented the allopathic, the homeopathic, and eclectic medical societies of the State, and the Council was empowered to issue licenses to those who passed these examinations and to other qualified persons by reciprocity.

This Act provides that on and after July 1, 1894, all applicants for license who have received their degree in medicine, must have pursued the study of medicine for at least three years including three regular courses of lectures in different years in some legally incorporated medical college or colleges prior to the granting of said diploma or foreign license, and on and after the first day of July, 1895, such applicant must have pursued the study of medicine for at least four years including three regular courses of lectures in different years in some legally incorporated medical college or colleges prior to the granting of said diploma or foreign license.

The Act of June 3, 1911, as amended by the Act of July 25, 1913, as amended by the Act of May 24, 1917, as amended by the Act of April 20, 1921, as amended by the Act approved June 7, 1923, as amended by the Act of April 2, 1925, provides that "Admission to medical practice is granted by the State Board of Medical Education and Licensure in two ways.

(1) By the issuance of a license to a candidate who passes the licensing examination and satisfies all the other legal requirements.

(2) By the issuance of a license upon the basis of a license earned by examination in another State which maintains standards not lower than those prescribed in the State whose certificate the Board may endorse.

1. License by Examination:

Applicants for license by examination must satisfy the following:

- (a) Preliminary requirement.
- (b) Professional requirement.
- (c) Pass the licensing examination.

(a) All credentials of applicants for admission to colleges of medicine are referred to the Professional Credentials Bureau in the Department of Public Instruction.

For the study of medicine, the State requires the completion of a standard four-year high school course, or the equivalent thereof, and a year of college credit in each of the Sciences, physics, chemistry and biology. As all of the medical schools in the State now require two years of college course, including the sciences required by the State and including an additional requirement in organic chemistry, prospective applicants for admission to schools of medicine should make plans accordingly. Students are not admitted to medical courses with any deficiencies in the preliminary requirements.

The amount and character of the work required of a student in order that he may receive college credit in physics, chemistry and biology are, for each of these sciences as follows:

Three sixty-minute periods of recitations and lectures a week, and one double period of laboratory work a week, or two recitations and lectures a week and two double laboratory periods a week, the year to be not less than thirty-two (32) weeks of actual work. Examinations in physics, chemistry and biology, of college grade, are held by the Department of Public Instruction in June and August.

Preparation of High School Credentials: Graduates of secondary schools should present itemized statements of the work done, not diplomas. These statements should in all cases be presented upon preliminary education blanks furnished by the Department of Public Instruction.

Certificates from colleges should bear the autographic signature of competent college officials.

Certificates from private tutors are not accepted.

State Preliminary Certificates: In each case in which the credentials meet the State requirements, the applicant, by paying the State fee of one dollar, may secure from the Department, a State Preliminary Certificate. State Preliminary Certificates are required of those graduates in any of the professional courses who present themselves for examination by the State Boards.

(b) Professional Requirement:

The professional requirement consists of attendance on four graded courses of not less than thirty-two (32) weeks of not less than thirty-five (35) hours each, in different calendar years, in some reputable and legally incorporated medical school or college recognized as such by the State Board of Medical Education and Licensure and a service as interne in an approved hospital.

Licensing Examination: A candidate for admission to the medical licensing examination must pay a fee of $25, submit evidence, verified by oath or affirmation and satisfactory to the Board that he or she (a) is 21 years of age, (b) is of good moral character, (c) is not addicted to the intemperate use of alcoholic or narcotic drugs, and (d) met the preliminary and the professional requirements as set forth above.

(c) Examination:

The examinations conducted by the Board are on the subjects of anatomy, physiology, chemistry as applied to medicine, hygiene and preventive medicine, pathology as applied to medicine, bacteriology, symptomatology, diagnosis, surgery, gynecology and obstetrics, medical jurisprudence and toxicology, practice in materia medica and therapeutics.

Special Examination: A practical examination at the bedside may be held for applicants graduated from extinct schools in the United States, excepting such schools as have become extinct after having been refused recognition by the State Board of Medical Education and Licensure, and for those who have been in active practice for ten or more years. No re-examinations are given at the bedside in case of failure.

Graduates of Foreign Medical Schools: Applicants for licensure who have graduated from schools other than those of the United States and Canada shall be required to take both the written and the bedside examinations.

The Act of April 2, 1925, provides for the Annual Registration of all licensed practitioners of medicine and allied branches of the healing art with the Department of Public Instruction.

OSTEOPATHY

The Act of March 19, 1909, as amended by the Act of May 11, 1911, as amended by the Act of April 28, 1925, as amended by the Act of June 1, 1915, as amended by the Act of May 17, 1917, as amended by the Act of June 14, 1923, as amended by the Act of April 27, 1925, provides that admission to medical practice is granted by the State Board of Osteopathic Examiners in two ways:

(1) By the issuance of a license to a candidate who passes the licensing examination and satisfies all the other legal requirements.

(2) By the issuance of a license upon the basis of a license earned by examination in another State which maintains standards not lower than those prescribed in this State whose certificate the Board may endorse.

The requirements as to Preliminary Education are as follows:

A diploma of graduation from a reputable college or university granting the degrees of bachelor of arts or science, or equivalent degree; or a diploma of graduation from an educational institution maintaining a four years' course of study; that is, a state normal school, or a high school, a seminary, an academy, or a college preparatory school; or a certificate of having passed examination for admission to the freshman class of a reputable literary or scientific college or university; or a certificate of having passed an equivalent examination conducted by a certified examiner for the state of Pennsylvania, to be appointed by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and for other states, to be approved by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction of Pennsylvania; said certified examiner being privileged to accept credentials from reputable and recognized preliminary schools, for any subjects included in the preliminary examination.

2. A Survey of the Laws Governing the Healing Art in other States of the United States and in Foreign Countries.

All of the States of the United States and all foreign countries have some form of law governing the healing art.

As far as the States of the United States are concerned, we find there are thirty-two states which have a specific law providing for the license of chiropractors and in no state has this law ever been repealed.

It is a matter of public record that many governors and other public officials have publicly stated that these laws have worked well and smoothly, that they have elevated the standards and protected the public from the unscrupulous.

* Or four years of active practice.

† Hospital internship is accepted in lieu of practice.

‡ Reciprocal fee same as charged by the state from which applicant comes.

§ Or its equivalent in a medical college.

¶ Or two years' hospital experience.

In five states the law provides for examination in the so-called Basic Sciences, namely, Connecticut, Minnesota, Nebraska, Washington and Wisconsin.

In many of these laws there is a clearly defined definition of what constitutes "The Practice of Medicine".

No statute in Pennsylvania defines "The Practice of Medicine," and consequently, there has been almost endless confusion and almost as many definitions of what the term means as there have been cases in which the medical practice acts have been under consideration by the Common Pleas and other Courts.

RECOMMENDATIONS

We have found that there is no codification of the laws governing the healing art, that there is no definition of what constitutes "The practice of medicine", or the healing art, upon our statute books therefore recommend that your honorable bodies pass and the Governor approve Bill No. 1, for the appointment of a Commission to codify these laws and to recommend to the General Assembly such amendment to the present laws as will clearly and for all time, accurately define what constitutes "The Practice of all or any form of the healing art."

We have been conscious from the commencement of our work that the various laws of our Commonwealth governing the healing art do not define the term "Practice of Medicine". We noted the several definitions in other states of the Union in which this term is more or less clearly defined and your Commission, after carefully considering the Act of the General Assembly under which it functions reached the conclusion that there was no power in this Act to give this Commission the right to either go ahead and codify these laws, or to define the term "Practice of Medicine".

We would recommend that your honorable bodies pass and the Governor approve our Bill No. 2.

In thirty-two states of the United States there is a law licensing Chiropractors. The effect of these laws we believe has resulted in the protection of the public from those who by reason of their insufficient training were a menace to the public welfare.

We have been told that many of these practitioners from other states, who finding that the passage of a State law prevented them from continuing their practice, have come within the border of our Commonwealth to practice.

Therefore, we believe that if our Bill No. 2 becomes a law, what is now a serious menace to the public health will be thereby eradicated.

There are at this time large numbers of persons engaged in the practice of Chiropractic at various points within the Commonwealth. At this time in our laws there is no supervision over the qualifications of these persons to practice chiropractic. In many cases some of these persons have been arrested and brought before our courts for trial on the charge of practicing medicine without a license. It is a matter of regret that in many cases public sentiment has resulted in a verdict of not guilty. If the public health of our Commonwealth is to be conserved, the qualifications of these persons to engage in the practice of the healing art should be ascertained, and those who are qualified should be permitted to continue their practice in a legal manner and those who are not qualified should be prevented from continuing their practice.

The Board of Medical Education and Licensure today supervises the control over those who would practice the healing art. Our Bill No. 2 in no wise changes the control, save in the provision that the Chiropractic Board of Examiners and such other boards as may be necessary in the future shall be appointed by the State Board of Medical Education and Licensure and not by the Governor so as to remove vexatious professional questions from the realm of politics and so that your honorable bodies will not have at your subsequent sessions, a constant recurrence of proposed legislation dealing with the licensing of those who would practice some form or other of the healing art.

We would recommend the passage by the General Assembly and approval by the Governor of our Bill No. 3, which is approved by the Pennsylvania Osteopathic Society, as providing a measure to ensure greater protection to the public by ensuring better training of those Osteopathic Physicians who practice surgery.

We would recommend passage by the General Assembly and approval by the Governor of our Bill No. 4 which raises the Standards of Preliminary Education from one year to two years.

Lastly we would recommend the passage by the General Assembly and approval by the Governor of our Bill No. 5, which is an Act empowering the Department of Public Instruction to have supervision over all branches of the Healing Art.

The said board may refuse, revoke, or suspend the right to practice in this State for any or all of the following reasons, to wit: The conviction of a crime involving moral turpitude, habitual intemperance in the use of ardent spirits or stimulants, narcotics or any other substance, or for any other cause which impairs intellect and judgment to such an extent as to incapacitate him or her in the performance of professional duties.

Any person who is a licensee under this act, or who is an applicant for examination for licensure, against whom any of the foregoing charges are preferred shall be furnished by the board with a copy of the complaint and shall have a hearing before said board in person or by attorney, and witnesses may be examined respecting the guilt or innocence of the accused. The suspension of license of any licensee shall be removed by the Board of Chiropractic Examiners when said narcotic or vicious habit or other cause, hereinbefore specified, shall have been adjudged by the board to be cured or overcome and the suspended licensee be again capable of practicing chiropractic. Section 5. Applicants for licensure under the provisions of this act shall furnish, prior to any examination by the [said bureau.] State Board of Medical Education and Licensure satisfactory proof that he or she is twenty-one years of age, is of good moral character, is not addicted to the intemperate use of alcohol or narcotic drugs; and has had a general education of not less than a standard four years high school course, or its equivalent, and not less than [a year] two completed years of college credits leading to a degree in arts or science and including not less than eight semester hours each [in] of chemistry, biology, and physics, and four semester hours of organic chemistry, with laboratory work in each branch, such work to be completed in a college of arts and science approved by the Department of Public Instruction,—all of which have been received before admission to medical study; and have attended four graded courses, of not less than thirty-two weeks of not less than thirty-five hours each of actual work, in dietetic, laboratory, and clinical studies, in different calendar years, in some reputable and legally incorporated medical school or college, or colleges, recognized as such by the State Board of Medical Education and Licensure of the State of Pennsylvania,—the dean or proper officer of which college having certified that the applicant has satisfactorily passed each of said respective courses; and shall have completed not less than one year as interne in an approved hospital which shall have at least twenty-five beds to each interne devoted to the treatment of medical, surgical, gynecological, and special diseases, shall maintain or establish co-operation with a maternity department or hospital, in which each interne shall have not less than six weeks service, or the equivalent thereof, during which time he shall have attended or participated in attendance upon not less than six confinements, shall maintain proportionate to the necessities of the hospital, and the records on a thoroughly equipped modern pathological and clinical shall maintain a department of anaesthesia consisting of one or more anaesthetists who shall have supervision over all the anaesthesia given in the institution, and whose duty it will be to instruct all internes in the administration of anaesthesia; and in the case of applicants of acceptable age and otherwise acceptable to the Federal Government, shall have received an approved three months field course and service in military medicine: Provided, That in the case of those having completed their preliminary education prior to the first day of [January] July, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-eight, which [applicant] applicants may not technically or fully fulfill the above preliminary requirements, the [Bureau] State Board of Medical Education and Licensure, in its discretion, may accept satisfactory equivalent by a unanimous vote of all members present.

Applicants from countries foreign to the territory of the United States, who desire to be licensed by said bureau, shall, before examination, furnish similar proof as to age, moral character, use of alcohol and narcotics; and shall present a certificate or diploma indicating the completion of a preliminary and medical and surgical education equivalent to the above. Each application to the said bureau, for examination or licensure, shall have attached thereto the affidavit or affirmation of the applicant as to its verity. Any applicant stating any fact in his application, which shall thereafter be proven to be false, shall be deemed guilty of perjury, and on conviction, shall be subject to its penalties.

BILL NO. 5.

An Act to amend section one thousand three hundred and four of an act approved the seventh day of June, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three, (P. L. 498), entitled "An act providing for and reorganizing the conduct of the executive and administrative work of the Commonwealth by the Executive Department thereof, and certain existing and certain new administrative departments, boards, commissions, and officers; abolishing, combining, changing the names of, reorganizing, or authorizing the reorganization of certain administrative departments, boards, commissions, bureaus, divisions, offices, and agencies; defining the powers and duties of the Governor and other executive and administrative officers, and of the several administrative departments, boards, and commissions; fixing the salaries of the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, and certain other executive and administrative officers; providing for the appointment of certain administrative officers and of all deputies and other assistants and employes in certain departments, boards, and commissions; and prescribing the manner in which the number and compensation of the deputies and all other assistants and employes of certain departments, boards, and commissions shall be determined."

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That section one thousand three hundred and four of an act approved the seventh day of June, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three, (P. L. 498), entitled "An act providing for and reorganizing the conduct of the executive and administrative work of the Commonwealth by the Executive Department thereof and certain existing and certain new administrative departments, boards, commissions, and officers; abolishing, combining, changing the names of, reorganizing, or authorizing the reorganization of certain administrative departments, boards, commissions, bureaus, divisions, offices, and agencies; defining the powers and duties of the Governor and other executive and administrative officers, and of the several administrative departments, boards and commissions; fixing the salaries of the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, and certain other executive and administrative officers; providing for the appointment of certain administrative officers and of all deputies and other assistants and employes in certain departments, boards, and commissions; and prescribing the manner in which the number and compensation of the deputies and all other assistants and employes of certain departments, boards, and commissions shall be determined," is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1304. Professional Education and Licensure.—The Department of Public Instruction shall have the power, and its duty shall be:

- (h) To keep the records of all of the professional examining boards established in the department;
- (i) To issue all certificates and other official documents of the various professional examining boards in the department: Provided, however, That the officers and members, or any of them, of any such examining board may also sign such certificates and other documents, if such board shall have taken action authorizing such signatures;
- (j) To assist any professional examining board within the department if, as, and when, requested by such board;
- (k) To cooperate with the several professions, whose examining bodies are within the department, in the determination and establishment of standards of professional education.

DISSENTING REPORT

Presented by Rt. Rev. John C. Ward, R. S. Marshall, M. D., Ross V. Patterson, M. D., and E. F. Shaulis, M. D.

The members of the Commission to Study the Laws Relating to the Healing Art, whose signatures are hereunto appended, respectfully present a further report, dissenting from the foregoing, both as regards statements of fact, and as to recommendations presented to the General Assembly for its consideration. The following statements, comments, and recommendations are presented with a sincere desire faithfully to serve the interests of the Commonwealth and its citizens.

CONCURRENCE IN RECOMMENDATION FOR ADVANCE IN MEDICAL PRELIMINARY EDUCATIONAL STANDARDS. The signatories hereto concur in the recommendation for an amendment to the Medical Practice Act specifying an advance in the preliminary requirements to two years of college work, including specified courses in Physics, Chemistry, and Biology, thereby making the Law conform to the practice of the medical schools, and placing it in consonance with the laws of nearly all of the other states of the country.

It is further believed that everyone who is to be given legal authority to care for sick or injured people, and upon whom dependence is to be placed for the enforcement of Health Laws, should be measured by the same standard of preliminary and professional education.

PRESENT LAWS SUBSTANTIALLY ADEQUATE. The Medical Practice Act of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is one of the most outstanding and satisfactory laws governing medical practice in this country. It has repeatedly been tested in the Superior and Supreme Courts, and its legality upheld by numerous Court decisions. It adequately protects the citizens of the Commonwealth from incompetent practitioners, and insures the observance and maintenance of Public Health Laws.

The law governing the licensure of Osteopaths and the practice of Osteopathy insures reasonably advanced standards of preliminary education and technical training.

In view of the satisfactory nature of these laws, any radical revision or modification of them would be unwise, and might jeopardize both the regulation of practice in various branches of the Healing Art, and the enforcement of laws designed to protect the public health.

The Medical Practice Act provides not only for the licensure of physicians whose preliminary, medical, and Hospital training come up to the highest standards, but provides, as well, for the licensure of drugless therapists of whatever nature; provided only that they shall evidence (1) a general education sufficiently comprehensive intelligently to enter upon scientific study; and (2) an elementary knowledge of the structure, func-with a knowledge of their causes, symptoms and methods of propagation, and other important facts necessary to the observance of the Health Laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Altogether, 236 persons have received licenses to engage in the practice of various forms of drugless therapy; included in the number are Chiropractors, Naprapaths, Neuropaths, Naturopaths, Spondylotherapists, and others. In addition, 681 persons have been licensed to practice Physiotherapy, and 502 to practice Chiropody. The foregoing evidences a satisfactory provision in the Medical Practice Act for the licensing of qualified practitioners in restricted branches of whatever character.

A large number of cultists unable to meet the reasonable and proper educational and technical requirements of the law have resisted its enforcement, have practiced illegally, and at various times, have demanded recognition and licensure on the same basis as others who have met the legal standards.

It should be emphasized that the present laws provide adequate opportunity for all qualified practitioners to be licensed by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania either under the Osteopathic Act, or under the Medical Practice Act, and, therefore, to engage lawfully in the practice of all forms of Drugless Therapy.

The enactment of legislation creating additional Boards would needlessly duplicate existing agencies. The demand for such legislation has for its object the licensure of a large number of illegal practitioners who are either unable, or unwilling, to comply with the present laws, and who are in no way deserving of special favor or consideration. The vast majority of them are unable to evidence even the equivalent of a High School education, and have little, if any, training in the fundamental medical sciences worthy of the name.

Section 6 of the Medical Practice Act reads in part as follows:

"And further, it shall be the duty of the said State Board of Medical Education and Licensure, at its discretion, to examine any person pretending to a knowledge of any branch or branches of medicine or surgery, for the purpose of establishing State Licensure. For this purpose it shall be the duty of the said Board to establish such oversight of the instruction and teaching of the schools or colleges or individuals so pretending, if any such obtain, as is provided for in this Act in the case of Medical schools and colleges; and, further, they shall conduct such limited examinations as are in their judgment necessary for the purpose of determining whether or not the applicant has a proper degree and knowledge of his or her subject, and of determining whether in other respects, as provided for in this Act, they are worthy of registration and State Licensure. For the purpose of conducting such examinations, the Board shall have the privilege of calling to its aid, men or women of established reputation and known ability in the particular pursuit under consideration, and who shall be compensated for their services at the rate of not more than Ten Dollars per day, in addition to all incurred expenses. Reciprocity and other provisions, as provided for in this Act in the case of Doctors of Medicine and Surgery, may be established, at the discretion of the Board, for these limited practitioners Such a system of special licensure being once established, it shall be unlawful thereafter for any person or persons to practice said system in this State without the said State certificate, etc."

CREATION OF AN UNLIMITED NUMBER OF SPECIAL BOARDS UNWISE AND NOT IN THE INTERESTS OF THE PUBLIC WELFARE. Bill No. 2 of this report, recommended by certain members of this Commission, under the provisions of Section 1, provides for the creation, from time to time, of an unlimited number of Boards for the licensing of various groups of cultists who might apply for recognition. If enacted, it would make mandatory upon an administrative department of the Commonwealth, the creation of such Boards without regard to the character of the group demanding them, and without opportunity to consider the merits of any special form of practice in which they might engage.

A partial list of drugless therapy cults, for each one of which the proposed Act makes possible the creation of a Board, is as follows:

Chiropractors
Neuropaths
Naturopaths
Naprapaths
Sanipractors

Thermopaths
Hydropaths
Iridiagnosticians
Neurocalometrists
Magnetic healers

Electrotherapists
Vitapaths
Heliopaths

Psychotherapists
Sagliflogists

To the foregoing many others could be added, and many others doubtless will be added as the faddists of the future may originate others to which they will give other names.

It is obvious that the public health is endangered by the automatic and wholesale licensing of multiple groups of those pretending to practice unusual forms of therapy; the public health laws are less well administered with independent separate Boards of control.

PROPOSED BILL UNWISELY DELEGATES UNUSUAL POWERS. It may be noted that the appointment of the proposed Board of Chiropractic Examiners is restricted to a choice from ten persons nominated by the Pennsylvania Chiropractic Association. It is easily possible that every one of those so nominated may be lacking in fundamentally essential qualifications, may have been a persistent law-breaker over a considerable period of time, and may be totally lacking in those educational qualifications which the Act itself specifies are to be enforced against others thereafter to be licensed.

It is further pointed out that the same statements might equally be true of any one of the other many additional Boards for which the Act provides.

MULTIPLE BOARDS OCCASION FINANCIAL BURDEN. Aside from the question of the wisdom of establishing such a number of multiple Boards, it may be pointed out that the creation of each one would impose upon the Commonwealth an expense beyond the amount of receipts from license fees and registration fees. In the interests of economy, therefore, a single Board, by avoiding needless duplication of officers, examiners, and records, avoids unnecessary expenses.

WHOLESALE LICENSURE OF CHIROPRACTICS. Section 6 of Bill No. 2 provides for the wholesale licensure of all persons engaged in the practice of Chiropractic in this Commonwealth for a period of five years prior to the passage of the proposed act, and likewise for those who have engaged in practice for a shorter period of time.

The proposed law is extremely lenient in failing to specify any educational requirements whatever to be enforced against those whose very affidavits evidence their non-compliance with existing laws over a long period of time.

In order to be accepted, in addition to such affidavit and the payment of an examination fee, the Board of Chiropractic Examiners must consider as reputable, Colleges of Chiropractic which have, in the opinion of the Department of Justice, been illegally conferring degrees in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

There are no qualifications whatever as regards preliminary education. Neither is American citizenship, or even a knowledge of the English language specified.

This provision makes possible the licensure of hundreds of persons who have for years defied the laws of Pennsylvania, who are unable to meet the requirements for examination by the Osteopathic Examining Board, or under the Drugless Therapy provisions of the Medical Practice Act.

It must be assumed that the majority of them are the undesirable residue of Chiropractic practitioners of insufficient preliminary education, inadequate technical training, many of whom were artisans or others engaged in various trades and occupations who have illegally entered upon the practice of a form of the healing art for pecuniary profit.

To legalize the practice of this group would be to endanger the health interests of the citizens of Pennsylvania, and weaken the support of those measures designed to protect the public from contagious and epidemic diseases.

The proposed Act specifies no penalties whatever for failure to restrict practice within the meaning of the definition contained in Section 11.

In effect the foregoing would fail to enforce against those admitted to such licensure educational requirements enforced against chiropodists, nurses, optometrists, and even undertakers. The requirements for licensure as an Osteopath necessitate the completion of not less than four years of high school work and one year of college work in Physics, Chemistry and Biology. The basic medical sciences cannot be comprehended by those who have not received such preliminary training.

It may be stated that there is no essential difference between the practice of Chiropractic and Osteopathy except that PRACTICE NOT RESTRICTED. Aside from the definition of Chiropractic (Section 11), there are no restrictions with regard to the extent to which licensees may engage in practice. There is no specific exclusion as regards the right to practice surgery, obstetrics, prescribe drugs, or to administer anaesthetics. The inclusion of a penalty for attempts to produce abortion implies the right to practice midwifery.

If this be the implication, it carries with it, of course, the right to execute birth certificates, probably death certificates, and certificates submitted in support of applications for compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Act.

ILLEGALITY OF DEGREES IN CHIROPRACTIC, NATUROPATHY, ETC. The conferring of the degree of "Doctor" by unauthorized groups or associations of individuals is in direct conflict with the Act of Assembly of 1895, which provides for institutions being properly chartered and authorized to confer degrees.

The Department of Justice, in a communication addressed to the Superintendent of Public Instruction, January 24, 1928, expressed the opinion that the Pittsburgh College of Chiropractic, the Eastern College of Neuropathy and Naturopathy of Philadelphia, and similar institutions incorporated in other states and registered in Pennsylvania, cannot, under any circumstances, grant degrees in this Commonwealth.

The degree of Doctor is by academic custom one reserved for award only to those of unusual learning by the great schools and universities of the world.

To recognize legally the validity of this degree awarded by so-called colleges without standing is an academic absurdity, and a fraud upon the citizens of the Commonwealth.

DEFECTIVE AND CONTRADICTORY FEATURES OF THE PROPOSED BILL. The Bill is defective, in that it delegates to the Department of Public Instruction. (Mill 2.)

The inspection and approval of technical schools in and out of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania without adequate provision as to how such technical information shall be obtained.

The Bill is contradictory in that it delegates similar authority to different agencies.

There is no specification whatever as to the qualifications of examiners to be appointed under authority of Section 5.

Various sections referring to so-called reputable Colleges of Chiropractic are very indefinite. In effect, such legislation would prove confusing and almost unworkable.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS: The Bill attempts to provide a method of licensing Chiropractors and other drugless healers, adequate provision for which has already been made by the appointment of a Board of Examiners under the State Board of Medical Education and Licensure, and a Board of Osteopathic Examiners. In making provision for the licensing of Chiropractors, nothing of importance is, therefore, added to the law. It does, however, very unwisely provide for the licensing of hundreds of persons to practice a form of medicine who are not required to furnish satisfactory evidence of either preliminary education or professional training. The advocacy of such legislation arises chiefly in various groups to be benefited by avoiding compliance with the reasonable and proper provisions of existing laws.

SCHOOLS OF CHIROPRACTIC AND NATUROPATHY. Chiropractic apparently originated in 1895, with D. D. Palmer, a magnetic healer of Davenport, Iowa. In its brief career of thirty-three years, it has had approximately one hundred and fifty schools, the vast majority of which are no longer in existence. According to B. J. Palmer, forty-eight Chiropractic Schools closed their doors in the two years preceding May, 1928. Several additional ones have closed since that time. The parent school, which at one time had over two thousand students, now has a little more than one-tenth of that number.

To those familiar with the elaborate equipment and curriculum found necessary to proper training in the science and art of healing today, and the preliminary education exacted of those admitted to medical study, the most impressive thing about Naturopathic and Chiropractic Schools and their graduates is not what they are, but what they are not. Of something less than fifty schools, a few are mere "branches" rather than separately existing institutions, and constitute considerably less than one-third of the number formerly existing.

All but a mere hand-full of the existing schools are so poorly housed, and so inadequately financed, that their continuation is problematical. Very few of them have one adequately trained teacher, and there are probably less than five expert, all-time ment of even five minutes of high school study. Not one of them gives so much as one worthwhile laboratory course, or has one worthily equipped laboratory. Not one of them conducts a clinic in which a wide variety of the common diseases may be studied, and there is not one clinic equipped with the trained personnel, or the scientific apparatus for the clinical diagnosis of a variety of common diseases, or having a laboratory equipped for checking such clinical diagnoses. There is not one of these schools whose students, or whose instructors have had any training or even observation in any worthwhile Hospital.

STATE REGULATION OF CHIROPRACTORS. It would appear to the signatory members of this Commission, as it has appeared to various officers of the Commonwealth, Educators, and others, that Chiropractic is a rapidly waning cult, that in a few more years it will have little importance, and be of little numerical consequence. With the exception of Kentucky, no State, in recent years, has passed legislation legalizing its practice, not withstanding constant endeavor and the expenditure of large sums of money.

The legislatures of many States have failed to pass acts granting Chiropractors and other cultists licensure. Some States have specifically delegated their regulation to Medical Examining Boards as is at present the practice in Pennsylvania. A list of those States which do not accord them independent recognition, or to regulate this form of practice through their Medical Boards of Licensure or State Boards of Examiners in basic sciences, with enforcement of high educational standards, is as follows:

Massachusetts	Michigan
Connecticut	Indiana
New York	Illinois
New Jersey	Wisconsin
Pennsylvania	Minnesota
Delaware	Louisiana
Virginia	Nebraska
West Virginia	Texas
South Carolina	Wyoming
Alabama	Colorado
Mississippi	Nevada
Ohio	Washington
Tennessee	District of Columbia

REPORT OF THE BARRIER PILLAR COMMISSION OF PENNSYLVANIA

Harrisburg, Pa., December 1, 1928.

To the General Assembly:

Sirs:

The Barrier Pillar Commission, appointed by you under Joint Resolution No. 393, hand you herewith their report and the draft of a bill relating to barrier pillars in the bituminous field "to protect the welfare and interests of employees, operators and property owners," the same being an amendment of Section 5 of Article III, and of Section 17 of Article IV of an act approved June 9, 1911, P. L. 753, commonly known as the Bituminous Mining Law of Pennsylvania.

The Commission has held meetings in Harrisburg, Johnstown, and Pittsburgh. It has obtained and considered the laws and experiences of other States and European countries. Some of its members have conferred at length with the Directors and other members of the United States Bureau of Mines, and the United States Bureau of Standards, and the Commission has had the benefit of the tests on coal and other studies carried on by those bureaus. Members of the Commission attended a symposium on the subject of barrier pillars, especially set up for the Commission by the American Institute of Mining the auspices of that Institute on ground movement and subsidence. The minutes of these meetings have kindly been put in the hands of the Commission. From many sources have come data dealing with strength of coal, experience with barrier pillars and much other desirable and necessary information.

After preliminary discussion, the Commission prepared a questionnaire which was sent to all of the bituminous mining companies of the State, and received in return a large amount of information and recital of experience. Later, two largely attended, all-day, public hearings were held, one in Pittsburgh, and one in Johnstown. At the request of the Commission Mr. George S. Rice of the United States Bureau of Mines, during a European trip the last summer, made a special study and inquiry of experience in England and elsewhere.

As a result of a study of all the information thus accumulated, the following general conclusions were reached.

1. The Commission found no record of a single instance in which water accumulated in one mine has broken through or pushed out an undisturbed barrier pillar with fatal results to men in lower workings, even though in some instances subsequent mining revealed that at points the pillar had been reduced to 10 feet or less.

A report covering 84 drowning disasters in England, showed that all but 18 were due to mining through into flooded workings where mine maps of those workings were faulty or lacking. The other 18 were cases of running into water-bearing strata over denuded coal, or into faulty and dislocated strata. U. S. Bureau of Mines Bulletin 115 lists 7 drowning catastrophes out of 308 major accidents. Three of these are listed as due to the inrush of surface waters or sand; of the 3 remaining, one was due to inrush of water from an old shaft. The other 3 were in Pennsylvania, and on investigation by the Commission, it was found that in each instance mining had been carried into forgotten or poorly mapped workings. "Through," as one of the juries found, "misleading maps and drafts."

2. Experience shows that although thickness of pillar in some instances has an effect on the amount of seepage or flow of water through the strata, in general it is not possible to prevent such flow by specifying a minimum thickness of pillar, as water has been known to flow an indefinite distance through the strata below and above the coal, and even through the pointing of the coal bed itself. Because of this, effort was concentrated on determining the minimum thickness of barrier pillar necessary to maintain itself indefinitely under the conditions of bed section, character of coal, depth of cover, character of roof and floor existing at any place.

3. At the Pittsburgh hearing it seemed to be the consensus of opinion that a pillar 100 feet in thickness is sufficient to maintain itself against any head of water, for any bed of coal up to 10 feet thick, and that for thinner beds, or moderate heads of water, 50 feet is ample, provided the integrity of the pillar could be insured. At Johnstown, opinion, though not so unanimously expressed, trended in the same direction and toward the same figures.

4. The data obtained and general experience indicated that to maintain intact at least a portion of the pillar would require a thicker pillar for a thick bed than for a thin bed, other things being equal. Also a thicker pillar would be required to maintain itself under heavy cover than under light cover.

5. By a convergence of the evidence the Commission has reached certain conclusions as to a safe minimum pillar for selected thicknesses of coal under selected depths of cover, assuming a large factor of safety to cover the less favorable conditions.

6. Having reached these figures a rule or formula was devised, as closely as possible, just covered these determined minimum requirements. Briefly it is that the minimum pillar shall be not less than 20 feet, plus four times the thickness of the coal bed, plus 10 feet for each 100 feet or fraction thereof of cover at the boundary in question.

7. The following table shows the application of this formula to various thicknesses of coal and depths of cover, it being understood that the act provides for one-half of the pillar to be left on each side of the property boundary line, save only where prevented by mining done prior to the ap-

Proposed thickness of barrier pillars, in feet.

8. It is recognized that in areas of crushed or faulty coal, or where coal is subject to squeezing, it is not possible to prescribe a general rule that will apply to all cases without making the rule burdensome under normal conditions. The proposed act, therefore, provides for the exceptional case as well as the normal.

9. The Commission also wishes to call attention to the figure 12, in Section 17 of Article IV, same act, and to recommend that that figure be increased to twenty-five. The figure refers to the distance to which drilling must be maintained ahead of workings designed to tap water in abandoned workings. Under present day mining methods, using up to 9-foot undercuts, this may leave only just over 3 feet of coal, which might conceivably blow out into the flooded mine. It is believed that the proposed figure of 25 feet will greatly increase the safety of tapping old workings.

Copies of all papers gathered in the study of the problem, including the minutes and briefs of the hearings, are filed in the Department of Mines.

The Commission desires to extend its thanks to all who have so liberally supplied information, and have given of their time, including all those who attended the hearings or in any way forwarded its work. The proposed draft of a bill is attached.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed)

AN ACT TO amend section five of article three and section seventeen of article four of the act approved the ninth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and eleven, (P. L. 756), entitled "An act to provide for the health and safety of persons employed in and about the bituminous coal mines of Pennsylvania, and for the protection and preservation of property connected therewith."

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That section five of article three of the act approved the ninth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and eleven, (P. L. 756), entitled "An act to provide for the health and safety of persons employed in and about the bituminous coal mines of Pennsylvania, and for the protection and preservation of property connected therewith," is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 5. The superintendent shall not permit the mining of coal within fifty feet of any abandoned mine containing a dangerous accumulation of water, until said danger has been removed by driving a passageway to tap and drain off said water, as provided for in this act: [Provided, That the thickness of the barrier pillars shall be greater and shall be in proportion of one foot of pillar thickness to each one and one-quarter feet of water head, if in the judgment of the engineer of the property and that of the district inspector it is necessary for the safety of the persons working in the mine.] The superintendent shall not permit the mining of coal the entire distance to a property boundary line, but shall leave a barrier pillar from the operation to the property boundary line of not less than ten feet plus two feet for every foot or part of a foot of thickness of the bed measured from or part of one hundred feet of cover over the bed at the boundary line; and where the coal on one side of the property boundary line shall have been previously mined closer to the property boundary line than hereinbefore permitted, then the barrier pillar to be left in the mine approaching the boundary line, shall be at least equal (when added to that already left in the adjacent mine), to that hereinbefore required on both sides of said property boundary line: Provided further, That, if in the opinion of the district mine inspector, or the superintendent of either property, there is a faulty condition or liability of squeezing, and the barrier pillar as hereinbefore required is deemed insufficient, then, after due notice to adjoining owner or owners, a barrier pillar of unmined coal (one-half of which shall be on each side of the property boundary line, except as provided above in this section) shall be left, of such thickness as in the judgment of the district mine inspector, and the superintendent or owner of either property is deemed necessary to afford safety and protection; and provided further, that if it shall be agreed by the superintendents or owners of adjacent coal mines, that the property boundary line is so located that there is no danger to property or lives in mining coal on either or both sides of the property boundary line up to said property boundary line, then in such cases, mining to the property boundary line shall be lawful if such agreement is first approved by the district mine inspector, and if all danger from accumulated water and gas shall have first been removed by driving a passageway to tap and drain off any accumulations of water and gas as provided for in this act.

Section 2. That section seventeen of article four of said act is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 17. In any working place that is being driven within supposedly dangerous proximity to an abandoned mine, or portion of an abandoned mine, suspected of containing explosive gas, or that may contain a dangerous accumulation of water, the mine foreman shall see that at least two bore holes shall be maintained not less than [twelve] twenty-five feet in advance of the face, and, on each side of such working place, bore holes of the same depth shall be drilled diagonally, not more than eight feet apart, and any place driven to tap water or gas shall not be more than eight feet wide. No water or gas from an abandoned mine, or portions of an abandoned mine, and no bore hole from the surface shall be tapped until the employees, except those engaged at such work, are out of the mine, and such work shall be done under the immediate instruction and direction of the mine foreman, with the use of locked safety lamps.

To the General Assembly, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, meeting in 1929.

Sirs:

We have the honor to transmit herewith the report of this Commission, which was authorized by Concurrent Resolution No. 86, approved May 13, 1927.

The purpose and duties of this Commission were defined in the resolution to be as follows:

The Commission shall study the laws, conditions and practice of this Commonwealth relating to crimes, criminal procedure and criminals; to examine the crime situation in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; the procedure, methods and agencies concerned with the detection of crime, the apprehension, bailing, prosecution and trial of persons accused of crime, and the punishment, treatment and pardon of convicted persons, and all other matters which have relation, directly or indirectly, to the crime situation in this Commonwealth, and such additional laws as may be made to embody the best thought and experience on these subjects; and to suggest revisions and amendments to the statutes of Pennsylvania which relate to any of the foregoing matters.

The present members of the Commission were appointed by Governor Fisher in September, 1927. On organization meeting was held in Philadelphia, October 8, 1927, at which time Charles Edwin Fox, Esq., was elected chairman; Honorable Robert A. Stotz, vice-chairman, and Earl Jay Gratz, secretary.

In order more carefully to inform itself as to the methods adopted and results accomplished by similar commissions in other states, this Commission invited to its meeting Mr. James S. Hebron, Director of the Baltimore Association for Criminal Justice, and Professor Raymond A. Moley, the advisor to the Missouri Crime Survey, the Illinois Association for Criminal Justice and the New York State Crime Commission.

After receiving from these gentlemen a comprehensive outline of the scope of work attempted by similar organizations, the members of this Commission determined that the limitations of time and of its appropriations of $25,000 required that this work should be confined to a restricted number of subjects.

This report, therefore, of necessity has ignored many aspects of the whole problem of crime and criminal procedure. It deals with the several subjects upon which it reports, as matters of Statewide significance; it makes no effort to comment upon the special problems of certain counties or cities of the Commonwealth.

The experiences of this Commission, even in the brief period of its existence of fourteen months, have clearly demonstrated to its members that the work of such a Commission ought to be continuous. The studies which have been begun by this Commission need to be pursued much further, and other subjects which have not been surveyed at all should hereafter be dealt with.

In other words, this Commission is very conscious of the fact that however earnest its efforts have been, it has merely "scratched" the surface of the whole problem. It feels certain that the present Assembly will realize that whatever work it has accomplished can only be made practical if a similar "Crime Commission" is authorized at the very outset of the present session of the Assembly, so that the work of a Crime Commission (even if the present personnel should be changed) may be uninterrupted.

This Commission does not feel it necessary to discuss the much-mooted question as to whether or not there is a "crime wave." On all sides there is a general agreement that the administration of the criminal laws and the present status of criminal procedure throughout the United States in general, and in Pennsylvania in particular, is not adequately meeting the problems with which it is confronted by the new phases of criminality and the new kinds of criminals.

Many statistics are being offered on this subject, but since the whole matter of criminal statistics is in such a chaotic condition at the present time (a subject which will hereafter be dealt with in more detail), it is not thought necessary to repeat them here. But one need not go far afield to find striking comparisons between crime conditions in this country and in Europe.

For example, the Report of the Commissioner of Police of the Metropolis of London for 1927 shows twenty-seven cases of murder of persons over one year of age. The report, with characteristic English brevity, adds, "all of the twenty-seven cases of murder were solved." In sharp contrast to this remarkable state of affairs is the report of the district attorney of Philadelphia county for the year 1927 (this county being about one-fourth the population of the metropolis of London), which shows one hundred and twenty-five homicide cases and in twenty-one of these cases the alleged perpetrators were fugitives.

A comparison of this one crime of violence in these two cities might present endless questions in searching for the reasons. By and large, such contrasting figures may have inspired the recent statement by an English observer* that America is the most lawless country in the world," and by Chief Justice Taft that "the administration of criminal justice in the United States is a disgrace to civilization."

The New York State Crime Commission (popularly known as the Baumes Commission) in beginning its work in 1926, concluded that a reformation in the laws governing the practice in criminal cases was urgent because such laws "were archaic, that they had broken down and had become ineffective." That Commission quotes with approval the statement of Dean Pound, of the Harvard Law School, as follows:

A highly developed system of substantive law and a specialized machinery of prosecution, administration, judicial organization, legal procedure and penal treatment, devised and shaped for pioneer, rural, agricultural America of the first half of the nineteenth century, are struggling with the wholly different conditions of the urban, industrial society of today. In the huge cities which have grown up all over the country in a generation the all adaptation of the machinery to the task is acute.

Our own Chief Justice von Moschzisker, in opening the judicial conference, to which reference will be made hereafter, has more concretely summed up the situation for Pennsylvania:

Rules of law are the tools of our craft, and the courts can not serve the public well unless the people, through their representatives in the Legislature, are willing to bring these rules up to date. The people have a right to ask the judges to inform the commission appointed by the Legislature in regard to reforms which their judicial experience indicates are necessary to achieve the end desired; that advice has been asked of us, and we are here to formulate, or to attempt to formulate helpful replies.

Much of the criminal law, dealing with both substance and procedure, took shape in the past, when conditions were radically different from those of today, at a time when urban communities were smaller and life was much simpler; before the period of quick locomotion and almost instantaneous communication; before the age of organized crime, and almost before we had a class of professional criminals. In those days society—in order to minimize the probability of wronging individual members through the imposition of the heavy penalties then so generally inflicted (frequently the death penalty)—guarded the trial of those accused of crime with many rules which have become wholly inappropriate to the present age; some of these are embodied in our statutes, and others are common law rules, so firmly established that, according to our custom, it will take legislation to change them.

The purpose of law is to make organized society possible; to fulfill this purpose the law at times protects the individual, but it must never be overlooked that this special protection of the individual is a mere incident of effective social organization, not its primary object; the real object of the criminal law is to protect society as a whole.

This Commission has fully realized the importance of the situation thus presented. In considering certain laws, it has endeavored to study them not alone as they appear on the statute books, but as they are actually operating in this Commonwealth; and it has viewed rules of procedure not in the light of the wording of such rules, but in the manner in which the rules are carried out or ignored in the actual trial of cases.

In the light of this necessary preliminary statement, there now follows a detailed account of the subjects approached by this Commission and its recommendations thereon.

Meeting of the Judicial Conference and Legislation Suggested as a Result of that Conference

Many Crime Commissions throughout the country have sought much of their information from social service experts, police investigators, prosecutors and laymen. All of these have had valuable points of view, which this Commission has also sought, but no Commission appears to have recognized the immense value of securing the combined point of view of the judiciary of the entire Commonwealth. With this thought in mind Chief Justice von Moschzisker was asked to call together all of the judges of Pennsylvania who had any contact at all with the administration of criminal law. For the co-operation given by his Honor, Chief Justice von Moschzisker, this Commission can not express itself too warmly. As a result of his efforts and the co-operation of a small committee of judges which he organized, there gathered in Philadelphia on April 6 and 7, 1928, seven members of the Supreme Court, five members of the Superior Court, eighty-four members of the Common Pleas Court, ten members of the Municipal Court of Philadelphia, two members of the County Court of Allegheny County, two ex-judges of Common Pleas and two judges of the Orphans' Court, who are privileged to sit in the criminal courts when called into the Common Pleas—in all one hundred and eight judges.

The deliberations of the judges at this conference developed many needs of reformation in criminal court practice which will undoubtedly be put into effect in many of the counties of this Commonwealth by the judges themselves.

There were, however, many suggested revisions in criminal procedure developed in these deliberations that can be remedied only by legislative action. These revisions, transposed into suggested Acts of Assembly, and now offered by this Commission, should merit the very earnest consideration of the Legislature.

If this Commission had accomplished nothing during its year's activity but the creation of this Judicial Conference, it would feel that it had taken a long step forward in matters pertaining to criminal procedure.

Furthermore, the conference is to be a continuing body, subject to the call of the chief justice. This very fact insures a constant examination of criminal laws and practices by these learned experts. If there shall be a continuing Crime Commission in Pennsylvania, and working in active co-operation with it a continuing Judicial Conference, this Commonwealth can gradually rid itself of many laws and practices which, accumulating over a long period of years, fetter the administration of justice and form matters of serious complaint.

The subjects for consideration by the Judicial Conference were restricted to those having to do with the trial and sentencing of persons accused and convicted of crimes. The social organization of crime and methods of crime prevention, although considered to be of extreme importance, were not considered because of pressure of time.

The Conference passed practically with unanimity the following nine resolutions:

1. Resolved, That the law forbidding adverse comment by court or counsel, on the failure of a defendant on trial to offer himself as a witness, should be repealed, to the end that all legitimate argument and comment thereon shall be allowed.

2. Resolved, It is the sense of the conference that, whenever, in the opinion of the trial court, the police or court records sufficiently indicate that defendant is a professional criminal, the Commonwealth should be permitted to present that fact in its case in chief, and that such police and court records should be admissible in evidence, in the discretion of the trial judge.

3. Resolved, That the right to separate trials of defendants jointly indicted for capital offenses should rest in the sound discretion of the trial court as in other cases.

4. Resolved, That the law should require the examination of prospective jurors on their voir dire to be conducted exclusively by the trial judge, subject to the right of counsel, after such examination, to suggest additional questions to be put to the prospective juror by the trial judge, in his discretion.

5. Resolved, That in all criminal cases, except capital cases and where a constitutional question is involved, the laws should be so amended as to permit appeals only after allowance thereof by a judge of the appellate court to which the appeal lies.

5. (a). Resolved, That the time for taking appeals in criminal cases should be limited to three weeks.

6. (a) (b). Resolved, That the Legislature be requested to pass a general act authorizing the appellate courts of the Commonwealth, with the approval of a majority of the judges of the courts of quarter sessions of the peace and over and terminer, to adopt, promulgate and enforce such rules as will expedite and standardize the trial and punishment of those charged with criminal offense, but so always as not to alter the statutory definition of any crime or to increase or diminish the punishment provided therefor.

6. (c-1). Resolved, That legislation should be enacted establishing a uniform rule of four days after trial within which motions for a new trial and in arrest of judgment must be filed.

6. (c-2). Resolved, That it is the sense of the conference that in granting a new trial the court hearing the motion should file of record a general statement of its reasons for that course. (This is an expression of the view of the assembled judges, not a suggestion for legislation.)

7. Resolved, That it is the sense of the conference that the trial of criminal cases not involving the higher felonies, by a judge without a jury, if the accused voluntarily gives his consent thereto, is desirable and should be incorporated in our penal system.

8. Resolved, That it is the sense of the conference that a system of increasingly graduated penalties dependent upon the number of former convictions of the accused but without the necessity of including such former convictions in the indictment on trial, should be incorporated in our penal system.

9. Resolved, That the Act of June 29, 1923, P. L. 973, commonly known as the Ludlow Act, has been found unsatisfactory in its practical operation under present conditions, and should be repealed.

To cover eight of these resolutions, there is appended to this report, and numbered 1 to 8 inclusive in the Appendix, suggested Acts of Assembly which have been drafted by this Commission after consultation with several judges who attended the Judicial Conference, and also after consultation with the Legislative Reference Bureau, which has co-operated splendidly with the work of this Commission. Resolution 8, dealing with the so-called Fourth Offender, is dealt with in a separate chapter of this report, and the suggested Act covering this subject is shown in Appendix 14.

All of these resolutions are clear. It is therefore not necessary to amplify with any detailed discussion, except the following comment:

Resolution 1. Gives permission to the court, district attorney and counsel for defendant to comment on the failure of the defendant to take the stand in his own behalf. This has long been the practice of many States. It has been urged in Pennsylvania that it is an infringement of the rights of a defendant on trial, but this plea is one of many others which have been made in order to insure the defendant not merely a fair trial but a decided advantage over the Commonwealth. If it infringed on the rights of the defendant it is safe to say that one hundred and eight judges would not have favored it. (See Appendix, Act No. 1.)

Resolution 2. Permits the record of persistent offenders or professional criminals to be presented during their trial. Upon this, the comments of two judges who addressed the conference on this resolution are illuminating:

I am strongly of the opinion that it is a wise thing in the administration of the criminal law to put very great powers in the hands of the trial judge, who, after all, is the man who knows the rules of the game, if you may so term it, that is being enacted and played before him, and it should be within his judicial discretion to determine the question as to whether or not as the case stands, it is the wise thing to allow the jury to know that the man before them is a professional criminal.

It is well stated law that you may introduce a man's criminal record to test his credibility in a civil suit, and in many instances the only defense that a defendant can offer is his evidence of good character. Why is not the reverse proposition just as fair for the Commonwealth? If the accused is a professional criminal, if he has proved himself an enemy of society, if by his police record in this or any other Commonwealth or community, he has convinced us that he is unfit to be at large, I take it that, in the interests of the safeguarding of society, the jury above everybody else ought to know the character of the man who is on trial.

Resolution 3. Joint trial of defendants. This permits two or more persons indicted for murder, to be tried jointly, in the discretion of the court, in the same manner as now applies to defendants charged with other crimes. The discussion of the judges pointed to many shocking miscarriages of justice that were made possible heretofore by denying to the judge the right to decide whether or not defendants charged with homicide should be tried jointly. One case was cited where three or more prisoners, equally culpable of the crime, by reason of having separate trials, were convicted: in one trial of murder and electrocuted, in another trial of second degree murder, and in a third trial on the same facts of manslaughter; a condition that degraded the whole process of criminal law. (See Appendix, Act No. 3.)

Resolution 4. Examination of jurors on their voir dire. There can be little debate as to the wisdom of having the judge, rather than opposing counsel, examine jurors. Among other advantages it will avoid the scandal presented in some recent cases, of hundreds of jurors being examined for three or four days before a jury box can be filled. As was pointed out in the Judicial Conference, not only has this been the practice in such States as Massachusetts for over half a century, but very recently the Judicial Council, consisting of the Chief Justice of the United States and the nine senior circuit court justices, recommended such rule for the District Court judges who conduct the federal jury trials throughout the United States. (Appendix, Act No. 4)

Resolution 5, 5 (a), 6 (a) (b) (c), 6 (c-1) (c-2) all refer to matters of procedure in criminal courts such as restricting the right of appeal, the time of appeal, motions prior to and during trial.

One of the cardinal defects of the administration of criminal law in this State and throughout the country as compared to its administration in Canada and England, is the possibility of incessant delays between the original trial and final disposition of the case. It was to minimize these delays and to insure "speedy justice" that these resolutions were passed and the statutes covering them were drafted. See Appendix, Acts Nos. 5, 5 (a), 6 (a), 6 (b), 6 (c).

Resolution 7. Trial without jury. Obviously another effort to speed up the administration of criminal law lies in dispensing with jury trials wherever possible. This has proved so efficacious in the State of Maryland, which has had this practice for many generations, that a recent report of the criminal courts of Baltimore City showed that ninety per cent. of all cases tried in the criminal courts were without a jury. As a result of this two criminal courts were sufficient to care for criminal dockets in that city, which has a population of nearly 800,000, and from time to time a single court was able to keep up with the work.

A similar law has been in existence in the State of Connecticut since 1921, and efforts will undoubtedly be made in many other jurisdictions to introduce this practice. This proposed statute is not based on any alleged weaknesses of present day American juries, but has for its fundamental purpose the saving of time and effort and expense—in short, of taking one more step for the simplification of criminal procedure.

A test case involving the right of waiver of trial by jury was argued before the superior and supreme courts in the matter of Commonwealth v. Hall, 291 Penna. 341. While the court decided against the constitutionality of such practice, there seems to be an indication in the opinion that this could be remedied by legislative action. (See Appendix, Act No. 7.)

Resolution 8. This deals with the proposed "fourth offender" Act, and is treated elsewhere in this report.

Resolution 9. Repeal of Ludlow Act. The clause in the so-called Ludlow Act which has given rise to extended discussion forbids the minimum sentence to exceed one-half of the maximum sentence. Upon the advisability of this law there has been a violent difference of opinion ever since it was enacted. Indeed, it might be stated that the difference of opinion goes back farther than that, because after it was passed by the General Assembly and before being signed by the Governor, the State Bar of Pennsylvania unanimously asked the Governor to veto this Act. Social workers generally and some of the judges are convinced that it has been a most beneficial measure; other judges are equally convinced that it has been a serious handicap to proper law enforcement.

The Act as drafted by this Commission, does not repeal the so-called Ludlow Act, because that act is an amendment to Section 6 of the Act of June 19, 1911, P. L. 1055, and to repeal this amendment would perhaps leave the Act of 1911 without a Section 6. The statute proposed by this Commission merely eliminates the clause which forbids the minimum sentence to exceed one-half of the maximum sentence, leaving the discretion to the courts to pronounce minimum and maximum sentences without restriction. (See Appendix, Act No. 8, and minority opinion of Dr. Louis N. Robinson.)

II

District Attorneys' Conference

In conjunction with the Judicial Conference, the District Attorneys' Association of Pennsylvania held its annual meeting in rooms adjoining the judges' conference, and discussed many of the measures that occupied the attention of the judges. Practically all of their resolutions concurred with the matters above referred to, with two additions:

1. It was the opinion of the district attorneys that there should be an amendment to the Act relating to involuntary manslaughter so that the sentence for this offense, particularly where it involved killing by automobile, should be increased to five years instead of the inadequate two years now provided. (See Appendix, Act No. 9.)

2. Many important criminal trials now result in failure for the Commonwealth because of its inability to bring material witnesses from adjoining States. The district attorneys' conference therefore suggested that an act be passed setting up an arrangement of comity with States having similar legislation, whereby a subpoena from Pennsylvania will be given the same force and effect in that other State as if issued within that State. (See Appendix, Act No. 10.)

III

The Need For a System of Accounting

Every year some 15 millions of dollars are being expended in the administration of the criminal laws of this Commonwealth for the protection of the most sacred things in life. Are the taxpayers getting a reasonable return on their investment? Is this expensive machinery for crime-prevention producing results?

At the present time it is impossible to do more than guess at the answers to these questions because we have no way of checking up on the effectiveness of the operation of the machinery.

No private enterprise could long exist without providing adequate means of determining the relation between its machinery and its product. If it not, therefore, fair to assume that this huge public machine called the administration of criminal justice could be made more effective by the installation of some system which would determine the effectiveness of its operation? As now constituted the administration of criminal justice consists of a single operation working through a number of unco-ordinated agencies, namely: the police, justices of the peace, district attorneys, grand juries, courts, judges, juries, probation officers, reformatories, jails, work-houses, penitentiaries, parole officers and boards of pardons and paroles.

At the present time there exists no co-ordinating agency in the administration of criminal justice, no agency for determining the effectiveness of all these independently operating machines; no agency for diagnosing the weaknesses in the functioning of these various parts, or for suggesting proper remedies where defects are found.

One of the first steps that ought to be taken toward more efficient administration is the creation of a bureau in the State Department of Justice, charged with the duty of following major criminal cases through from the time of the original report of the crime until the final disposition of the case. Such a bureau by means of periodical reports should strive to keep alive and sustain public interest, because it is impossible to proceed with a problem faster than public opinion will permit. Once public opinion is aroused such a bureau might encourage organized action through local crime commissions and civic bodies. If this is done we may then look for the real contest between organized public interest and organized crime. There is set forth in the Appendix of this report a bill requiring reports to be made to the Department of Justice. (See Act No. 18.)

In order to ascertain the value of such a bureau, this Commission has employed a great deal of its time and of the appropriation placed at its disposal, to gather from the 67 counties of the Commonwealth statistical information regarding every major crime committed during the year 1926 in which the accused was apprehended and held for the grand jury. In four of the largest cities information was sought regarding every person arrested for these major crimes. The year 1926 was selected rather than 1927 because many of the cases of persons arrested during the latter year had not been disposed of.

Forty-four thousand cases were studied—almost twice the largest number examined by any other Crime Commission.

No attempt was made in the gathering of this information to fix official guilt or to find fault with any persons having to do with the administration of the criminal law.

These figures may well serve the purpose of establishing for the guidance of all of the counties a happy medium whereby each process in a criminal trial can and may be conducted with greater efficiency and with more satisfaction to both the Commonwealth and to the defendant.

Statistical surveys have been overdone in some quarters, especially by organizations engaged in propaganda for this or that purpose, and have given rise to the expression that "figures do not lie but liars do figure." The purpose of the statistical information which this Commission has obtained was to support no pre-conceived theory of its own, but rather to answer many questions which must be answered if criminal processes are to be improved. What part does the preliminary hearing play in the disposition of criminal matters? What part does the grand jury hearing play; the jury trial? What proportion of arrested persons come to trial; that proportion is convicted; what proportion is acquitted? What proportion of convicted criminals are sentenced? How many serve their sentence? What is the length of time necessary between the original arrest and the final disposition of the case? What are the major crimes? What proportion of each of these crimes reaches final disposition either by way of conviction or acquittal?

All of these and many more questions must be answered, not by conjecture, not by prejudice, but by facts and figures gained from the records of the courts themselves, if there is to be an improvement in the whole administration of criminal law in this Commonwealth. In a separate chapter of this report some of these findings are put forth. The Commission has also gathered a wealth of statistical material which has not yet been tabulated or analyzed.

IV

The Parole System in Pennsylvania and the Proposed Board of Parole Commissioners

Although many of the subjects dealt with by this Commission in this report have to do with the actual trial of criminal cases, the subject of parole was deemed an important one for consideration at this time.

The proper administration of parole is not, as many persons believe, merely a question of social effort to rehabilitate a discharged prisoner, but rather a very important phase of punishment, and also of protection for the community.

It is in this spirit that this Commission has studied the present status of parole as it has to do with the discharge and subsequent supervision (or rather, lack of supervision) of prisoners from the Eastern and Western Penitentiaries, and from the Huntingdon Reformatory; also as it will affect the Central Penitentiary and the State Industrial Home for Women.

It is apparent to this Commission that it is a very short-sighted and dangerous policy for the Commonwealth to permit the parolees from these institutions, numbering between one thousand and fifteen hundred, to remain unsupervised.

This Commission is therefore submitting a careful study of the subject of parole from these institutions. This study was made by Professor Clair Wilcox, who was originally employed by the Commission on Parole which reported to the 1927 Legislature, and who has now revised his findings for the purpose of this report. In the light of his findings, the Commission has somewhat modified the Acts which were submitted to the 1927 Legislature for the creation of a parole commission and the establishment of parole supervisors throughout the State. This Commission believes that such measures would be most practical in controlling men who may become dangerous law-breakers. At the same time the establishment of such a parole commission, and the setting up of a department of parole supervisors would provide for more than mere police surveillance; they would serve a necessary and humane purpose in the rehabilitation of men who have broken the law. The State would be serving itself as well as these men by lending its assistance to restore them as law-abiding citizens in the community. Illinois is spending $500,000 a year for this necessary work; Pennsylvania about $15,000. (See Appendix, Acts Nos 11, 12, 13.)

The "Fourth Offender" Act

There is submitted herewith an Act which aims to impose a series of increasingly heavier sentences upon persistent offenders. This Act is clearly to be differentiated from the widely known "Baumes Fourth Offender Act" passed several years ago in the State of New York.

The Baumes Act requires a judge to sentence a fourth offender in certain cases of felony to life imprisonment, leaving no discretion whatsoever to the court. This Commission has considered the matter carefully and is not at all convinced that it is wise to take such a drastic step as to tie the hands of the court, even though a man may be convicted of his fourth major offense. It is as true that some men should be imprisoned for life after their first offense as unregenerate criminals as it is true that other men after the commission of their fourth offense should not be locked up for the balance of their natural lives.

Even in New York State there have been striking differences of opinion as to the wisdom of the mandatory provisions of the Baumes Act. Prior to the opening of the 1928 Assembly of the State of New York, District Attorney Banton of New York County, an able and vigorous prosecutor, expressed himself definitely that the law should be amended so as to leave the sentence in each case in the sound discretion of the court. A portion of his statement follows:

Not to amend the law in this regard is a clear indication that the legislature lacks faith in the integrity of our judges. It is because of my faith in our judges, as well as the demands of conscience and justice, that I advocate this amendment.

We have convicted nearly as many persons as fourth offenders in New York County as have been convicted in all the other counties of the State. While I disapprove the mandatory provisions of the law, it is my duty to enforce it, and it has been enforced vigorously. In a great majority of the cases the life sentence was proper and just. There were some cases in which I had grave doubts.

Out of more than 165 convictions of first and second offenders for serious crimes in this county, I think about 75 were fit subjects for life imprisonment. If I had my way, the court would be permitted to send a 'confirmed criminal' to prison for the rest of his natural life, even on his first conviction.

When this matter was submitted to the Judicial Conference of this Commonwealth called by Chief Justice von Moschzisker it was unanimously resolved that it was the sense of the conference that a system of increasingly graduated penalties should be imposed, dependent upon the number of former convictions of the accused. This thought has been introduced into the Act now presented by this Commission, with permission vested in the trial judge to sentence to life imprisonment for a fourth conviction. Not only is such a sentence not made mandatory upon the judge, but the propriety of such a sentence is reviewable by the upper court.

For a second and third major offense the convicted man may be sentenced for a term the maximum of which shall be not more than twice the longest term prescribed upon first conviction for such offense.

Thus "teeth" have been suggested for the laws providing for the punishment for these major crimes without creating conditions that have caused so much opposition to the New York statute. (See Appendix, Act No. 11.)

VI

Firearms Legislation

It is apparent to this Commission that a great deal of the lawlessness which is now rampant throughout the State is not the result of inadequate legislation, but rather of antiquated methods of enforcing such legislation. There is one outstanding exception to this that is crystal clear to this Commission—the absence of adequate legislation on the subject of firearms. It seems almost incredible that in this day when "gunmen" are all powerful and have worked appalling loss of life and property in the cities, and recently even in the rural area of Pennsylvania, the statutes dealing with the sources of their power—namely, firearms—should be restricted to three wholly inadequate acts.

These are the Act of March 18, 1875, prohibiting the carrying of concealed deadly weapons, the Act of March 3, 1876, prohibiting the pointing of deadly weapons, and the Act of June 11, 1885, prohibiting the manufacture and sale of toy deadly weapons.

To provide "bandit-chasing squads of police," to establish "bandit courts," to impose extraordinary sentences upon the comparatively few gunmen who are brought to trial—each a worthy step in itself—is, when viewed in the light of what little has been accomplished against the so-called gunmen, very much like locking the stable door after the horse has been stolen.

No one has seriously contended that placing many restrictions about the sale and use of firearms will not seriously handicap the professional criminal. Against this, possibly the strongest argument is "that the gunman will go into an adjoining State to purchase his weapons." But, if Pennsylvania and other States were to follow the lead of the increasing number of States which are providing firearms legislation, this argument would soon be as ridiculous as it is now insincere.

There is legislation in this State against the sale of cigarettes, the sale of food, the sale of mattresses, of seeds, paints, dogs, bottles, etc., but not a single line on the statute books regarding the sale of the weapons with which the professional criminal makes possible his depredations. Even the Act of 1875, dealing with the carrying of concealed deadly weapons, is made a mockery by the fact that the gangster and gunman today carries his weapon not on his person, but in the automobile with which he sets out for the commission of his crime—a mockery of the law which is sought to be remedied in the Act proposed by this Commission.

In 1925, according to reliable statistics, no fewer than 12,000 persons lost their lives through acts of violence in this country. That was at the rate of ten murders to every 100,000 population, and was exactly double the rate that prevailed in 1900. Seventy per cent. of the murders in 1925 were committed by professional criminals, in cold blood.

A five-year survey of twenty-eight American cities, with a total population of twenty-two millions, showed the following:

	Number of homicides.	Rates per 100,000 population.

In that long list of murders in America, the revolver or sawedoff shot gun has been the principal weapon used.

In Philadelphia, in 1908, out of 63 homicides, 29 were shooting cases; in 1925, out of 175 homicides, 74 were shooting cases; in 1926, out of 138 homicides, 79 were shooting cases; in 1927, out of 127 homicides, 67 were shooting cases. To present the facts in another way, between 1908 and 1916, 30 per cent. of the murders in Philadelphia were committed with a gun, between 1917 and 1925, 45 per cent. in 1926, 57 per cent., and in 1927, 50 per cent.

The Baumes Commission in recommending its pistol law stated:

At the present time the people of New York State may be said to be living in a fool's paradise. They know that the tools of the criminal today are the pistol and the automobile—the pistol to intimidate his victims and his pursuers, and the automobile to make his getaway—and they believe that the laws have done everything possible to control the pistol evil and that nothing effective can be done until all the States in the Union unite on uniform legislation, or until Congress finds some way to stop the manufacture, transportation and sale of these dangerous weapons.

It has been urged that there should be a Federal statute, but Congress can not under the Constitution pass an Act applicable to conditions within the borders of individual States, but can only regulate the transportation of firearms in interstate commerce.

In the present grand jury investigation in Philadelphia it was disclosed that one dealer in firearms, located on the busiest street in Philadelphia, had sold over one hundred machine guns that could fire more than one hundred bullets a minute, without taking any receipts therefor or making any record of the persons to whom the sales were made.

Similar conditions have been found regarding the sale of ordinary pistols. A reputable firearms concern, within a few squares of City Hall, Philadelphia, sold two dozen pistols to two Chinamen and the next day a Tong war broke out.

A certain murder case tried in Philadelphia established the fact that the pistol which effected the death was purchased on Sunday more readily than other articles of ordinary use.

Over and against these brief illustrations is an example of what regulation could effect: A guard of a United States mail truck was held up and murdered under particularly atrocious circumstances in Elizabeth, N. J., several years ago, and a pistol was dropped by one of the bandits as he escaped. Within an hour it was possible to ascertain from the number on the pistol that it had been sold by an ammunition firm in Connecticut to a retailer in Philadelphia. That retailer on his own initiative had attempted to keep a record such as this Commission's proposed Act would require, but the purchaser of the pistol was under no compulsion of law to identify himself, and the identity which he did furnish the retailer brought the police in their search to a vacant lot in West Philadelphia.

The American Bar Association has recently sent to every State in the Union a standardized form of Firearms Act; the National Crime Commission has made a similar effort. About fifteen States have in recent years enacted firearms legislation, some of which is adequate.

It is from the experience of these States, and the advantages and disadvantages which the legislation in each of them discloses, that the Act recommended by this Commission has been drafted.

It largely consists of the last revision of the Firearms Act presented by the District Attorneys' Association to the General Assembly in 1927.

After the original draft submitted by the District Attorneys' Association had been studied carefully in the Senate Committee, and the objection of firearms' dealers, sportsmen's associations, law enforcement officials and others had been considered, it was presented to the Senate as Bill No. 710 and defeated by a single vote too late in the session of the Assembly to permit its being reconsidered.

This Commission has again gone over this Act and after a few minor revisions believes that it represents a sane, constructive and absolutely necessary piece of legislation that would go farther in the suppression of the dominating criminal element of today than any other measure or series of measures.

Particular concern was voiced in the last Legislature that this Act might interfere with the sportsmen of the State. It might be said in passing that true sportsmen would make certain sacrifices in their pleasures or other customs in the interest of the serious problem of crime that confronts every section of this Commonwealth.

But quite apart from this argument it can be definitely stated that the sportsmen are in no way handicapped by the proposed Act.

Under the Game Act it is lawful to hunt with a gun, pistol or revolver of a kind, the use of which is not prohibited in the proposed Act. In the Game Act it is provided that it shall be unlawful to use an automatic gun, automatic firearm of any kind, swivel gun or air rifle or silencer.

The prohibition as to possession referred to in section 2 of the Act and prohibiting such possession of machine gun, automatic rifle, automatic shot gun or riot gun (except by banks and public carriers) does not put the hunter at any disadvantage because by the game law he is prohibited from hunting with such weapons.

The prohibition against possession, etc., of a shot gun having a barrel of less than 24 inches in length, or a rifle having a barrel of less than 15 inches in length refers to so-called sawed-off shot guns. These lengths are the minimum lengths of barrels of shot guns and rifles sold to hunters in the regular course of business.

Briefly summarized, the Act recommended, provides the following outstanding features:

Prohibits manufacture, sale, importation into State, possession, transfer, etc., of machine guns, automatic rifles, shot guns, silencers and other deadly weapons.

Prohibits carrying of firearms in vehicles as well as on person.

Minors, aliens and persons previously convicted of crimes of violence are prohibited from carrying or possessing firearms.

Punishes commission or attempt to commit crime of violence while armed with firearms by imposing increasingly severe penalties for first, second, third and fourth offenses, the penalty for the latter being from twenty years to life.

Confiscation and destruction of unlicensed firearms.

Licenses to possess or carry, to be issued by the Director of Public Safety, Chiefs of Police or other peace officers. This license to be issued only after written application, fully identifying the purchaser, including fingerprints and photographs.

Retail and wholesale dealers in firearms, including pawnbrokers, to be licensed, and firearms registered. Sales regulated by the registry of such transactions, forwarding copy of such registry to police officials, delaying delivery for forty-eight hours after sale.

These are the outstanding features. The Act also provides for certain reasonable exemptions that will protect the sportsmen, peace officers, antique collectors, farmers in the protection of their homes, etc. (See Appendix, Act No. 15.)

There is also set forth in the Appendix (Act No. 16) an Act making "bail jumping" an offense in itself; and an Act (No. 17) continuing the work of a Crime Commission for the next biennium.

VII

Conclusion

As indicated elsewhere in this report, this Commission is very mindful of the fact that it has dealt with only a few of the many matters dealing with the crime situation in this Commonwealth.

For example, the causes of crime present a subject worthy of a searching study in itself because it is obvious that it will not suffice merely to modernize the matters of criminal court procedure and ignore the many elements that may enter into the matter of prevention of crime. Preventive measures in turn can only be intelligently dealt with by going back still another step to the question of causes of crime. This in turn involves a consideration of juvenile courts, which has not been touched upon in any portion of the foregoing report.

On the purely legislative side the commission wishes to remind the Legislature that the subject of the revision of the criminal code is one that has been before the Legislature on a number of occasions, but has never been acted upon with finality.

Several painstaking commissions have reported upon this subject to Legislatures in the past, but few, if any, of their recommendations have been adopted. There is an artificial distinction between felonies and misdemeanors in this Commonwealth that is constantly leading to confusion in the courts, and in many cases to miscarriage of justice. It has been pointed out that there is an "utter lack of principle in the grading of crimes as felonies or misdemeanors, either according to the moral heinousness of the offense or the severity of the punishment."

Dean William E. Mikell, of the University of Pennsylvania Law School, has pointed out many of these inconsistencies, to which brief reference can only be made at this time: Bigamy is a misdemeanor; embezzlement by servant a felony; assault and battery with attempt to rape is a misdemeanor, with intent to rob, a felony; blackmailing is a misdemeanor, receiving stolen goods is a felony; the latter offense is punishable by a fine of $500 and three years' imprisonment, while forgery, which is only a misdemeanor, is punishable by twice the fine, $1000, and three and one-third times imprisonment, namely, ten years. And there are dozens of similar incongruities.

If this Commission is to be continued it should be charged with the duty of presenting to the next Legislature another report upon the subject of the criminal code.

Three matters left in abeyance by the conference of judges should also come before the Crime Commission if continued for the next biennium:

(1). The question of a suitable method of furnishing trial courts with credible information as to the mental condition of persons indicted for or convicted of crime (this also involving the desirability of separating the trial of a defense of insanity from other defenses in criminal cases, so as to have that issue tried at a different time before a special jury).

(2). The question of the present method of selecting jurors in the various judicial districts of the Commonwealth.

(3). The question of whether or not the law should be altered so as to permit the rendering of verdicts by agreement of less than twelve jurors in all except homicide cases.

All of these subjects were referred by Chief Justice von Moschizker to special committee which will hereafter report to the judicial conference.

This Crime Commission was of the opinion that it should defer consideration of these important subjects until after the subcommittees had debated them. These subcommittees had not concluded their deliberations at the time this report was printed.

Reference must again be made to the fact that all of the subjects considered by this commission are of State-wide application as distinguished from local concern.

It is difficult, in the many complex phases of the crime situation, to determine what matters are of State-wide and which of local application.

"Criminals are increasingly a transient class. Every failure in the administration of any phase of criminal law in any part of the State is of vital concern to all citizens of the State. Certain types of criminals locate in large cities, plan expeditions into the smaller cities, villages and the open country to commit their depredations upon banks, shops, homes and farms. Crime and the criminal are mobile." (Minnesota Crime Commission report.)

Against this very serious state of affairs, the State endeavors to cope with crime by a system which leaves every county or part of a county as a power unto itself. There is little or no coordination of effort between sheriffs, police and prosecutors of different counties or even of adjoining counties. Even within the same county the forces charged with the attack on crime may not be correlated. It is hoped that the proposed bureau in the Department of Justice may be the beginning of such State-wide co-ordination and co-operation. Until that is effected the mere revision of criminal statutes will serve but a small part in the purposes to be accomplished, and criminals will continue to have the upper hand.

The homely analogy of the "tail wagging the dog" might be here expressed. It seems preposterous that such a small portion of the community as the criminal class could in the past few years have accomplished so much in its warfare upon the larger part of the community which has organized and perhaps over-organized itself for every object except its own protection. It is hoped that a start in the other direction has been made by the recommendations presented herewith.

In conclusion, this Commission wishes to express its indebtedness for the co-operation afforded by many of the judges, district attorneys, clerks of courts, aldermen, magistrates and police officials throughout the Commonwealth. A special mention must be made of the co-operative spirit of the Municipal Court of Philadelphia, which relinquished for nine months the services of its stacionian, Mr. Frank S. Drown, so that this Commission might have the benefit of his help. The Legislative Reference Bureau, represented by Mr. John H. Fertig, has been constantly at the disposal of this Commission.

Respectfully submitted,

The Pennsylvania Crime Commission.

A Statistical Study of Criminal Cases in the Courts of Pennsylvania.

A. The Situation at Large.

This statistical inquiry into the administration of criminal justice is the first that has ever been undertaken in Pennsylvania. Criminal statistics were utterly lacking and we have had to break much new ground. With the small amount of money at our disposal for this particular task, the scope of the investigation had to be greatly limited. Nevertheless, some 65,000 criminal cases were examined in the 67 counties of the Commonwealth. Of this number 44,000 were studied intensively, and every significant fact of recorded information concerning each of these, from the time of arrest until its final disposition, was transcribed by the field agents to the schedule cards. Most significant and interesting facts have been brought to light.

Before comprehensive and satisfactory information relative to the nature and extent of crime and the administration of criminal justice can be obtained for Pennsylvania, the methods of keeping records now in vogue in the offices of justices of the peace, police, magistrates, constables, district attorneys, etc., will have to be radically changed. Some of these officials consider these public records to be their own personal property, holding on to them when they go out of office. Others seem to think it is no concern of the Commonwealth what business they carry on and hence keep no records. It is little short of ridiculous to assume that an improvement can be brought about in the administration of criminal justice when it is almost impossible for anyone to find out what that business consists of.

No attempt was made by this Commission to delve into the complex problem of the relation of prohibition to crime. This was to large a subject for us to undertake at this time. Violation of liquor laws was not included in our list of 29 major crimes. Nevertheless we did discover that of the total number of cases held for the grand jury, violation of liquor laws led with a percentage of 17. What part these cases constituted of the total number heard by justice of the peace and police magistrates it is impossible for us to say. In our opinion, it would certainly be worth while to look more deeply into this class of crimes, which numerically is now the most important with which grand juries have to deal. Cases of nonsupport or neglect of family ranked second, with 13 per cent.; larceny ranged third, with 10 per cent.; embezzlement and frauds ranked fourth, with 8 per cent. These offenses combined with assaults, burglary, and sex-offenses constituted 78 per cent. of the criminal cases in the Commonwealth.

One of the most significant things brought out by this statistical survey is the enormous significance in our scheme of criminal justice of those who conduct the preliminary hearings—justices of the peace, police magistrates and other members of the minor judiciary. In the four cities in which this question was studied, 74 per cent. of the cases were eliminated in the preliminary hearing. One thing is certain, either the police arrest on totally insufficient evidence or these lower courts through inefficiency or political expediency are failing lamentably in doing their duty to the public. "A chain is as strong as its weakest link," and the strength of a system of criminal justice depends in large part on two links—its police and minor judiciary.

There has been much discussion recently in regard to the elimination of useless steps in procedure. It has been suggested that the responsibility for the prosecution should be placed squarely on the district attorney. At the present time, he shares this with the grand jury with respect to those cases which come up from the lower courts. Our investigation shows that the grand jury eliminated 16 per cent. of the cases which came before them. On the other hand, we find that district attorneys disposed of by "nolle prosequi" 16 per cent. of the cases which the grand juries passed on to them. It is interesting, too, to note that only about one-fifth of the district attorneys of the Commonwealth gave reasons in writing for petitioning for nolle prosequi. Our study also shows that while it took the county trial courts of the Commonwealth on an average 56 days to try and convict a person accused of a major crime, 40 of these days were consumed in waiting for the grand jury to meet and act.

It is well worth further study as to whether or not the grand jury hearings might well be dispensed with except for inquisitorial purposes.

Our investigation has covered the field of probation and has revealed an inadequate and undeveloped system. Not only is it little used in some counties, but there is everywhere a woeful lack of probation machinery. Just what our general figures on probation mean is hard to say. Where the probation system is well developed 18 per cent. would be considered a small proportion to place on probation.* In view of the present conditions of probation in Pennsylvania, this is probably too large. While we must not charge this up against probation, it is worth noting that the sentence was suspended without any attempt at probation supervision in 11 per cent. of the cases in which guilt was established by plea or by verdict, and that in 6 per cent. more of these "guilty" cases there was no record of any sentence being imposed. It is hoped to present a supplemental report on the subject of probation.

Is a jury trial essential to secure justice? A large part of those who come before the trial judge evidently do not think so. Some 44 per cent. pleaded guilty to the offense charged and an additional 3 per cent. decided not to contest. Nearly one-half of those who were brought to trial admitted their guilt and saved the county the cost of a trial. It is certain, therefore, that a large proportion of those who pleaded "not guilty" would have been entirely satisfied to have been tried without a jury. This has been the experience in other States where the accused has been given the right to be tried before a jury or before the court alone. Actually, the petit jury plays its role in only about one-third (35 per cent.) of the cases entering the trial courts.

* In Milwaukee, 41 per cent of those guilty of felonies were placed on probation.

Delay is a prime factor in the obstruction of justice. Of what importance is it in Pennsylvania? Fifty per cent. of the cases of major crimes which were sentenced took 56 days or more from arrest to final disposition. Cases in which the defendants waived hearing by grand jury and pleaded guilty took on the average for the whole State 18 days. Cases in which the defendant pleaded guilty after indictment by the grand jury took 46 days. Cases tried and acquitted took 80 days, as compared with 56 days for cases tried and convicted. We must remember that many of the people must spend their time in jail until the final verdict is rendered. It seems to us that better organization of the working time of the courts would probably cut down this period of waiting at least one-half. Such action would not only reduce the hardships of innocent people but would probably result in more convictions. Witnesses disappear and facts necessary for conviction seem to evaporate in proportion to the length of time intervening between arrest and final disposition.

It is greatly to be regretted that our figures do not include "crimes known to the police." We would then know what proportion of those engaged in the various types of crimes are really brought to book. We have already pointed out that the average number thrown out at the preliminary hearing in the four cities studied was 74 per cent. This is bad enough but our impression is that the total number of arrests is but a small fraction of the crimes known to the police. In the four cities, only 12 per cent. of the arrest cases reached the stage where guilt was either acknowledged or conclusively proven. Throughout the entire 67 counties of the Commonwealth only 31 per cent. of all the cases which got as far as the grand jury stage of the criminal process were punished, and it is interesting to compare these figures with percentages in cities of other States—29 per cent. in Chicago, 38 per cent. in New York City, and 44 per cent. in Milwaukee.

We are entirely too much concerned with those whom we do catch and convict. Certainty of arrest and of conviction is a prime factor in crime prevention. Harsh sentences and dubious treatment in prisons and reformatories of the few who are caught and convicted are the usual but impotent means of protecting society from the depredation of criminals. The machinery of criminal justice need not be only 12 per cent. efficient, even when measured solely by the number of arrests.

B. Scope and Method of the Survey.

This report consists of an analysis of what happened to 43,919 criminal cases resulting from arrests made in 1926 for 29 major crimes in the 67 counties of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The term "major crimes" is used in this report to indicate the 29 crimes studied intensively by this Commission. Because of the absence of any scientific distinction between felonies and misdemeanors in Pennsylvania it was necessary to select from among the scores of specific offenses those which it was believed the citizens generally, when speaking of crimes, have in mind, i. e., crimes of violence, plus some of the other more serious crimes not involving violence, plus some of the other more serious crimes not involving violence. These 29 major crimes were selected after consideration of the surveys made in Cleveland, Illinois, Missouri, New York State and Baltimore. Valuable assistance in selecting a list of crimes was also given by Dr. William E. Mikkell, Dean of the University of Pennsylvania Law School. It is realized, of course, that the social consequences of many of the other crimes, such as violations of liquor laws, tax laws, motor vehicle laws, factory and child labor laws may be greater than the social consequences of all murders and all cases of rape.

The 29 "major crimes" selected for study were: murder, manslaughter, rape, assault and battery to rape, robbery, assault and battery to rob, assault and battery to kill, aggravated assault and battery (comprehending, inter alia, assault with firearms, and wounding with intent to maim, disfigure, or disable; assault and battery by poisoning, stabbing, wounding with intent to murder; assault and battery with explosives to maim or injure); assault and battery, burglary and entering, forgery, embezzlement and frauds (including: embezzlement, false pretense, fraudulent checks, fraudulent conversion, larceny by bailee, defrauding boarding-housekeeper), larceny, carrying concealed deadly weapons, abortion, arson, conspiracy, violating election laws, extorting, kidnapping, unlawful sale and possession of narcotics, perjury, receiving stolen goods, and sodomy. Juvenile delinquents, i. e., children under 16 years of age, were not included in any part of this survey.

The facts upon which this report is made were collected by field agents, by means of a card schedule, from the official records of clerks of courts of quarter sessions and oyer and terminer, police departments, magistrates and aldermen, and district attorneys. The schedule contained spaces for every important step taken in a criminal case from the time of arrest to final disposition. For the Commonwealth as a whole, one schedule was filled out for each case held for the grand jury by the filing of an information or transcript by a magistrate, alderman, or justice of the peace for any one of the 29 major crimes. In three cities this Commission also obtained from the records of police departments, aldermen, and magistrates information relating to all crimes in which arrests were made by police or by constables in 1926, a full schedule being made for the 29 "major crimes," but only the charge for the other criminal arrests.

In another city where this Commission also attempted to find out what happened to cases prior to grand jury hearing, no information was obtained for arrests for crimes other than the 29 major crimes listed above.

The field agents of this Commission also secured information relative to the cases in which arrests were made by constables and disposed of at preliminary hearings by aldermen, i. e., cases of major crimes handled without and assistance from the police or the trial court, in two of the three cities and in seven magistrates' courts in a third city. Similar information was sought from the aldermen in the fourth city but no records of discharged cases were kept by the aldermen there because they claimed there was no law requiring such records!

Outside of these four cities no attempt was made to collect information relating to all cases handled and disposed of summarily by the police and justices of the peace, because of the difficulty of getting complete records in the smaller jurisdictions. It appeared to be a practice in many places to consider records as the personal property of the officeholder. Many constables and justices of the peace and some district attorneys took their dockets and records with them when they went out of office. Consequently the successor had no records of cases prior to his accession to office. In one of the four cities none of the aldermen kept any records of discharged cases, and 77 per cent. of the arrests for major crimes in that city were "weeded out" by these aldermen. In one county the agent of this Commission had to get records of the 1926 cases from the private office of a lawyer who had been district attorney during that year. This ex-district attorney was most co-operative in assisting the Commission's agent to find the records in his office, but he had moved his office since the termination of his district attorneyship, and was obliged to provide filing cases and to move the records at his own expense. Needless to say, his files were not complete. He explained that he had tried to get the clerk of the court of quarter sessions to take possession of these records, but the clerk refused because he had no room for them in the courthouse.

For the purpose of showing the relative numerical importance of these 29 so-called major crimes to the entire criminal business of the trial courts, the field agents of this Commission also transcribed from the dockets and the transcripts in the offices of the clerks of the trial courts in the counties outside of Philadelphia the offense and disposition of every criminal case held for court.

The comprehensiveness of this survey, including as it does 43,919 cases, may be shown by a comparison with the number of cases covered by the survey in other States, as follows:

New York State	25,018
New York City	19,463
Buffalo	1,201
Other places	4,034
Illinois	13,912
Chicago	10,700
Other places	2,431
Milwaukee, Wis.	1,833
Missouri	10,516

The calendar year 1923 was selected for study because it was the most recent year in which practically all the cases would have been disposed of at the time of gathering the data.

* "The inclusion of Milwaukee, Wis., in the Illinois survey was made because of the proximity to Chicago (35 miles by rail) and because of the fact that it is frequently referred to as a city in which the courts are very 'efficient.'" From Tentative Draft of Report on the disposition of Felony Cases in the Courts of Illinois—A Statistical Analysis by C. E. Gehlke, Published by the Illinois Association for Criminal Justice in co-operation with the Chicago Crime Commission, p. 1.

In gathering the data, this Commission, by personal visits of its own field agents, secured all of its information from the official records of clerks of courts of quarter sessions and oyer and terminer, police departments, magistrates, aldermen and district attorneys. The processes of preparing the schedules for tabulation were also carried on by its own staff of statistical clerks. The processes of mechanical tabulation were performed by a private organization—the Library Bureau Statistical Service. Assistance was also furnished by the State Department of Justice, the Philadelphia Crime Commission, and another private organization interested in the returns from its own county.

The huge task which this Commission had to face may be realized, perhaps, from the fact that the Crime Commission of New York State had the assistance of the police department of New York City and other large up-State cities, and of the State troopers in the rural sections in filling out its schedules for the 25,013 cases, and that the tabulation was carried out in Albany, where the Commission was able to secure the assistance of both the personnel and equipment of the State Tax Department.

The unit in the cases studied in Pennsylvania is the "case." For the purpose of this report a "case" is constituted by the procedural elements surrounding the passage of a given charge through the courts. Where there were multiple indictments for one act of a defendant it is the practice of most district attorneys in this Commonwealth to move only one of them for trial. In the event of failure to convict, due either to an acquittal or a disagreement, another of the indictments would then be moved for trial. When a conviction was had on one indictment it is the practice for the district attorney not to press the others. The procedure in this survey has been to deal with the indictment which was carried through to completion. In other words, if the schedule showed indictments for robbery and larceny and a conviction was returned for the crime of larceny we tabulated the charge as larceny and did not include robbery in any of our tables so far as this individual case was concerned. There were, however, several cases, few in number, in which the returns indicated that the defendant was convicted of two crimes. Wherever there was indication that the sentence imposed was based on only one of the crimes we treated the schedule as if this was the only crime appearing thereon. In other words, cases not passed on account of other indictments and cases where sentence was suspended or was imposed but was to run concurrent with sentence on another bill were omitted. The aforementioned procedure was also used in cases where the defendants might be charged with different crimes which were different acts, except, however, in cases where the defendant was indicted for one crime today and for another several days later, two separate schedules were made and the two crimes treated as two distinct "cases."

The cases studied include only cases in which the defendant was apprehended and exclude fugitives even though the case was held for the grand jury or the fugitive was indicted.

The cases studied in the four cities do not include cases referred to other jurisdictions in the Commonwealth or outside the Commonwealth, or to Federal authorities.

In tabulating the material for this report, the 29 major crimes and all the crimes in cases held for the grand jury have been classified into twenty groups, based on the classification suggested by the United States Bureau of the Census* and generally followed by the State surveys in Illinois and New York.

Limitations of time and money prevented the compilation of data on types of crimes according to urban, suburban and rural communities. Furthermore, the transcripts on file in the offices of the clerks of the criminal courts did not show the name of the place where the crime was committed in 12 per cent. of the cases studied.

The Relative Numerical Importance of the Various Types of Crime in Pennsylvania.

Of the total number of cases held for the grand jury by justices of the peace throughout the Commonwealth, violations of liquor laws leads, with a percentage of 17; nonsupport or neglect of family is second, with 13 per cent.; larceny is third, with 10 per cent.; embezzlement and frauds is fourth, with 8 per cent.; assault and battery is fifth, with 7 per cent.; together these five crimes are over one-half (55 per cent.) of the total.

The following statement shows the per cent. distributions of the various types of crimes* with which this State has to deal:

D. CASE MORTALITY—OR HOW CRIMES AND CRIMINALS PASS OUT OF THE PICTURE

Case mortality may be defined as the number and proportion of cases which are disposed of or dropped at various stages of criminal "case" from the apprehension of the accused to the final disposition. For the purpose of ascertaining the facts concerning this important matter and of applying statistical measurement to the course of justice, "mortality tables" were prepared showing the fate of 43,919 cases started in the 67 counties of the Commonwealth in the major stages of the criminal process.

The "mortality table" for the four cities began with the number of cases in which arrests were made in 1926 for 29 major criminal charges. While in the custody of the police a certain number of cases were "eliminated," i e, they ceased to progress beyond that stage. There were very few eliminations in that stage (less than one-half of one per cent) and therefore need give no concern.

Subtracting the "eliminated by the police" from the total arrested we have left those that went on to the preliminary hearing.

The figures relative to the preliminary hearing show one of the most striking facts of the whole survey—the vast importance of the preliminary hearing in the conduct of major criminal cases in our large cities. This showing is quite contrary to the generally popular belief that the trial court—the court of quarter sessions and court of oyer and terminer—is the most important agency in the administration of criminal justice.

In one city, 78 per cent of the cases were eliminated in this stage of procedure; in another, 77 per cent; in a third, 67 per cent; and in the fourth, 47 per cent. The average for the four cities was 74 per cent (as contrasted with 57 per cent. in New York City, 48 per cent. in Chicago; and 17 per cent in Milwaukee.)

Of all the cases involving the 29 major criminal offenses originating in arrests in the four cities, 74 per cent. were eliminated in the preliminary hearing; 3 per cent. in the grand jury; 11 per cent. in the trial court of quarter sessions; and

4 per cent. were eliminated before sentence after guilt was established. In other words, if we start with 100 arrests, 23 were left after the preliminary hearing; 23 after the grand jury had acted; 12 after trial, and 8 were actually imprisoned or fined. The percentages fined and imprisoned in other cities in other States were: 15 per cent. in Chicago, 15 per cent. in New York City, and 36 per cent. in Milwaukee. The machinery for the apprehension and trial of persons accused of the major crimes in Pennsylvania began action against 12 persons whom it did not punish for every one whom it did punish.

While this chapter is devoted to fact-finding, the comment is inescapable that these figures appear to indicate that in these cities too many innocent persons were arrested, or too many guilty persons were allowed to escape punishment for crimes committed or the criminal courts were being used as "collection agencies." It is, of course, impossible to estimate the huge social and economic waste which takes place if large numbers of persons are arrested on charges too flimsy to warrant prosecution and conviction and are subjected to the humiliation, disgrace and expense of being arrested, and the further disgrace and demoralization of detention in the police station and county prison. The attention of the taxpayers, however, should be called to the fact that they have borne the cost of the police who arrested all of these persons, of the police station or jails that had detained them, and of the courts and judges and other court officials who had been part of the machinery that tried them. And, above all other considerations, it should be borne in mind that unjustified arrests and imprisonment create a disrespect for the law that in turn breeds lawlessness.

It is impossible to compare the eliminations by the police and in preliminary hearing in the four cities with the remainder of the Commonwealth owing to the fact that the records concerning the disposition of cases prior to the grand jury in the remainder of the Commonwealth were incomplete or non-existent.

The mortality table for the Commonwealth begins with the number of cases held for the grand jury as the basis of calculation and follows this group through the various stages to final disposition.

The State as a whole eliminated 16 per cent. in the grand jury stage (as compared with 21 in Illinois, 27 in New York State, and none in Milwaukee, as Wisconsin uses the information instead of the indictment as the form of accusation).

Condensed Mortality Table for the Commonwealth
Beginning with Grand Jury

	Number	Per cent.
Cases held for grand jury	20,529	100
Eliminated	3,256	16
Remainder	17,273	84

Remainder (guilt established)	9,261	45
Sentenced:
Sentence suspended	2,828	14
Imprisoned or fined	6,433	31

In 8 counties no cases were eliminated in the grand jury stage, while at the other extreme was one county which eliminated over one-half (52 per cent.) of its cases in this stage. Another county eliminated 49 per cent. and another 35 per cent. In 8 counties the percentage of cases eliminated in the grand jury stage was greater than the average for the Commonwealth (16).

In the next stage of procedure—the trial court (court of quarter sessions and court of oyer and terminer), 39 per cent. of the cases held for the grand jury in the Commonwealth were eliminated (as compared with 42 in Illinois, 18 in New York State and 23 in Milwaukee). In all but three counties the percentage of cases eliminated in this stage was lower than the percentage eliminated by the grand jury. A comparison of the various counties shows a range from 10 per cent. to 60 per cent.

Forty-five per cent. of the cases held for the grand jury were found guilty, either by plea or by conviction (as compared with 37 in Illinois, 55 in New York State and 77 in Milwaukee). The percentage of guilty cases was extremely low in three counties (22 per cent. in each). In one county there was no disposition recorded for 33 per cent. of the cases which passed the grand jury stage, while in another county 47 per cent. of the cases which passed the grand jury stage were nolle-prossed.

The suspension of sentence was used in 14 per cent. of the cases held for the grand jury. In three counties this form of sentence was not used in any case. At the other extreme were one county with 32 per cent. and another county with 26 per cent.

In Pennsylvania 18 per cent. of the cases in which guilt was established were placed on probation (as compared with 23 per cent. in Illinois and 41 per cent. in Milwaukee). Of the cases given suspended sentences, 61 per cent. were placed on probation.

Probably the most important figure in all these statistics is the percentage of cases resulting in the execution of the sentence, i. e., persons fined, imprisoned or executed. For the Commonwealth as a whole, a little less than one-third (31 per cent.) of the cases which passed the preliminary hearing stage and were held for the grand jury resulted in the execution of the sentence (as compared with 27 in Illinois, 43 in New York State and 44 in Milwaukee). The extremes were furnished by two counties with 65 and 60 per cent. respectively, and a third county with only 9 per cent., a much lower percentage than has been found in any county studied by the State surveys in New York, Illinois and Missouri. On the basis of the number of cases in which guilt was established either by plea or verdict, only 43 per cent. of the cases in one county resulted in execution of sentence as contrasted with 69 per cent. for the Commonwealth as a whole and 83 per cent. for one county.

E. The Procedural and Administrative Devices by Which Cases Are Eliminated

1. The Preliminary Hearing

The activity of the lower court process is indicated by the percentage of cases eliminated in the preliminary hearing. Cases in the preliminary hearing are disposed of in two general ways, either they are eliminated or they pass on to the next stage of procedure. In a relatively small number of cases the preliminary hearing is waived and the case is taken directly to the grand jury.

In one of the four cities where arrests were included in our investigation, 78 per cent. of the major criminal offenses in 1926 were eliminated in the preliminary hearing. In the other three cities the percentages were 77, 67 and 47, respectively. In the cities studied by crime commissions in other States the figures show the following percentages of cases eliminated in the preliminary hearing: New York City, 53; Chicago, 49; St. Louis, 28, and Milwaukee, 17.

Of the 23,380 cases disposed of in preliminary hearing in four cities, 83 per cent. were discharged outright, 5 per cent.

were summarily disposed of by fine or imprisonment, or both; 3 per cent. were recorded as held for grand jury with no record of the filing of these cases found; 2 per cent. were cases with no disposition recorded; 1 per cent. was discharged by the coroner, and the remaining 6 per cent. were disposed of in various other ways. Most of these cases were held under bail to keep the peace, held under advisement, held under bail to appear when wanted, failed to appear, dismissed for want of prosecution, etc.

* Distributive percentages are not adjusted to make them add to 100. Percentages are expressed without decimal remainders, and, therefore, are in many cases only approximate. The percentage for the total is given always as 100 because 100 is the true percentage and absolutely exact, but in view of the fact that percentages which are adjusted to make them add to 100 are less exact than they were before the adjustment was made, the practice of adjusting percentages has not been used in this report.

† Less than one-half of 1 per cent.

2. The Grand Jury

In the Commonwealth as a whole, 3,256 cases, or 16 per cent. of the total number held for the grand jury, were eliminated in this stage of the procedure. In other words, 1 out of every 6 cases were sifted out by the grand jury, indicating that from the standpoint of quantity the grand jury is an important element in the criminal process.

Fourteen out of every 16 cases (86 per cent.) disposed of in this stage were eliminated by the refusal of the grand jury to find a true bill; 10 per cent. were "never presented"; in 2 per cent. of the cases there was no record of the disposition. There was only one other class of eliminations of any numerical importance, "indicted, but no further record." There were only 25 cases in this class, 1 per cent. of the total eliminated in the grand jury stage.

The "never presented" and "no disposition indicated" classes of eliminations are indicative of some weakness or other in the handling of cases or in the recording of them.

3. The Trial Court

Of all the cases entering the trial courts in the Commonwealth as a whole nearly one-half (46 per cent.) were eliminated (as compared with 53 in Illinois, 23 in New York State and 23 in Milwaukee). The range in the various counties of Pennsylvania was from 22 per cent. to 76 per cent.

A most striking fact was the large number of cases disposed of at various stages in the course of justice other than by a trial. Thus of the 8,012 eliminated in the trial court but 3,360 were tried and acquitted and the remainder, or more than as many again, were dropped by the nolle-pros and in other ways.

Two types of elimination are chargeable to the petit jury—acquittals and mistrials. Nineteen per cent. of all cases entering the trial court were acquitted by the jury and 42 per cent. of all cases eliminated in the trial court were chargeable to the jury, i. e., acquittals or disagreements. The percentage of cases entering the trial court which were eliminated by the jury ranged in the different counties from 6 to 65. The percentages in other States were: 7 in Missouri, 9 in Illinois, 11 in Milwaukee and 30 in New York State.

The second most important type of elimination in the trial courts of this Commonwealth was the nolle prosequi.* In the Commonwealth as a whole 34 per cent. of the cases eliminated in the court of quarter session and of oyer and terminer were nolle-prossed† as contrasted with 22 per cent. in Missouri, 12 in Illinois and 14 in Milwaukee. (New York procedure does not involve the use of the nolle-prosequi.) The percentage of nolle-prossed cases ranged in the different counties from 10 to 93. Only one-fifth of the district attorneys of the State gave definite reasons in writing for petitioning for nolle prosequi. Thus there is no public record of reasons for the exercise of a very important power.

In 477 cases entering the trial courts no disposition was recorded, indicating some weakness or other in the handling of cases or in the recording of them, or both. In one county, no disposition was recorded in 33 per cent. of the cases entering the trial courts, as contrasted with 1.2 per cent. in the rest of the Commonwealth and 0.06 per cent. in New York State.

The following table shows the procedural and administrative devices by which cases were eliminated in the trial courts of the Commonwealth as a whole:

* A nolle prosequi may be described as any action initiated by the district attorney declaring that he will proceed no further with the prosecution.
† These statistics do not include cases which were nolle-prossed because of other indictments.

4. Elimination After Guilt Is Established

Appeals play a very small role in this Commonwealth, according to the records of the clerks of the courts of quarter sessions. These records were defective with respect to appeals. Of the 20,529 cases held for the grand jury throughout the State only an insignificant number were noted on the records of the clerks of the criminal courts. The agents did not examine the dockets of the Superior or Supreme Courts.

Motions for new trials were found in many counties, but the Commission has not had time to analyze the data obtained by the field agents.

Suspension of sentence with or without probation is the chief source of elimination after the establishment of guilt. Twenty-nine per cent. of all the cases in which guilt was established by conviction or plea were eliminated by suspension of sentence—18 per cent. with probation and 11 per cent. without probation. Two per cent. were either not sentenced or no sentence was recorded.

F. Pleas and Dispositions

The use of the plea of guilty is a most significant fact in the administration of criminal justice and has been the subject of much discussion in some States. It is found in large numbers in most of the counties of this Commonwealth and is a development of the tactics of the defense combined with the use of certain conditions in the machinery of justice rather than a desire of the accused to "throw himself on the mercy of the court."

Pleas are not simply "guilty" and "not guilty." The laws of this Commonwealth permit a considerable variation.

In this report the following classes of pleas have been considered:

1. Guilty of offense charged.
2. Guilty of other offense (usually a lesser one).
3. Nolo contendere to offense charged.
4. Not guilty, then changed to guilty of offense charged.
5. Not guilty, then changed to guilty of another offense.
6. Not guilty (unchanged).
7. All other pleas.

The seventh group contains certain rare combinations of the other types of pleas, such as nolo contendere to other offense, not guilty changed to nolo contendere, guilty changed to not guilty, etc. There were 384 cases in which the plea was not recorded on the dockets. In several counties the not guilty plea is not recorded.

The following table shows the relative importance of the various types of pleas in the Commonwealth. The most striking fact in this table is the substantial proportion of pleas of guilty. This proportion of pleas of guilty appeared to increase in inverse ratio to the size of the county, probably due in part to the fact that the courts sit only four times a year, and that in many of the smaller counties the sessions do not last more than one week. In some of the smaller counties the judges sit more frequently to sentence defendants who plead guilty. If the defendant is unable to furnish bail the advantage of this practice is obvious.

The most common plea was "not guilty." In the entire Commonwealth 51 per cent. pleaded not guilty, 44 per cent. pleaded guilty to the offense charged, 3 per cent. pleaded nolo contendere or non nolo contendere, only 1 per cent. pleaded guilty to another offense.

Distribution of Pleas by Type

	Number	Per cent. distribution*
Total number of cases	13,037	100
Guilty of offense charged	5,704	44
Guilty of other offense	135	1
Nolo contendere to offense charged	333	3
Nolo contendere to other offense	8	†
Not guilty:
Changed to guilty offense charged	29	†
Changed to guilty other offense	9	†
Changed to nolo contendere	1	†
Unchanged	6,671	51
All other pleas	12	†

* Distributive percentages are not adjusted to make them add to 100.

† Less than one-half of 1 per cent.

The following table is a simplification of the one preceding, made by combining all pleas of guilty, all pleas of nolo contendere, and all pleas of not guilty:

Pleas of Guilty, Not Guilty, and Nolo Contendere

	Number	Per cent. distribution
Total number of cases	13,007	100
Guilty (all types)	5,927	46
Nolo contendere (all types)	297	3
Not guilty (final)	6,671	51
Others	12	1

† Less than one-half of 1 per cent.

The ratio of convictions in cases where the plea was not guilty was 42 per cent. for the Commonwealth as a whole; 50 per cent. were acquitted and 8 per cent. did not reach the petit jury, i. e., were nolo-prossed, not guilty by order of court—bill submitted, dismissed by court, pending, etc.

G. The Unimportance of the Petit Jury

The relative unimportance of the petit jury in major criminal cases is indicated by the fact that only about one-third (35 per cent.) of the cases entering the trial court were disposed of by the jury, while 46 per cent. were disposed of on plea and 19 per cent. were eliminated in various other ways. In other words the dispositions by plea were one and three-tenths times as important relatively as the dispositions by juries. The ratio of plea dispositions to jury dispositions appeared to be highest in the smaller counties.

It is interesting to note that the ratio of plea dispositions to jury dispositions was much greater in New York State (4.1) than in Pennsylvania (1.3).

In Pennsylvania the percentage of cases in which the trial court disposed of the cases heard by juries (35) was twice as high as in New York State (16), while the percentage of cases disposed of on plea was only 46 in Pennsylvania as compared with 65 in New York State.

H. The Significance of the Time Element in Trying Criminal Cases

The question of the speed with which our courts function and the law's delay are common subjects of discussion as it is the oft-expressed claim that delay usually helps the defendant. It was for the purpose of securing data on these important matters that our schedules contained the items for six time intervals.

1. From the arrest to disposition at preliminary hearing.
2. From disposition at preliminary hearing to filing of transcript or information.
3. From disposition at preliminary hearing to action of grand jury.
4. From action by grand jury to arraignment in trial court.
5. From arraignment in trial court to final disposition.
6. From arrest to final disposition, or the time consumed by the entire process of justice.

The information concerning the total time interval from arrest to final disposition is limited to 85 per cent. of the total cases studied because it was impossible to ascertain from the records the dates defining these periods in 3,079 cases, or 15 per cent. of the total number.

It is not an easy matter to draw definite conclusions as to the "average" time of cases, or that one court is slower than another. There are many factors entering into the consideration of this question which make the study rather complex. For example, there is, first, in the different counties varying proportions of pleas of guilty which require less time for disposition than pleas of not guilty. Secondly, there are variations in the disposition of elimination of cases along the line from arrest to conviction. To include cases which are thus terminated before they reach a common stage in the procedure would be misleading. Thirdly, there are the problems involved in the types of crimes charged. Some crimes, such as carrying concealed deadly weapons, would be disposed of much more quickly than murder or manslaughter. These difficulties have been met by preparing tabulations covering the various factors involved, but the tables are so detailed that their publication would require more space than is justified.

Limitations of time and space have made it necessary to curtail the discussion of the time element in trying cases to the time intervals, or duration in days, from arrest to first disposition. This interval represents the measure of the time consumed in the entire process of justice. The time interval is summarized by means of the medium. The median is the value above which and below which one-half of the cases fall, i. e., in the State as a whole one-half of the cases held for the grand jury took 56 days, or nearly two months, from arrest to disposition.

The following table shows the time intervals, or duration in days occupied in the cases studied between arrests and final dispositions.

Time Interval From Arrest to Final Disposition
Cases Held for Grand Jury, Classified by Major Types of Dispositions

Median time interval, or duration, in days—
	For all cases held for grand jury	For cases eliminated in grand jury	For cases nolo-prossed	For cases acquitted by jury	For other cases eliminated in trial court	For pleas of guilty with out indictment	For pleas of guilty after indictment	For pleas of not guilty verdict guilty
The Commonwealth	56	51	97	80	92	18	46	56

Cases eliminated in the grand jury took 51 days. Cases nolo-prossed took longer than any other type of eliminated cases, 97 days in the Commonwealth as a whole.

Cases tried and acquitted by the jury took 80 days in the Commonwealth as a whole.

Cases in which pleas of guilty were offered and grand jury hearing waived took only 18 days as compared with 46 days for cases where pleas of guilty were offered after indictment and 56 days for cases where pleas of not guilty were offered and jury rendered verdicts of guilty. This last figure—56 days—represents the best measure of how long it takes our machinery for justice to turn out a completely finished product. It is the answer to the question which the man in the street may ask: "How long does it take to try, convict and sentence a person in the courts of Pennsylvania?"

A comparison of the median time intervals or duration between the disposition in preliminary hearing and action by the grand jury and the total duration from arrest to final disposition is of interest in indicating in a very general way the great amount of time taken waiting for the grand jury to meet and act.

For the Commonwealth as whole the median time interval from arrest to final disposition for cases tried and convicted was 56 days, while the median time interval between disposition in preliminary hearing and action by the grand jury was 40 days. In other words, in the average case which takes 56 days from arrest to final disposition, 40 of these days were consumed in waiting for the grand jury to meet and act.

Together With Suggestions for a Brand New Method.

Introductory.

It is not possible to speak of the Pennsylvania parole system, as if there were a single unified plan of conditional release operative in the Commonwealth. There are, in fact, several plans. Mental patients are released from hospitals and returned if their condition fails to improve. Children are paroled from juvenile institutions to which they may be returned during their minority. Offenders guilty of crimes punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary may be sent, instead, to county jails, workhouses or houses of correction, where they may be liberated on parole by the judge who has committed them. Release from the reformatories, the Pennsylvania Industrial Reformatory at Huntingdon and the State Industrial Home for Women at Muncy is effected by the committing judge who officially grants it. Parole from the penitentiaries is upon the recommendation of their boards of trustees to the Governor, who can sign the release only with the consent of the State Board of Pardons. The present discussion deals only with the latter type of parole, namely, with the conditional release of older offenders from the State rather than local penal institutions.

Parole Protects the Community.

Society can electrocute or imprison for life only a few of those who break its laws. Most offenders must be returned to the community sooner or later whether we like it or not. It is a matter of simple common sense, therefore, to accomplish this return in the manner which is best calculated to afford law-abiding citizens with the greatest possible measure of security. Prisoners who are released after serving their full terms, prisoners who are freed under commutation laws as a reward for good conduct, prisoners who are pardoned by the Governor are given, one and all, immediate, complete and unrestricted liberty. The control of the State is abruptly ended. The peace and safety of society are imperiled. These old methods of release are to be condemned because they are dangerous.

Parole, if properly carried out in Pennsylvania, would be socially the safest method of release which has yet been devised. Usually it lengthens the original period of imprisonment. To that period it adds another during which the State holds a definite check upon the conduct of the prisoner outside the walls. He is not a free man. His behavior is subjected in continuous scrutiny in his work, in his home, in his associations in the community. His transition from penal to free life is carefully guided and controlled. He lives under the constant restraint of the State's power to lock him up again without a new trial. This procedure is not to be regarded as sentimental, soft or lenient. It is adopted, not to befriend the offender, but rather the more successfully to defend the community against him. It aims to prevent further crime by reforming and rehabilitating the criminal. It is to be commended, therefore, as the most intelligent and the safest known method of release.

The Indeterminate Sentence

Approval of a system of parole for this State predicates a belief in the necessity of the indeterminate sentence. If prison discipline is to be improved by holding out the hope of early release as a reward for good conduct; if imprisonment is in any sense to become a process of reformation; if we are to make any effort to liberate only the safe and detain the dangerous; if we are to secure the honorable conduct of the convict in the community before we remove from him the restraining hand of the law, there must be an interval of some length between the minimum and maximum terms of sentence. A sentence which permits little or no leeway ties the hands of the State. It precludes the use of society's most effective defensive weapon—supervised parole under legal restraint. If the advantages of parole are ever to be realized, the indeterminate sentence must be preserved.

The opinion is growing that the State should never entirely surrender its legal control over a convict immediately upon his release. It should impose supervised readjustment to free life upon hardened and serious offenders as well as upon others. Many State in fact have so designed their laws that a period of parole must be served in all cases. In Massachusetts, for instance, all prisoners are sentenced for indeterminate terms, both the maximum and minimum of which are set by the court. The Board of Parole may release any prisoner when he has served two-thirds of his minimum term, but it must release at the minimum and hold on parole until the maximum every prisoner who has behaved himself within the institution. In this way the State forestalls the danger of uncontrolled release and uses the indeterminate sentence to compel the protective application of parole.

This Commission, for the foregoing reasons, approves in principle the indeterminate sentence and parole and recommends their continued use in this Commonwealth. It has directed its attention, therefore, to no involved theoretical consideration of the nature and purpose of parole, but rather to a practical examination of the adequacy of the equipment provided for and the methods used in the administration of parole in Pennsylvania.

Parole Release in Pennsylvania

Paroling authority in Pennsylvania is vested, in practice, in the Board of Trustees of the respective penal institutions of the State. Legally, penitentiary trustees merely recommend parole to the Governor, who may grant it only when the State Board of Pardons consents. Practically the consent and the parole follow automatically upon the recommendation of the trustees. Reformatory trustees recommend parole to the court of commitment. Here, again, parole automatically follows recommendation. In neither case, however, is the recommendation of the trustees made automatically when the prisoner attains legal eligibility for parole. We are happy to state that there is no wholesale freeing of convicts by paroling authorities in this Commonwealth.

Prisoners are committed to the penitentiaries under sentences which specify definite maximum and minimum terms. They become legally eligible for parole at the expiration of the minimum. Not all of them are released, however, at that time. At the Western Penitentiary in 1926, 77 per cent. and in 1927, 81 per cent. of those who applied at the minimum were released. The others were held. The Eastern Penitentiary trustees pursued an even more stringent course, releasing in 1925, 74 per cent.; in 1926, only 62 per cent., and in 1927, 70 per cent. of the eligible applicants. The Western institution generally refuses parole at the minimum to prisoners who are mentally dangerous, to venereally infected prisoners who refuse treatment, and to those who have not attained the degree of common education of which the psychologist finds them capable. At both penitentiaries, it appears, discrimination is exercised in granting releases.

Commitments to the Pennsylvania Industrial Reformatory specify no minimum limits. Minor offenses, about a third of the population, are given three-year maximum terms. These boys are recommended for parole automatically when they earn the requisite number of credits for good conduct and progress in the school and vocational work of the institution. Their release is thus definitely dependent upon their own accomplishment during confinement. Those guilty of more serious crimes, nearly two-thirds of the population, are sentenced for longer terms. The board considers their cases individually when they have earned their institutional credits. Between 1925 and 1928 only 58 per cent. of these more serious offenders were released upon earning their credits. The others were held several additional months before being given their freedom.

It is not easy to obtain release from prison in Pennsylvania. It would be difficult to devise a system potentially more carefully safeguarded than that of this Commonwealth. The trustees of the State's penitentiaries recommend parole only after notifying the district attorney who prosecuted the case and the judge before whom it was heard. They receive the advice, as well, of the warden and other prison officials. The nine trustees are themselves prominent citizens, who serve without remuneration. Their recommendation must bear the approval of four of the highest officials of the State and the signature of the Governor himself before a parole takes effect. Here we have seventeen or more responsible citizens in high place, any one of whom might, by vigorous protest, prevent a prisoner's release. Parole selection in Pennsylvania is, and must necessarily continue to be, honest.

The one defect of the Commonwealth's method of parole selection lies in the fact that decisions are made in some haste and upon the basis of insufficient information. Boards of trustees devote an afternoon monthly to this work. Scores of cases must be decided within a few short hours and each case is, of necessity, considered but briefly. This is not said in criticism of the penitentiary and reformatory trustees. They are busy men with important concerns of their own. They are asked without compensation, to assume entire responsibility for the administration of the penal institutions of the State. In addition to this they are burdened with the difficult and at best unpleasant task of parole selection. The Commonwealth owes them a debt of gratitude for the conscientious way in which they have accomplished this task. The trustees can do the work as well as it can possibly be done until such time as the Commonwealth is ready to employ a full-time highly paid board of experts to take it over.

Paroling authorities should, however, be supplied with more adequate information than is now generally at hand to aid them in making their decisions. Each of the boards now does have some data on the mental condition of the prisoners who are applying to them for parole. At the Huntingdon Reformatory, brief psychological and psychiatric reports on each case are prepared and presented by representatives of the State Department of Welfare. The Eastern Penitentiary has had, since September 1, 1927, a director of education, a full-time teacher who is also a psychologist. This officer gives psychological examinations in addition to his educational work and submits to the board a psychological estimate of every applicant for parole. There is no psychiatric information.

The Western Penitentiary has two full-time psychologists. Complete mental examinations are made for every prisoner and the results are reported to the board. Effectively to complete this work, which has been so well begun, the Commonwealth should provide for a resident psychiatrist at each institution.

Only at the reformatory is it possible for the trustees definitely to relate parole release to the prisoner's achievement in vocational training. The use of institutional progress as an index of fitness for liberation from the penitentiaries unfortunately must wait upon the development of real prison industries.

The institution's knowledge of the background, history and associations of their convicts is very meagre. Letters are sent to judges and district attorneys asking for information on applicants for parole. Few of them reply. Those who do, answer usually in a perfunctory way. Neither the Eastern Penitentiary nor the Industrial Reformatory collects or receives any further information under this head. For the past year at the Western Penitentiary an investigator has been employed to procure pertinent data on inmates from interviews with relatives, employers, acquaintances and social agencies and examination of police records. The results of his inquiries are laid before the Board of Trustees at its parole meetings. This type of information is of the utmost significance and should be supplied to the boards of the other institutions as well.

The degree of safety with which a prisoner may be paroled depends largely upon the nature of the environment to which he will go upon his release. The man who has a home, honest friends and a job awaiting him will probably be a better parole risk than the one who does not. Some paroling authorities attempt to meet this situation by requiring the submission with the parole application of the written promise of some responsible person to employ the applicant at honorable labor and to stand sponsor for his conduct. The Western Penitentiary requires no such promise. Both the Eastern Penitentiary and the Industrial Reformatory do require it. At both institutions, however, such promises are taken at face value. Often the sponsor is unknown to members of the board. He must be judged only by the appearance of his letter. There are no facilities for the investigation of his character and responsibility. Hence, it may often happen that release is granted upon the strength of employment offers which may be of dubious validity, or agreements of sponsorship signed by persons of questionable reputation. This is a situation which is to be met only by the employment of investigators for work outside the prison walls.

To Improve Parole Selection in Pennsylvania

In most other states paroling authority is vested in some central board or other agency which is independent of the administration of the individual institutions. Indiana, alone, follows the Pennsylvania plan of requiring unpaid trustees to assume this responsibility. An independent central board of parole might devote more time than do present officials to the task of parole selection and develop more skill in its accomplishment. The experience of other states has demonstrated, however, that a mere centralization of authority carries with it no guarantee of expertness in this work. A State board, moreover, might be amenable to political influence in granting releases, where the present authorities are not. The establishment of such an agency would necessitate a considerable addition to the State's budget. It is doubtful, finally, whether it could be accomplished without amending the Constitution of the Commonwealth, in view of the powers which that instrument grants to the State Board of Pardons. It does not seem expedient, therefore, to contemplate the creation of such a body in Pennsylvania at the present time. Accordingly, we believe that paroling authority should, for the present at least, be left in the hands of the several boards of trustees.

If these officials are to be spared the necessity of guessing men out of prison they must be provided with more adequate information than they have today. Parole action at the New York State Reformatory is based upon complete and detailed reports on applicants' mental and emotional condition. An analysis of the cases of three thousand parolees in Illinois recently revealed a high degree of correlation between the psychiatric prognosis and later success on parole. In Massachusetts the Reformatory for Women provides the Board of Parole with exhaustive social case histories covering every prospective parolee. In many other States, New Jersey, Michigan, Wisconsin and Connecticut among them, much work is being done in these directions. Pennsylvania has made a beginning. The work of psychological and psychiatric examination and extra-mural social investigation should be carried out more completely and its application extended to all of the penal institutions of the Commonwealth. Business long ago discovered the value of using scientific methods in the judgment of men. The Commonwealth might follow the example of business to its own profit. Specifically, Pennsylvania should provide its penal institutions with psychiatrists and with social investigators throughout the Commonwealth.

Proper Parole Supervision

Many of the foregoing suggestions can be met by action of the institution trustees. We come now, however, to a phase of the matter that is State-wide in its significance upon which this Commission has deemed it necessary to submit a statute.

There can be no effective control over paroled prisoners unless the State maintains an adequate supervisory staff. One officer should be placed in the field for the oversight of every fifty to seventy-five men who are on parole. Each officer should be a man properly qualified for the work; mature courageous, sympathetic, experienced in handling men. It should be his duty to acquaint himself thoroughly with the prisoner's physical and mental condition, his vocational skill, his social interests and his past history before the date of release. He should provide for the employment of the parolee in work which he is equipped to do; for his continued health, education, recreation, religious life and social contacts. The parole agent should visit his charges periodically, facilitating their social rehabilitation by kindly advice, by constant vigilance protecting the community against their return to criminal ways. He should act promptly to cause the reimprisonment of those who threaten to stray from the straight and narrow path. The restraining power of rearrest should be used to prevent further crime, not to punish it after it has occurred. Prisoners who sincerely desire to mend their ways have nothing to fear from intelligent and sympathetic supervision. Hardened offenders, it is true, may bitterly resent this continuous surveillance. There is all the more reason, consequently, why the community should insist on imposing it upon them.

Lack of Supervision in Pennsylvania

Every year the penitentiaries and reformatories of Pennsylvania release nearly a thousand prisoners by parole. On any one day there are nearly fifteen hundred parolees at large in the community. The State has not a single full-time worker in the field charged with the important task of supervising these men. It is true that the penitentiaries have employees who are called parole officers. The major part of their duties, however, consists of activity which is not really parole work at all; of tasks which would still need to be performed if the parole law were wiped from the statute books. They are expected to keep the institutional records, serve as secretaries to the wardens or to the boards of trustees, operate the department of criminal identification, take prisoners to court for appearance in criminal trials, transfer them from one institution to another, return those who have escaped and bring back the violators of parole. None of this is properly to be regarded as parole work. The duties which remain are largely clerical, an attempt to keep in touch with parolees through the mail. A rough estimate indicates that the Commonwealth is spending about $15,000 a year on activity of this type, or about $10 for each parolee—an amount which is wholly inadequate to insure the security of law-abiding citizens.

The Commonwealth attempts to control its released prisoners by correspondence. Parolees from the Industrial Reformatory are expected to send in a monthly letter. Parolees from the penitentiaries must fill out and mail a report form. The Western Penitentiary mails the man a single form each month. The Eastern Penitentiary gives him a bundle of twelve forms the day he is released. These reports tell little more than his address and the nature of his employment. At the Reformatory and at the Eastern Penitentiary they must bear the signature of a sponsor or employer. Clerks compare signatures and record the arrival of the forms. Reports are, perforce, accepted at face value. There is no way to detect forgery; nothing to prevent it. Sponsors and employers are frequently unknown. Their signatures are, accordingly, worthless. There is nothing in the system to prevent a man from delegating the duty of reporting to an accomplice, while he passes on to new fields of activity. The records do not really show what he is doing. He may be in perfect standing on the prison's books on the very day when he is arrested for the commission of a new crime. The system is one of paper control, nothing more.

When reports fail to arrive, the parole clerks write for an explanation. If none is forthcoming the parolee is listed as delinquent and the matter ends. Many disappear entirely from sight. In August, 1928, the penitentiaries reported 837 parolees as delinquent and unaccounted for. Where were they? What were they doing? Nobody knows. It is as safe to assume that left to their devices, they were breaking the law, as that they were obeying it.

Little is done beyond the clerical work described. When complaints are received concerning the conduct of parolees, an officer is sent out to investigate those cases which are near at hand. Distant cases are dealt with by correspondence. Prisoners paroled to the eastern part of the State from the Western penitentiary are under the theoretical supervision of the Pittsburgh officials. Prisoners paroled to the western counties from the Eastern Penitentiary are legally under the control of officers in Philadelphia. The Industrial Reformatory has no parole officer. It is paying a detective agency some five thousand dollars a year to follow up cases where complaints are made. At the Western Penitentiary, alone, is any attempt being made to go out and get jobs for prospective parolees. At that institution the social investigator who was employed a year ago has undertaken this work with some success.

The authorities at the Eastern Penitentiary rely largely on the promises of sponsors to accomplish the real task of parole supervision. As has been pointed out, these persons are often unknown and uninvestigated. In any case, they are neither trained nor paid for the work and are, therefore, not to be depended upon. Where no other sponsor is forthcoming the responsibility is frequently assumed by the trained agent of the Pennsylvania Prison Society, an organization which is supported by private charity. While this body is unquestionably competent to handle a limited number of cases, it has neither the equipment nor the desire to take over the entire burden of parole supervision. It should not be expected to undertake it. After all, the parolee is still a prisoner. He is still undergoing punishment. He is still under the control of the Commonwealth. His supervision is properly the responsibility of the Commonwealth. It should not attempt to shift it to private charity.

The failure of the Pennsylvania plan of parole is best shown by the fact that, under its operation, parole is not used as a method of preventing crime. In many other States, notably in Massachusetts, in Wisconsin and in Minnesota, parolees are reincarcerated when their behavior gives warning of their probable return to evil ways. They are arrested and locked up before they commit further crime, rather than afterward. But this is not the case in Pennsylvania. The vast majority of those recommitted to the reformatory and the penitentiaries for parole violation are returned from jails and prisons where they have been held for further violation of the law. A paper parole cannot be expected to prevent crime.

Parolees from the penitentiaries are not finally discharged until their maximum sentences expire. The parole period at the Industrial Reformatory, however, is but a brief six months, in contrast to the thirty-six months exacted in Massachusetts, the twenty-four months demanded by New York and the twelve months required by similar institutions in California, Colorado, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, New Jersey, Ohio and Wisconsin. If parole is ever to be used to bring about the social rehabilitation of the offender, six months will certainly prove to be a period too short for its accomplishment.

Such is Pennsylvania's supervision of parole. It involves no investigation or preparation of the parole environment, no period of gradual transition from prison to free life, no directed social rehabilitation, no check upon the conduct of the parolee, no move to prevent his return to crime. Under such a system parole becomes little more than a method of reducing the period of punishment. Paroled prisoners are not being watched and they know it. How, then, can parole be expected to turn their conduct into the paths which the public safety requires? The inadequacy of the Commonwealth's equipment for supervision is the greatest defect in its present administration of parole.

What Other States Do

Many of her sister States surpass Pennsylvania in the control of paroled prisoners. Delaware, Rhode Island, Maine, Maryland, Wisconsin and South Dakota maintain an agent in the field for every fifty or seventy-five parolees. Minnesota has five officers, Ohio has seven, Massachusetts has nine, spending $30,000 on supervision alone. The Baumes Commission of New York in its report dated February 28, 1927, urged the Legislature to provide for "a highly qualified staff of civil service parole officers" who should "do everything in their power to aid prisoners to secure employment, helpful recreation, new influences and environment—in a word, to become self-respecting members of society once more." The Commission recommended that this staff "be sufficient in number so that no parole officer shall be responsible for supervising more than 75 parolees at one time." The Legislature subsequently provided (Chapter 490, Laws of 1923) for a staff of fourteen officers to "be selected because of definite qualifications as to character, ability and training and, primarily, with respect to their capacity for influencing human behavior" to aid prisoners paroled from the penitentiaries "in securing employment, and to visit and exercise supervision over them while on parole." The measure took effect on July 1, 1928, the Assembly appropriating $34,000 for the performance of this work. In addition to this staff, the Elmira Reformatory supports eight field agents of its own (as contrasted with none at Huntingdon), making a total of twenty-two men on the ground for the performance of the task which Pennsylvania is attempting to accomplish by correspondence.

Illinois and Pennsylvania in size, population, degree of urbanization, industrial development, penal population and the number of prisoners on parole, are closely comparable. Illinois, in 1927, had districted the State for parole supervision and was maintaining forty officers in the field under the direction of a State supervisor of paroles. The State's parole budget for the biennium 1925-27 was $350,000. The budget for the succeeding biennium, 1927-29, was increased by the Legislature to $1,463,200. Of this amount $357,830 is allotted to the work of parole selection and $1,108,400 to parole supervision. Illinois today is spending $554,200 a year for the control of its parolees; Pennsylvania is spending $15,000. The one Commonwealth has the means of developing a real parole service; the other has not.

Responsibility for the management of these proposed field agents should be placed upon a State supervisor of paroles. To promote the efficiency of the service this officer should be located at Harrisburg, probably in the Department of Welfare or Justice. All prisoners paroled from the State's penitentiaries and the Industrial Reformatory should be committed to his care.

It is important that the work of parole supervision should be co-ordinated with that of parole selection, now performed by the several boards of trustees. For this reason it seems desirable that the Commonwealth create a board of parole trustees. This board, to be appointed by the Governor, should include in its membership trustees or high administrative officers of the penal institutions affected, a psychiatrist, a social worker, a judge, a district attorney and the Secretary of Welfare. The board should meet quarterly. Its members should be asked to serve, as do the trustees of State institutions, without pay. Its duty would be to select the supervisor of paroles, to establish rules for the selection and training of field agents, to set up standards governing the supervision and conduct of parolees; to prescribe the duties of parole officers in the collection and presentation of social information relative to prisoners and, finally, regularly to report to the Legislature on the state of the parole service, with recommendations for its improvement.

The State Industrial Home for Women

The foregoing discussion and recommendations relate only to the control of male parolees, the most pressing present problem in Pennsylvania. Paroles are also granted, however, by the State Industrial Home for Women at Muncy. This institution was originally established for the reformation of first offenders committed for indefinite terms. Since 1926 it has been required to receive more hardened offenders committed for terms with longer maximum limits and involving a longer period of parole. The Home has a parole officer who is also the psychologist. She keeps in close touch with girls who serve their parole in the vicinity of the institution. Those who go farther away she can not visit because of limitation of time and of funds for travel. They are handled through county probation agents or by mail. The increasing population of the institution and the changing character of its commitments promise to give rise shortly to a far more serious problem of parole control. It is generally agreed that women on parole should be supervised by women officers. It would be unwise, therefore, to include these parolees among those controlled by the agents operating from the Harrisburg office. For the present, at least, the situation at Muncy is best to be met by the provision of an additional parole agent with ample allowance for traveling over the State. The Legislature should make such provision.

APPENDIX

Act No. 1

Comment on Failure of Defendant to Testify

An Act to amend section ten of the act approved the twenty-third day of May, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven (P. L. 158), entitled "An act relating to the competency of witnesses, and to the rules of evidence in civil and criminal cases, revising, declaring and consolidating some of the existing acts and rules of law upon these subjects, and also extending some of the provisions of the same," by eliminating the provision of law prohibiting reference, by court or counsel, to the neglect or refusal of a defendant to offer himself as a witness, and by providing that such failure to offer himself as a witness shall not affect the presumption of innocence.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That section ten of the act approved the twenty-third day of May, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven (P. L. 158), entitled "An act relating to the competency of witnesses, and to the rules of evidence in civil and criminal cases, revising, declaring and consolidating some of the existing acts and rules of law upon these subjects, and also extending some of the provisions of the same," is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 10. Except defendants actually upon trial in a criminal court, any competent witness may be compelled to testify in any proceeding, civil or criminal; but he may not be compelled to answer any question which, in the opinion of the trial judge, would tend to criminate him; [nor may the neglect or refusal of any defendant, actually upon trial in a criminal court, to offer himself as a witness be treated as creating any presumption against, or be adversely referred to by court or counsel during the trial.] The failure of a defendant actually upon trial in criminal court to offer himself as a witness shall not affect the presumption of innocence; but his failure to do so may be commented upon by court or counsel.

An Act defining persistent offenders or professional criminals, and authorizing, upon the trial of such person, the admission in evidence of police or court records, or certified copies thereof, showing prior criminal convictions against him or her.

Section 1. Be it enacted, etc., That when, in the trial of a criminal case, the Commonwealth offers to prove that the defendant is a persistent offender against the law or a professional criminal, and for this purpose tenders in evidence, either as part of its case in chief or as rebuttal, police or court records, or duly certified copies of the same, and other evidence to connect the defendant on trial as the person mentioned in such records, if the presiding judge is satisfied that the defendant is the person named therein, such record, or duly certified copy thereof offered as proof, shall be admissible in evidence, but the judge in such event shall charge the jury that such record is not substantive evidence of the defendant's guilt, but may be considered with the other evidence in the case.

Section 2. It shall not be necessary to set forth in the bill of indictment that the defendant is a persistent offender against the law or a professional criminal in order to make such police or court records admissible in evidence.

Section 3. A persistent offender or professional criminal within the meaning of this act is one who has been arrested and convicted of a crime two or more times in a court of record prior to the trial in which the records mentioned in section one of this act are offered in evidence.

Section 4. When evidence of the character provided for in section 1 of this act is tendered, and the trial judge is satisfied therefrom that the defendant before him is a professional criminal, if the defendant takes the stand in his own defense and denies guilt, if the trial judge, in his discretion, considers that such record impeaches the credibility of the defendant, may admit the evidence of prior convictions as affecting the credibility of the defendant.

Act No. 3

Joint Trials of Defendants

An Act to amend section forty of the act approved the thirty-first day of March, one thousand eight hundred and sixty (P. L. 427), entitled "An act to consolidate, revise, and amend the laws of this Commonwealth relating to Penal Proceedings and Pleadings," by providing for trial of two or more persons jointly indicted for felonious homicide, jointly or severally, in the discretion of the court.

Section 1. Be it enacted, etc., That section forty of the act approved the thirty-first day of March, one thousand eight hundred and sixty (P. L. 427), entitled "An act to consolidate, revise and amend the laws of the Commonwealth relating to Penal Proceedings and Pleadings," is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 40. In all cases in which two or more persons are jointly indicted for any offense, it shall be in the discretion of the court to try them jointly or severally [except that in cases of felonious homicide, the parties charged shall have the right to demand separate trials]; and in all cases of joint trials, the accused as a whole shall have the right to the same number of peremptory challenges to which either would be entitled if separately tried, and no more.

Act No. 4

Examination of Jurors on Voir Dire

An Act relating to the examination of their voir dire of jurors called to serve in criminal cases; and providing for such examination exclusively by the trial judge.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That in all criminal cases hereafter tried in the courts of this Commonwealth, only such prospective jurors need be examined on their voir dire as the district attorney or defendant or his counsel shall request at the time the name is announced by the officer calling the jurors. A failure so to request at that time shall be deemed a waiver of the right.

Section 2. All examinations of jurors on their voir dire shall be conducted exclusively by the presiding judge.

Section 3. Immediately after the examination of each prospective juror the prosecuting officer and defendant or his counsel shall have the privilege of suggesting additional questions to the trial judge to be put by him, in his discretion, to the juror under investigation.

Act No. 5

Right of Appeal In Criminal Cases

An Act to amend section thirty-three of the act approved the thirty-first day of March, one thousand eight hundred and sixty (P. L. 427), entitled "An act to consolidate, revise and amend the laws of this Commonwealth relating to penal proceedings and pleadings," by regulating the right of appeal in criminal cases.

Section 32. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That section thirty-three of the act approved the thirty-first day of March, one thousand eight hundred and sixty (P. L. 427), entitled "An act to consolidate, revise, and amend the laws of this Commonwealth relating to penal proceedings and pleadings," is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 33. Every person indicted in any court of quarter sessions, or in any county court of oyer and terminer and general jail delivery, and any court now or hereafter empowered by law to try defendants charged with indictable offenses, of murder or in any case where a constitutional question is involved, may remove the indictment, and all proceedings thereon [or a transcript thereof] into the Supreme Court or Superior Court as provided by law by [a writ of certiorari or a writ of error as the case may require] appeal. In all other criminal cases persons indicted in any of said courts shall have the right to remove the indictment and all proceedings thereon by appeal to the Supreme or Superior Court only after allowance of the appeal by a judge of the court to which the appeal lies.

Act No. 5 (a)

Reducing Time of Appeal in Criminal Cases

An Act to amend section four of the act approved the nineteenth day of May, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven (P. L. 67), entitled "An act regulating the practice, bail, costs and fees on appeals to the Supreme Court and Superior Court," as amended; fixing the time in which appeals or applications for the allowance of appeals may be allowed from sentences and orders of the courts of quarter sessions and oyer and terminer.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That section four of the act approved the nineteenth day of May, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven (P. L. 67), entitled "An act regulating the practice, bail, costs and fees on appeals to the Supreme Court and Superior Court," which was amended by the act approved the eleventh day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven (P. Section 6. parole any convict confined in the county jail, house of correction, or workhouse of their respective districts, as provided in section one of an act, approved the nineteenth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and eleven (Pamphlet Laws, one thousand fifty-nine), entitled "An act extending the power of judges of courts of quarter sessions and of oyer and terminer, in relation to releasing prisoners in jails and workhouses on parole," its amendments and supplements: And provided, further, That no person sentenced for an indeterminate term shall be entitled to any benefits under the act, entitled "An act providing for the commutation of sentences for good behavior of convicts in prisons, penitentiaries, workhouses, and county jails in this State, and regulations governing the same," approved the eleventh day of May, Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and one;

And provided further, That, before any parole shall be granted pursuant to the terms hereof, notice of an intention so to do shall be given at least ten days prior thereto, by the board of prison inspectors to the judge of the county who imposed the sentence, if he be still in office, but otherwise to the judge or judges of the court of oyer and terminer or the court of quarter sessions then in session, or if there be no current term, then to the next ensuing term thereof, and having jurisdiction of cases of the like character. Similar notice shall also be given to the district attorney then in office in said county.

Minority Report by Louis N. Robinson with Reference to the So-called Ludlow Act

I am opposed to the repeal of the Ludlow Act. Although I have been in touch with the situation in Pennsylvania ever since this Act was passed, I have never seen any evidence that it stood in the way of the proper administration of justice in Pennsylvania. Certain judges have shown some pique at what they consider an invasion of their hereditary rights to "sock" the criminal as they see fit. Other than this, there is little opposition to the Ludlow Act. It is absurd, in my opinion, to think that by a new resort to the trial balance scheme of punishment, we can better protect our citizens from crime. Anyone who has studied the crime problem in the United States or in Pennsylvania, knows that the way out is largely through the development of effective administration. The trouble with the indeterminate sentence and parole in this State is that we have no machinery for the proper administration of parole. Judges now parole thousands of people each year from the county jails without any regards to the minimum sentence and with little or no oversight when once they are paroled,—and yet they seem to wish violently to curtail the granting of parole by the Boards of State penal institutions which have a much better knowledge of when a criminal should be released from their institution than do judges who parole from county jails. As a matter of fact, in many States there is at the present time a movement to take the sentencing of prisoners entirely out of the hands of judges and to place it in the hands of some State administrative board,—witness, for example, the recent proposal of Governor Smith, of New York State. The Parole Board of Minnesota now virtually exercises this function. It seems to me, therefore, that to repeal the Ludlow Act is to draw a "red herring" across the trail. By so doing, we seem to say to the people of Pennsylvania that we can in this way protect them from crime. We need to place every bit of our emphasis on the creation of machinery for the supervision of individuals on parole.

On or after the date upon which this act takes effect, any person who shall within this State manufacture, sell, purchase, or possess, except for military or police purposes, any muffler, silencer, or device for deadening or muffling the sound of a firearm when discharged, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall on conviction thereof be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding One Thousand Dollars, and to undergo an imprisonment not exceeding one year.

Section 4. On or after the date upon which this act takes effect, any person except a duly appointed or elected law enforcement officer, or a member of the army, navy or marine corps of the United States, or of the National Guard, or organized reserves, who possesses or carries on or about his person or in a vehicle, a bomb, bomb-shell, except for blasting or other commercial use, or who with the intent to use the same unlawfully against the person or property of another, possesses or carries any explosive substances or any noxious liquid gas or substance, except fixed ammunition shall be guilty of a felony, and on conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding One Thousand Dollars and to undergo imprisonment by separate or solitary confinement at labor not exceeding five years.

Section 5. On or after the date upon which this act takes effect, no unnaturalized foreign born person or no person who has been convicted in this State or elsewhere of a crime of violence shall own or have in his possession or under his custody or control, any pistol, revolver, or other firearm. "Crime of violence" as used in this act means any of the following crimes, or an attempt to commit any of the same: murder, manslaughter, rape, mayhem, aggravated assault and battery, assault with intent to kill, robbery, burglary, breaking and entering with intent to commit a felony. Any person who shall violate the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a felony, and on conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding One Thousand Dollars, and to undergo an imprisonment by separate or solitary confinement at labor not exceeding five years.

Section 6. If any person shall commit or attempt to commit any crime of violence within this State while armed with any of the weapons mentioned in sections one, two and four hereof, or while armed with any pistol, revolver, or other firearm, upon conviction of such crime of violence or of an attempt to commit such crime of violence, he shall in addition to the punishment prescribed for the crime of which he has been convicted, be punishable by separate or solitary confinement at labor for not less than one or more than five years. Such additional period of imprisonment shall commence upon the expiration or other termination of sentence imposed for the crime of which he stands convicted, and shall not run concurrently with such sentence. Upon a second conviction under like circumstances, such additional period of imprisonment shall be for not less than five years nor more than fifteen years, and upon a third conviction under like circumstances such additional period of imprisonment shall be for not less than ten nor for more than twenty years; such terms of additional imprisonment to run consecutively as before. Upon a fourth or subsequent conviction under like circumstances, the person so convicted may be imprisoned for life or for a term of years not less than twenty years, within the discretion of the court wherein such fourth or subsequent conviction was had.

Section 7. Except as otherwise provided in this act, it shall be unlawful for any person within this State to possess or have in his custody or control, or within any vehicle in which he is an occupant, any pistol, revolver, machine gun, or automatic rifle, automatic shotgun or riot-gun without having a license to possess or carry concealed such firearm as hereinafter provided in section nine hereof. Any person who violates the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding Five Hundred Dollars, or to undergo an imprisonment not exceeding three years or both, or either, at the discretion of the court, and if he has been convicted previously of any crime of violence or of any crime made punishable by this act, he is guilty of a felony and upon conviction be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding One Thousand Dollars, and to undergo imprisonment by separate or solitary confinement at labor not exceeding five years.

Section 8. The unlawful possession upon or about the person, or within the vehicle of the carrier, of any of the firearms, weapons, instruments, appliances, bombs, pistols and revolvers mentioned in the preceding sections, shall be a nuisance and such articles and substances shall be surrendered to the magistrate, justice of the peace, alderman, or other committing authority before whom said person shall be taken, except that in any city the same shall be surrendered to the head of the police force or police department thereof. The officers to whom the same may be so surrendered, except upon certificate of a judge of a court of record, or of the district attorney of the county, that the preservation thereof is necessary or proper to the ends of justice, shall annually between the first and tenth days of January in each year, destroy, or cause to be destroyed, such weapons and articles to such extent that the same shall become and be wholly and entirely ineffective for the use and purpose for which they were manufactured; provided, that in the event of any pistol, revolver, machine gun, automatic rifle, automatic shot gun, or riot gun having been stolen and is thereafter recovered from the thief or his transferee, the same shall not be destroyed, but shall be restored to the lawful owner thereof as soon as its use as evidence has been served after identification of the weapon and proof of ownership thereof.

Section 9. It shall be lawful for the Director of Public Safety, the superintendent, chief, or head of any police department, or police force of any city of the first or second class, and in any other city or county of this State, for the Clerk of the Court of Quarter Sessions of such county upon proof before either of aforesaid persons, that the person applying therefor is of good moral character and good repute, and has a bona fide residence or place of business within the jurisdiction of the said licensing authority, and that good cause exists for the issuance thereof to issue to such person a separate license (1) to possess at his place of residence or place of business, or both, or (2) to carry concealed, a pistol or revolver for a period of one year from the date of such license, or to issue said license when circumstances warrant for both purposes. Such persons as may have been licensed to possess a pistol or revolver may not by reason thereof carry the same concealed, and such weapon shall be kept and maintained at his place of residence or place of business as required by the license, except upon such emergency as may arise requiring the temporary removal therefrom or the protection of persons or property therein. Such person as may have been licensed to carry concealed a pistol or revolver may by reason thereof possess the same at his place of business or place of residence as the circumstances require. All applications for such licenses shall be filed in writing signed by the applicant, and shall state the name, occupation, residence, and business address of the applicant, his age, height, weight, color of eyes, hair, and reason for desiring a license to possess or carry concealed such weapon. Any license: (1) to possess at his place of residence or place of business, or (2) to carry concealed such weapon issued upon such application, shall set forth the foregoing data and shall in addition have affixed thereto, a photograph and fingerprint of the licensee; said application shall also contain the indorsement in writing of two reputable citizens residing in the same county wherein the applicant resides. A permit to possess and carry concealed a machine gun or automatic rifle, or automatic shot-gun, or riot-gun, by any banking institution or public carrier authorized so to do by section two of this act, shall be issued by the licensing authority of this section in like manner. When such licenses are issued by a Clerk in the Court of Quarter Sessions of any county, a record thereof shall be kept in the office of the Clerk of Quarter Sessions; when issued by police authorities, such record shall be maintained in the office of the authority by whom issued. Such applications and licenses shall be uniform throughout the State upon forms prescribed and furnished by the Department of Justice. Provided, however, that no license to either possess or carry concealed any of the firearms mentioned in this section, shall be issued to a person under the age of eighteen years.

Section 10. The Director of Public Safety, the superintendent, chief or head of any police department, or police force, of any city of the first or second class, or the Clerk of the Court of Quarter Sessions of any county as referred to in section 9 hereof, shall hereafter be designated for brevity as licenser.

Section 11. Every person, firm or corporation engaged, or desiring to engage in the business of selling, leasing, or otherwise transferring a pistol or revolver, whether such seller, lessor, or transferrer is a retail dealer, wholesale dealer, pawnbroker, or otherwise, shall submit a sworn application for a license and registry to the proper licensor of his county, which shall be put in such form as the Department of Justice may determine, which application shall state the principal place of business of the applicant, wherever situated, and the location of the principal place of business in this State, the address of the applicant, and such other additional information as the Department of Justice may require, and if the licensor is satisfied that the applicant is of good repute, he shall register the applicant and issue to him a registry certificate certifying to the fact that the dealer has been registered for the current calendar year as a dealer in pistols or revolvers.

If the licensor declines or fails to so register the applicant, he shall immediately give notice of the fact to the applicant, and upon request of such applicant filed within ten days after the receipt of such notice, shall fix a time and place for hearing of which ten days' notice shall be given to the applicant, or to other persons interested, to offer evidence relating to the dealer's repute. If satisfied, as aforesaid, as a result of said hearing, the licensor shall thereupon register the dealer. Any dealer aggrieved by any decision of the licensor may file within thirty days thereafter in the Court of Quarter Sessions of his county, a petition against the licensor officially as defendant, alleging therein in brief detail the action and decision complained of, and praying for a reversal thereof. Upon service of summons upon said defendant, returnable within three days from its date, the licensor shall within one week from such return date file an answer in which he shall allege by way of defense the grounds of his decision, and such other grounds which shall in the meantime accrue or be discovered. All allegations of the answer shall be determined to stand denied without further pleading, and upon application of either party the cause shall be advanced and heard without delay. Mere technical irregularities in procedure of such licensor shall be disregarded. The court's decision shall consult only the rights of the plaintiff and the protection of the public, and the licensor shall prosecute no proceedings to obtain a reversal modification or vacation of a judgment rendered in favor of the plaintiff. A judgment sustaining a refusal of the licensor to grant or renew a registration, shall not bar after one year a new application by the plaintiff for registration and license, nor shall a judgment in favor of the plaintiff prevent such licensor from thereafter revoking or refusing to renew such registration for any proper cause which may thereafter accrue or be discovered. The court shall have full power to dispose of all costs, and appeals may be taken as in other cases as provided by law.

This section shall not apply to wholesale dealers of merchandise in interstate commerce, nor to wholesale dealers when selling merchandise to other dealers, nor to agents, messengers, and other employees of common carriers whose duties require them to protect moneys, valuables, and other property in the discharge of such duties, from carrying any such weapons while actually engaged in such duties.

Section 12. Every person, firm or corporation in the business of selling, leasing, or otherwise transferring a pistol or revolver, whether such seller, lessor, or transferee is a wholesale dealer, retail dealer, pawnbroker or otherwise, except as hereinbefore provided, shall keep a register in which shall be entered the time of sale, the date of sale, the name of the salesman making the sale, the place where sold, the make, model, manufacturer's number, caliber, or other marks of identification on such pistol or revolver, together with serial number, date, name, fingerprint and address of licensee appearing upon the license to possess or to carry concealed such firearm, which license shall be exhibited to the dealer at the time of the purchase. Such register shall be prepared by and obtained from the State printer, and shall be furnished by the State printer to said dealers on application in duplicate, and shall be in form prescribed by the Department of Justice. The purchaser of any such firearm shall sign, and the dealer shall require him to sign his name and affix his address and fingerprints to said register in duplicate, and the salesman shall affix his signature in duplicate as a witness to the signatures of the purchaser. Any person signing a fictitious name or address, or making false statements, is guilty of a misdemeanor. The duplicate sheet of such register shall on the evening of the day of sale, be placed in the mail, postage prepaid, and properly addressed to the Director of Public Safety, the superintendent, chief, or head of, police department or police force of the city of the first or second class wherein the sale was made, provided that where the sale is made in any other city or county, said duplicate sheet shall be mailed to the Clerk of the Court of Quarter Sessions of the county wherein the sale is made. A violation of any of the provisions of this section by any person engaged in the business of selling, leasing or transferring such firearm is a misdemeanor.

Section 13. A duly licensed retail dealer may sell a pistol or revolver, and a manufacturer may sell a machine gun or automatic rifle to such persons as shall have been issued licenses, which licenses must be exhibited at the time of purchase, and said dealer, upon effecting a sale, shall endorse on said license in ink, the make, model, manufacturer's number, caliber, or other marks of identification of such pistol, revolver, machine gun, automatic rifle, automatic shotgun, or riot gun, subject to the following conditions, for breach of any of which the license of retail dealer shall be subject to forfeiture in addition to the penalty designated in the license:

1. The business shall be carried on only in the building designated in the license.

2. The license or a copy thereof certified by the issuing authority shall be displayed on the premises where it can easily be read.

3. No pistol or revolver shall be delivered:

(a) On the day of the application for the purchase, and when delivered shall be securely wrapped and unloaded.

(b) Unless the purchaser either is personally known to the seller or shall present clear evidence of his identity and shall exhibit his license to possess or carry concealed such firearm.

4. No pistol or revolver or imitation thereof or placard advertising the sale or other transfer thereof shall be displayed in any part of said premises where it can readily be seen from the outside.

A violation of any of the provisions of this section is a misdemeanor.

Section 14. Any person who in purchasing or otherwise acquiring possession of a pistol, revolver, machine gun, automatic rifle, automatic shotgun, or riot gun, in applying for a license to possess or carry the same concealed, gives false information or offers false evidence as to his identity, or signs a fictitious name or address to any application for a license, or to any dealer in purchasing or otherwise securing possession of a pistol, revolver, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Section 15. No person, firm, or corporation shall sell, deliver, or otherwise transfer, any pistol, revolver or other firearm, to any person prohibited by section five hereof, from owning or possessing such firearms, nor any pistol or revolver to a minor. If any sale, purchase, or transfer is not consummated within seventy-two hours of the time of application for sale, purchase, or transfer is made, such application for sale, purchase, or transfer shall be null and void. Any violations of the provisions of this section shall be a misdemeanor.

Section 16. Any person who without being licensed as above provided, engages in the business of selling or otherwise transferring, or who advertises for sale or offers or exposes for sale, transfer, or delivery, or who sells any pistol, revolver, automatic rifle, automatic shotgun, or riot gun is guilty of a misdemeanor.

Section 17. No person shall change, alter or remove or obliterate the name of the maker, model, manufacturer's number, or other mark of identification on any pistol, revolver, machine gun, or automatic rifle. And on the trial of an indictment for a violation of the provisions of this section, which violation shall be a misdemeanor, the jury may infer that the person in possession of such firearm has changed, altered, removed, or obliterated the identification marks of such pistol, revolver, machine gun, or automatic rifle.

Section 18. This act shall not apply to antique pistols or revolvers or other firearms unsuitable for use as firearms. Provided, however, that all pistols or revolvers possessed only as curiosities and ornaments which are capable of use as firearms, shall be registered under the provisions of this act and the owner or possessor thereof shall be issued one license, and each pistol or revolver so owned or possessed shall be inventoried by manufacturer's number, caliber, make, model and other marks of identification on said license.

Section 19. Any violation of any provisions of this act which is designated as a misdemeanor and for which no punishment has been provided, shall be punishable by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars ($500.00), or imprisonment not exceeding three years, either or both at the discretion of the court.

Section 20. Wherever the pronoun "he" occurs in this act it shall be construed as including both male and female persons

Section 21. All persons in possession of a pistol, revolver, machine gun, or automatic rifle, automatic shotgun, or riot gun, described in this act, at the time of its taking effect shall be required to obtain a license to possess or carry the same concealed, in accordance with the provisions of this act, within a period of ninety days after the approval of this act, and failure to procure such license will render such person or persons liable to the provisions and penalties of this act. Upon the issuance of said license, the licensor shall endorse on said license in ink, the make, model, manufacturer's number, caliber, or other marks of identification of such pistol, revolver, machine gun, or automatic rifle, automatic shotgun, or riot gun.

Section 22. The fees under the provisions of this act shall be as follows:

1. For receiving application and issuing license to possess or carry concealed a pistol, revolver, or other firearms, fifty cents.
2. For filing and indexing any registration or license, fifty cents.
3. For receiving application and issuing collectors' license, five dollars.
4. For issuing or refusing dealers' license or registry, or for hearings thereon, ten dollars.

All such fees shall be paid by the applicant for license whether the same be granted or not, and shall be paid to the County Treasurer of the several counties. The County Commissioners of the several counties shall supply all necessary assistance to the licensing authorities. Provided, however, that no fee shall be charged for registering any pistol, revolver, or other firearm, in the possession of any person at the time of the passage of this act, the registration of which is required under the provisions of this act, where such registration is made within a period of ninety days after the approval of this act.

Section 23. In any prosecution under this act it shall not be necessary to negative any of the exemptions of this act in any complaint, information, or indictment or at trial. The burden of proving any exemption under this act shall be upon the defendant.

Section 24. Nothing in this act shall be construed to apply to or to affect the possession or transportation of merchandise in interstate commerce, nor to members of the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps of the United States or the National Guard or to organizations which are by law authorized to receive such weapons from the United States or this State, nor to officers or employees of the United States authorized to carry a pistol, revolver, or other firearms; nothing in this act shall apply to wholesale dealers when selling merchandise to other dealers.

Section 25. All other acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed; provided, however, that this act shall not repeal or in any manner affect any of the provisions of an act approved the twenty-fourth day of May, one thousand nine hundred twenty-three, (P. L. 359), entitled "An act concerning game and other wild birds and wild animals and amending, revising, consolidating and changing laws relating thereto."

Section 26. The repeal of any acts or parts of acts of Assembly shall not affect any prosecutions pending on the date of the passage of this act, nor prevent the institution of any prosecution for violation of any of the provisions of said acts committed prior to the passage of this act, but all such pending prosecutions shall be terminated and all such violations shall be prosecuted in the same manner.

Section 27. If any provisions of this act shall be held by any court to be unconstitutional, such judgment shall not affect any other section or provision of the same. It is hereby declared as a legislative intent that this act would have been passed had such unconstitutional provision not been included therein.

Approved—The 6th day of May, A. D. 1927.

JOHN S. FISHER.

In accordance with the authority vested in him by the Act of May 6, 1927, the Speaker of the House of Representatives on August 25, 1927, appointed Hon. Helen Grimes, of Allegheny County, and Hon. Morton Witkin, of Philadelphia County, as the representatives of the House; the President pro tem. of the Senate appointed on July 2, 1927, Hon. Frank E. Baldwin, of Potter County, and Hon. Andrew J. Sordoni, of Luzerne County, as the representatives of that body; and the Governor of the State on October 28, 1927, appointed Clinton Rogers Woodruff, Esq., of Philadelphia. At the organization of the Commission on December 1, 1927, Mr. Woodruff was elected Chairman of the Commission, Miss Grimes, Secretary, and Henry W. Van Pelt, Director of the Bureau of Statistics, Department of Internal Affairs, was appointed Executive Secretary. On January 25, 1928, John Eberle, of Philadelphia, was appointed Assistant to the Chairman and on May 23, 1928, Mark Shields, of Allegheny County, was appointed Assistant to the Secretary.

The Commission wishes to express its appreciation of the cordial assistance and the enlightening testimony of numerous State, county and municipal officers throughout the Commonwealth. Special acknowledgment should be made of the co-operation of Hon. James F. Woodward, Secretary of Internal Affairs, who very generously placed the facilities of the Bureau of Statistics and the services of its Director at the disposal of the Commission. Without such co-operation from many sources this report could not have been prepared.

The Commission desires to put on record its very sincere appreciation of the helpful and unfailing co-operation and courtesy of John H. Fertig, Assistant Director of the Legislative Reference Bureau, who has acted as Counsel to the Commission. Mr. Fertig has been a constant attendant at meetings of the Commission and has helped both by his advice as well as by his skill as a draftsman in preparing the report.

Three principal duties were imposed upon us: (1) to study, (2) to make a survey of, and (3) to report upon the salaries and wages paid to and received by the officials and employees of the following political subdivisions: (a) State, legislative, executive and judicial; (b) Counties (of which there are eight classes) (c) cities (of which there are three classes); (d) townships (of which there are two classes); and (e) boroughs.

In connection with the study of the wages and salaries of these groups of officials and employees, the Commission was charged with the further duty of considering the manner, methods and times of payment, and of the increase or decrease of compensation; the services required and rendered, with comparisons of the scope and type of such services.

The first tentative conclusion reached by the Commission was that the local political subdivisions should fix the salaries and rates of compensation of their employees and certain officers, a conclusion which subsequent study and consideration ripened into a permanent one. The State Legislature has so many functions to perform of the utmost importance to the State at large that it should not be called upon to determine questions of purely local concern, such as the salaries and wages of local employees paid out of the local treasuries. The members of the Legislature are not equipped to consider such matters. They are not supposed to be, and as a matter of fact are not, sufficiently informed to pass with fairness and justice upon prevailing local conditions as to the cost of living and its relation to official compensation and other factors involved. Consequently, when called upon, as they have been so frequently within recent years, to vote for measures fixing local salaries and wages, they have had to depend upon the advice and opinions of the members of the localities affected, with the inevitable result that a system of log rolling has grown up that is subversive of sound public policy, both general and local. In fact, the very thing that the Constitutional Convention of 1873 was trying so hard to guard against has come about in all its glaring viciousness, namely, "such a system of lobbying as never before prevailed in this State."

As a demonstration of the extent to which the Legislature has dealt with local problems of this character the following table covering the period from 1901 to 1927 is highly suggestive:

In addition to this unwarranted burden placed on the Legislature, we must consider the still greater burden imposed upon the Governor of the Commonwealth who must give or withhold his executive approval of every such measure. It is unfair to require either the legislators or the Chief Executive to assume such heavy burdens, and it is equally unfair to take away from the local authorities the power to settle and determine their own problems. How can they properly arrange their financial budgets, with all that is involved, if they are to have rates of compensation imposed upon them, which they had no hand in fixing although primarily responsible, and yet far better able to determine?

Some idea of how such a policy affects a locality may be gathered from a consideration of the legislation passed by the 1927 Session affecting a single city: Philadelphia. An unusually large number of laws regulating the number and salaries of officials and employees paid out of the city treasury were passed. Because of their effect upon the city's budget, the Bureau of Municipal Research of Philadelphia made an analysis of them. While the salaries of most of the officers and employees of Philadelphia's government are fixed by the City Council as they properly should be, some, chiefly in the county departments, are regulated by the State Legislature. When the number and salaries of employees are so fixed, the City is compelled to pay the salaries, and the City Council is compelled to supply the funds. Moreover the method of State regulation varies. Some laws name the number of employees and their salaries; some name the salaries and prescribe a method for fixing the number of positions or the salaries, or both.

Briefly summarized, the 1927 Philadelphia salary legislation made the following changes: It increased the salaries of magistrates from $4,000 to $6,000 for the chief magistrate, and to $5,000 for the other 27; created positions for 30 clerks to magistrates; increased salaries of the three members of the Board of Revision of Taxes from $6,000 to $10,000, and of 80 real estate assessors from $4,000 to $5,000 and created deputies at $4,000; gave the deputy sheriff $7,500 instead of $6,000; added new positions, changed the titles of some, and raised the salaries of some in the offices of the Recorder of Deeds, Register of Wills, and the Clerk of Quarter Sessions; increased from five to six the number of clerks to the Orphans' Court judges, and removed the salary limit of $4,000 previously fixed for such clerks; and increased the maximum salaries of court interpreters from $2,500 to $3,500, leaving the number of them, as heretofore, in the discretion of the Common Pleas judges.

By reason of this mandatory legislation, Philadelphia is now compelled to provide $1,624,000 a year for the offices affected by the 1927 laws, as compared with $997,480 prior to the 1927 session of the Legislature, an increase of $626,520.

Philadelphia's City Council is responsible for the tax rate and the general financial policy of the city and it should be given control of the outgo as well as the income, and the same is true of every other political subdivision of the State. Consequently your Commission believes that the policy of home rule should prevail in the determination of rates of compensation for local employees, except, possibly, that of the members of the local legislative bodies, although the Legislature should fix the maximum which they can receive, and so the Commission recommends.

Elective constitutional county officials, such as the Sheriff, the Prothonotary, the Register of Wills, the District Attorney, the Controller, the County Commissioners, the Recorder of Deeds, Clerks of the Quarter Sessions and Coroner, form an exempted class and, except in the case of the counties of the seventh and eighth classes, the salaries to be paid them are under existing conditions properly determined by the Legislature.

While the Commission is strongly against the continuance of the fee system as a means of compensation, it believes that possibly an exception might be made in the cases of counties of the seventh and eighth classes where the population and therefore the amount of business is so small that full time officers are not needed or employed.

The Commission, therefore, in its draft of a county salary bill, has not disturbed the situation as it now exists in seventh- and eighth-class counties. It has, however, included in the county salary bill salaries for those county officers in seventh- and eighth-class counties where are now fixed by statute. These are the County Commissioners, Controller and District Attorney in counties of the seventh and eighth classes, and the Sheriff in counties of the eighth class.

If the local political subdivision is to be given the power to fix rates of compensation, the question arises what organ of the locality should be empowered to do this. In those which have local legislative bodies, like the cities, townships of the first class and boroughs, then those are the appropriate bodies. They are already clothed with sufficient legislative power to do so and should be allowed by the State Legislature to exercise their already existing powers to the fullest extent. No

*The earliest provision relating to the creation of Salary Boards is section 7 of the Act of March 31, 1876, P. L. 13. This Act applied to all counties having more than 150,000 population and constituted the County Commissioners and the County Controller, where such offices existed, a board for the purpose of ascertaining the number of deputies or clerks required for the proper dispatch of business in the county offices, and for fixing the salary of each of said clerks and deputies. Any county officer dissatisfied with the action of the Salary Board was authorized to appeal to the Court of Common Pleas, whose decision was to be final.

A list of the Acts of Assembly establishing Salary Boards in the various classes of counties is given below. These Acts would be repealed by the passage of the County Salary Board Bill (Exhibit A, No. 1), which the Commission recommends as a means of consolidating and clarifying the existing legislation on the subject.

In counties of the first class (Philadelphia), where the county is coextensive with the city, the compensation of deputies and clerks in the county offices is fixed by the City Council when not fixed by an Act of Assembly or by the court (see Act of May 21, 1879, P. L. 72). The proposed bill would not disturb the authority of the City Council.

In counties of the second class, Salary Board established by the Act of April 29, 1915, P. L. 200.

In counties of the third class, Salary Board established by Section 7, Act of March 31, 1876, P. L. 13, except possibly in Luzerne County, where see Act of April 7, 1907, P. L. 58.

In counties of the fourth class, Salary Board established by Section 7, Act of March 31, 1876, P. L. 13.

In counties of the fifth class, Salary Board established by the Act of July 11, 1923, P. L. 1054.

In counties of the sixth class, Salary Board established by the Act of June 29, 1923, P. L. 944.

No such boards now exist in counties of the seventh and eighth classes, where officers are usually paid in fees and very few, if any, deputies or clerks are required.

additional legislation on this point is necessary, only a determination on the part of the State Legislature to follow strictly a policy of home rule.

In the counties where there is no true legislative body, the State Legislature has established the principle of a County Salary Board which this Commission believes to be a sound one. Accordingly a careful study of existing legislation* was made with the result that a general County Salary Board bill has been drafted, which the Legislature is earnestly urged to pass as establishing an adequately effective means of applying the principle of home rule to the fixing of the compensation of county employees. The text of this measure appears as Exhibit A, No. 1, and its principal features are briefly outlined in the prefatory note to the proposed bill (see bottom of page 21).

At the outset of our work a table of the salaries paid county officers and employees was prepared for our use by John H. Fertig, of the Legislative Reference Bureau, and Henry W. Van Pelt, the Executive Secretary of the Commission. An examination of this table (which is reproduced as Exhibit D of this report) shows the wide variation of existing salaries and the necessity for a readjustment of the salaries to be paid to the elected officers and of the compensation of their employees.

It has been many years since there has been a readjustment of salaries and wages in the light of the changes in the cost of living, although these changes have been continuous and far reaching. In a period of rapidly-rising price levels, such as occurred during and immediately following the World War, many public officers working at statutory salaries are bound to be affected adversely by the shrinking purchasing power of their fixed incomes. This situation has been partly remedied in the past few years through increased salaries voted in certain cases, but many inequalities still exist which demand the careful and earnest consideration of the Legislature and the local salary boards.

According to the best evidence available, the cost of living is now about 65 per cent. higher than in the years before the war. Studies of the National Industrial Conference Board show that the cost of food in representative cities throughout the country had advanced 56 per cent. from 1914 to the close of 1927. In the same period, housing costs rose 66 per cent.; prices of clothing 71 per cent.; cost of fuel and light, 63 per cent.; and miscellaneous household expenses, 73 per cent. While prices of food and clothing in different cities show no very widespread variations at a given time, the same thing does not hold true for some of the other items entering into the cost of living. This is strikingly illustrated by the great divergence in house rents in different cities at the same time, and by the fact that during the past 15 years the rate of increase in rents was far from uniform in different localities. For example, salary boards should take into consideration in fixing local salaries such facts as whether house rents of the average wage-earner have advanced since pre-war days by only 40 per cent., as in the case of Scranton, or whether there has been a much greater rise, such as the increase of nearly 140 per cent. in Johnstown.

These figures, which are taken from a recent report of the National Industrial Conference Board, are cited to show the necessity of determining rates of compensation in the light of changes in living costs. Yet an examination of the statutory salaries paid to county officers (see Exhibit D) shows that many of these salaries have not been increased since 1913, and some of them have remained stationary for a much longer period. Thus the present salaries of the county controller in most counties have not been revised since 1909; the salaries of the sheriff in second-, third-, and fourth-class counties still remain at the pre-war figures; and most of the county officers in fourth-class counties are today receiving the same compensation as was paid in 1895. In view of the decreased purchasing power of the dollar today, it is clear either that such officers were formerly very much overpaid or else that present salaries are inadequate under existing conditions. Doubtless men can be found who will continue to run for office even where the compensation is inadequate, but such a situation must inevitably discourage the abler classes of individuals from seeking public office. Because of the importance of data on the cost of living in helping to determine what constitutes a proper salary in any given case, the Commission urges that greater weight be given to this subject in future salary legislation and in the action taken by the local salary boards.

There are sundry officials and employees who discharge local duties, but partly as agents of the Commonwealth. These represent a difficult problem, one not easily determined. So far as possible, where the compensation is paid in whole or in part by the local subdivision, the rate should be determined by the local authorities. In other cases where the duties performed are wholly or in part as agents of the Commonwealth then the rate of compensation is for the State Legislature to fix.

In passing it is curious to note that while the general policy of the State has been to determine the salaries of elected county officers, there is now no legislation fixing the salaries of such officials in counties of the first class (Philadelphia). This situation will be corrected by the passage of the County Salary Board bill (Exhibit A, No. 1).

The Commission is of the opinion that while the salaries of the County Commissioners of counties of the first and second classes should be fixed by the State Legislature, the salaries of their clerks and other employees should be determined by the City Council in the case of counties of the first class and by the County Salary Board in counties of the second class.

With regard to election officers, or those attending elections, the question of their compensation is clearly a matter for local determination.

In the County Salary Board bill recommended by this Commission, provision is made for the fixing of the salaries of county assessors for taxation by the local salary boards. As long as the present system of separate county and city assessments prevails, the Commission would recommend that the determination of the compensation of city assessors for taxation be placed in the hands of the local councils. If and when, however, the Legislature adopts a single, unified system of assessment by a county board of assessors, as proposed by the Pennsylvania Tax Commission in its 1927 report (see 1927 Senate Bill 461 embodying this proposal), the compensation of all such assessors would logically be determined by the County Salary Boards. This Commission, therefore, recommends to the Legislature, in line with the general policy enunciated in this report, that in any future legislation affecting the salaries of assessors this matter be left to the County Salary Boards and Councils rather than by fixed statute.

The Commission has also considered the question of the compensation of local tax collectors, who are now paid on a fee basis. The testimony clearly indicates that in many cases the fees received are altogether out of proportion to the work performed by the tax collector. It should be pointed out, however, that the high cost of tax collection in Pennsylvania is caused mainly by the multiplicity of tax collectors, several counties having 75 or more, while only a few of the smaller ones have as few as 25.

This is a situation which evidently calls for legislative remedy, but it would entail revision of the whole system of local tax collection and this is outside the scope of our authority. We therefore merely call attention to the report of the Tax Law Revision Commission made to the Legislature in 1921 and to the reports of the Pennsylvania Tax Commission made in 1925 and 1927. Attention should also be directed to Senate Bill 178 (1927) sponsored by the Pennsylvania Tax Commission, this bill having for its object the reduction of tax collection costs through the abolition of the fee system and the consolidation of collection machinery in the office of the county treasurer.

When the Commission came to consider the question of judicial salaries, it reached a problem of prime importance and great difficulty. The courts of the various subdivisions, while performing similar duties and exercising similar jurisdiction, vary in the amount of work transacted.

This makes the work of determining the rates of compensation a peculiarly difficult one. The suggestion was advanced that a Judicial Salary Board be established with a system of graded salaries. Under the Constitution, however, as construed and interpreted by the Supreme Court of the State, the function of determining judicial salaries must remain in the hands of the Legislature and that body must, until the Constitution may be changed, continue to fix the salaries of (a) Supreme Court justices; (b) Superior Court judges; (c) Common Pleas Court judges and associate judges; (d) Orphans' Court judges; (e) County and Municipal Court judges; (f) Magistrates, Aldermen and Justices of the Peace, except Magistrates in Philadelphia and Police Magistrates in second-class cities, whose salaries should be fixed by the City Council, the fees earned being paid into the city treasury.

The Supreme and Superior Courts also must fix the salary and compensation of its prothonotaries, deputy prothonotaries, criers, tipstaves, clerks, stenographers, briefers and other employees.

County Salary Boards should fix the salaries of all the employees of the Common Pleas, of Quarter Sessions, Oyer and Terminer, Orphans' and County Courts, the president judge of each court to sit as a member of the County Salary Board when these salaries are under consideration.

In Philadelphia the salaries of court employees for the several classes of courts should be fixed by the City Council, upon recommendations of the president judge of the proper court.

In view of the conclusion that the State Legislature must continue to fix the salaries of the judges, the Commission's suggestions are embodied in the form of a Judicial Salary Bill (see Exhibit A, No. 2).

As to the elected officers of the State, the State Legislature is the only body to determine their salaries, likewise those of the heads of State departments, the Superintendent of the State Police and the members of the Public Service Commission.

At the present time the Board of Game Commissioners elects an executive secretary and fixes his salary. This executive secretary is the administrator of the Board, but is not a member of the Board. The Board of Fish Commissioners is not organized in the same manner. The Commissioner of Fisheries is its administrator and he is also a member of the Board and consequently appointed by the Governor, and his salary fixed by the Administrative Code. There appears to be no reason why this difference in the organization of these commissions should exist, and the Commission consequently recommends that the Commissioner of Fisheries be eliminated as a member of the Board of Fish Commissioners, and that he be appointed and his salary fixed by the Board of Fish Commissioners.

A careful survey of the salaries now paid the State officers was made and the Commission feels that the following increases should be made:

That the salary of the Governor should be raised to $20,000;

That the salary of the Attorney General be raised from $12,000 to $15,000;

That the salary of all other cabinet officers be at least $10,000;

That the salary of mine inspectors should be increased to $6,000;

That the salary of the Director of the Legislative Reference Bureau be fixed at $7,500, and that the Assistant Director be put on the same basis as other employees, but with a maximum of $7,500.

The Commission is of the opinion that the Auditor General's Department and that of the State Treasurer, which exercise functions that are more or less a check on the administrative departments, should not come under the Executive Board and the Governor. It is suggested that the Acts of 1911 and 1915 noted under the head of "State Treasury Department" should be repealed and that legislation be passed to authorize the State Treasurer to appoint his employees and fix the salaries as is already the case with the Auditor General. It is further suggested, however, that so far as employees discharging similar duties are concerned the salaries should be made as nearly as possible the same as those paid in the department and bureaus under the Executive Board's classification.

These specific recommendations are based on the belief that the suggested figures represent an adequate compensation for the services rendered, with due regard to the present standard of living.

On June 1, 1928, the Commonwealth employed 7,742 persons in the various departments and bureaus. These were distributed as shown in the table presented in Exhibit G. By far the greater number of employees (outside the Bureau of Highways) live in or near Harrisburg as is shown in the table presented as Exhibit H.

Under the Administrative Code of 1923 (P. L. 498), as amended by the Act of April 13, 1927 (No. 164), the Executive Board of the Commonwealth is created, composed of the Governor as Chairman and the heads of six administrative departments designated by the Governor. This Board has power under section 709 of the Administrative Code to standardize the qualifications for employment and all titles, salaries and wages of persons employed by the administrative departments, boards and commissions, except the Department of the Auditor General and the Treasury Department. In establishing such standards the Board may take into consideration the location of the work and the conditions under which the service is rendered; and it may establish different standards for different kinds, grades and classes of similar work or service.

The Executive Board is beginning to function with greater ease and efficiency and in course of time will no doubt become an effective State Salary Board. The Commission believes that this Executive Board should continue to establish the standards for salaries in the executive branches of the State Government, with the exceptions herein mentioned. The Commission, however, strongly recommends that to secure the highest degree of efficient public service and to establish it on a permanent, career making basis the Executive Board should recognize, and embody in its settled policy to give workers a square deal, that two factors must be taken into account: First, the provision of an adequate financial incentive, and second, the reward of individual merit. Therefore there should be adopted a plan of salary administration that will insure certain things to the employees. Among these should be: Reasonably liberal remuneration for work performed, based on current standards of living and purchasing value of the dollar; uniformity in remuneration for the same grade of work throughout the service; adequate, graded remuneration for different grades of work; recognition of individual efficiency; opportunity for increase of salary in the same position; and opportunity for promotion to positions of higher rank at an increased salary.

A sincere embodiment and enforcement of these principles in the Commonwealth's compensation policy will result in a public service that will produce the most highly satisfactory results and reflect credit on the administration of the Commonwealth's affairs.

This Commission has had frequent conferences with the committee of the Executive Board that has these questions in charge and we have been assured by them that these principles have their hearty approval and that they are working to have them permanently embodied in the salary policy of the Board.

We have not given any consideration to the compensation of Legislative employees feeling that that was a special question which under all the circumstances of the situation should be left to the judgment and discretion of the Legislature itself, although in view of its intimate association with the Executive Departments as well as the Legislative, the Legislative Reference Bureau constitutes an exception, hence our recommendation with regard thereto.

Material furnished to the Commission by the Legislative Reference Bureau, contains references to 315 unrepealed salary laws from 1874 to and including 1927, 136 of which are obsolete. Bills to repeal these obsolete laws have been prepared and will be presented to the forthcoming session of the Legislature for enactment (see list of recommended repeals printed as Exhibit B, appended to this report). A conservative estimate of additional salary laws passed and repealed during this period is 150, making a total of 465. These figures do not include salary laws affecting school and poor districts, of which there is a great number, and consideration of which was not included within the scope of the Commission's functions. These would materially increase the total. This amount of legislation exceeds the number of general laws passed during a single legislative session. A large portion of this mass of legislation is unnecessary and the simple system recommended by this Commission will avoid recourse to the Legislature in at least 75 per cent. of these cases. These facts clearly demonstrate the need of establishing a legislative policy whereby the continual recourse to the Legislature for salary increases will be eliminated.

Legislation Recommended

1. County Salary Board Bill¹

An Act relating to counties; establishing salary boards and prescribing their powers and duties in relation to fixing the number and compensation of appointees in county offices, boards, bureaus, divisions, departments, courts and institutions whose compensation is paid from county funds and the compensation of election officers and their clerks, taxation and election assessors, and registrars and employees and appointees of personal registration commissions in cities whose compensation is paid from the county treasury; conferring powers similar to those of salary boards on the legislative bodies which levy the taxes in counties of the first class; fixing the salary of certain county officers and regulating the use and payment over fees, commissions, mileage and taxes by certain county officers for the use of the county and the Commonwealth; defining the powers of detectives; requiring counties to pay the premium on bonds, the cost of recording commissions of county officers and their appointees and to furnish offices, furniture, equipment, supplies and services to county officers and courts; and providing penalties.

Section 1. CREATION AND POWERS OF SALARY BOARD. APPEALS. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That in all counties, except counties of the first class, the county commissioners and the controller, where there is a controller, and in all other of said counties the county commissioners and the county treasurer, are hereby constituted a salary board for their respective counties, whose duty it shall be to meet on the first Monday of January in each year, and from time to time thereafter when required by any person interested, for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this section. Said salary board shall have the sole and exclusive power to determine, fix and classify the number deemed by it necessary for the proper discharge of the public business, and the salaries or compensation of all deputies, solicitors, assistant district attorneys, indictment clerks, detectives, engineers, members of the boards for assessment and revision of taxes and their appointees, boards of viewers and their appointees, sealers of weights and measures, experts, clerks, stenographers (except official court stenographers), wardens, physicians, matrons, keepers, superintendents, stewards, nurses, probation and parole officers, librarians, court criers, tipstaves, interpreters, assistants, employees and appointees in the several county offices, courts, boards, bureaus, divisions, departments and institutions thereof, whose salaries or compensation are paid out of the county treasury from county funds, and to fix also the salaries of compensation of all election officers and their clerks, all assessors for taxation and election purposes, all registrars for the personal registration of electors in cities of the third class, and all registrars, solicitors, attorneys, clerks, experts, employees and appointees of the personal registration commissions in cities of the second class and second class A, whose salaries or compensation are paid out of the county treasury from county funds²: Provided, however, That in those counties where separate orphans' courts are established, the number of assistant clerks of the orphans'

To carry this constitutional clause into effect and to abolish the system of retaining fees in the more populous counties, the legislature enacted the Act of March 31, 1876, P. L. 13, which act forms the basis upon which this bill is founded. In 1876, the important purpose for accomplishment was the abolition of the fee system and that act consequently featured this point. With this principle firmly established and extended to several classes of counties having a population of less than 150,000, the Salary Survey Commission is of the opinion that the important principle to be established at this time is full and complete home rule in the matter of salaries of persons whose compensation is paid from the county treasury. It has therefore rearranged its revision of the Act of 1876 and emphasized the creation and powers of the county salary board by placing the material relating thereto in section one.

courts shall be fixed by the register of wills with the consent and approval of the orphans' court, but the salaries or compensation of such assistant clerks shall be fixed by the salary board.³ And Provided also, That nothing contained in this act shall be in derogation of the authority of the sheriff in any county of any class to summon a posse comitatus, or to appoint special deputies or to obtain needed supplies or extra services at reasonable wages or cost whenever required in special or emergency cases for the proper performance of his duties, at the expense of such county or persons benefited thereby, subject to the approval of any compensation or charges payable by such county by the court of common pleas therein or any two judges thereof, if there be more than one judge of such court.

Whenever said salary board is assembled to consider the case of the appointees of any one of said county offices, courts, boards, bureaus, divisions, departments or institutions, the county officer, president or chairman of such court, board, bureau, division, department or institution, having the power of appointment, shall sit as a member of the salary board with power to vote so long as the case of his or its appointees is under consideration and no longer and a decision of a majority of the board shall govern.

If after a decision is made by the salary board, any county officer, president, chairman, officers, appointee or person or persons affected by the action of the salary board, shall think that the number of appointees allowed is too few or too great or that the compensation fixed by the board in any case is too small or too large, he may appeal from the action of the board to the court of common pleas of such county which court shall hear and determine such appeal do novo and its decision fixing the number, salary or compensation of such persons shall be final until the next annual meeting of the salary board.⁴

Each such salary board shall keep correct minutes of all its proceedings which shall be public records, open to inspection during business hours, and shall be received in evidence.

In counties of the first class, the number and salaries or compensation of all appointees, officers and persons as enumerated in this section, whose salaries or compensation are paid out of the county or city treasury from county or city funds, shall be fixed from time to time upon budget recommendations by the legislative body, which under the provisions of existing laws, levies the taxes and raises the revenues from which such salaries or compensation are paid.⁵

In the case of election officers, assessors for taxation or election purposes or any other public officer whose salary or compensation is fixed by the salary board or legislative body under the provisions of this act, such salary shall be fixed by the board or legislative body before the election or appointment of such officers and shall not be increased or diminished during the terms for which they were respectively elected or appointed.⁶

This section shall not apply to any poor district unless the affairs of such poor district are managed and administered by the county commissioners as ex-officio directors of the poor.

Section 2. APPOINTING POWER. The appointees, employees, officers and persons whose salaries are fixed by the salary board or legislative body under the provisions of this act shall be appointed or elected in the manner now or hereafter provided by law; and where no law exists conferring such power of appointment, the power of appointment shall be exercised by the officer, court or board in whose office or court such appointee, employee, officer or person is allowed by the salary board or legislative body.⁷

Section 6. SALARIES FOURTH-CLASS COUNTIES. In counties of the fourth class the annual salaries of the county officers shall be as follows:

The sheriff, six thousand dollars.

⁶ This paragraph is in conformity with the spirit of Sec. 13, Art. III, of the Constitution.

Section 12. USE OF FEES, COMMISSIONS, ETC., REGULATED. In all counties where by the provisions of this act an annual salary is fixed for a county officer, all fees, commissions, mileage and taxes (except those received for acting as agent for the Commonwealth or as agent for the Federal Government, or those received for the use of the Commonwealth), fixed by law or to be received by such county officer for official services rendered in the conduct of his office, and which he shall be legally authorized, required or entitled to charge or receive, shall belong to the county in and for which such officer is elected or appointed. All such county officers shall exact, collect and receive all such fees, commissions, mileage and taxes to and for the use of their respective counties, except as hereinbefore excepted. None of said officers shall receive for any official services any fees, commissions, mileage or taxes for his own use except for acting as agent for the Commonwealth or the Federal Government, but all such fees, commissions, mileage and taxes shall be received and collected only for the use of the proper county or for the use of the Commonwealth, as the case may be.²²

Section 13. PAYMENT OVER OF FEES, ACCOUNTS AND AUDITS. Each county officer shall keep a permanent account book, the form of which shall be prescribed by the controller, in counties where there is a controller, and in other counties by the chief clerk to the county commissioners, in which entry shall be made by such officers, their deputies and clerks forthwith upon receipt of all fees, commissions, mileage and taxes earned for the use of the county chargeable against any person or persons or against the county, specifying the date, the number and term of proceedings, if any, or for what official service received or due. The permanent account book shall be subject to the inspection and examination of the county controller, in these counties where there is such an officer, and in other counties by the county commissioners, monthly following the return of money received by such officers.

On the first Monday of each month each of said officers for whom a salary is fixed under the provisions of this act shall pay to the treasurer of the county all such fees, commissions, mileage and taxes so received during the preceding month, taking duplicate receipts thereof, one of which he shall deposit with the controller, where there is a controller, and in other counties with the chief clerk to the county commissioners, together with a concise summary or transcript of his account book for the preceding month, to which he shall make oath or affirmation before the controller or chief clerk, that the said transcript contains a true and correct list of all the fees, commissions, mileage and taxes received or earned and outstanding or chargeable upon the county or against any person or persons for official services rendered in his office, either by himself, deputies, clerks or appointees during the preceding month, that said fees were severally charged at legal rates, and that he has not received and is not to receive from any person or persons whatsoever, for any official service or duty, any other fees or moneys than those so entered, except as heretofore excepted.

It shall be the duty of the controller, where such office exists, or clerk to the county commissioners, to receive such returns as aforesaid and from time to time audit and verify the same, and to do such other matters and things as may be required in the premises, to file said receipt and transcript in his office and to charge the county treasurer with the money for fees so paid in, and to credit each office for fees earned and charged against the county in said office, and carry the same on the books of the county as a credit towards the salaries of said office.

When fees are paid to one office for official services rendered or to be rendered by another, the officer rendering said services and entitled to said fees, shall receive and collect the same from the office which collected them at least once each and every month and account for same as other fees are accounted for.

The county controller or chief clerk shall have power to examine under oath, all officers whose accounts are filed pursuant to this act, their deputies, clerks, appointees and any other person or persons in relation to any matter touching or concerning the said accounts, or any item therein contained; and shall have power to issue subpoenas to compel the attendance of any such officer, deputy, clerk, appointee or other person or persons.

If any county officer shall receive or stipulate to receive from any deputy, clerk, or appointee, or from any person or persons awarded any contract, any sum or sums of money as compensation for making any of the said appointments or contracts, or shall wilfully neglect to render the accounts required as aforesaid, or to pay over the moneys received for fees, commissions, mileage and taxes, where required so to do, or shall wilfully neglect to make any proper entry in the book or books required to be kept, or shall wilfully neglect to charge for any official services the fees, commissions, mileage and taxes allowed by law, or shall appropriate to his own use any such fees, commissions, mileage or taxes, except as before excepted, or shall fail to comply with any of the provisions of this act, or wilfully neglect to discharge any of the duties herein imposed, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor in office, and in addition to the other penalties provided by law for such offenses he shall, upon conviction thereof, refund the said sum or sums of moneys thus wilfully received or appropriated to his own use or which he wilfully neglected to charge and shall forthwith forfeit his office.

Section 15. PENALTY FOR PERJURY. Any county officer or any other person who shall knowingly and wilfully swear or affirm falsely as to the accuracy of any account or transcript required by this act, or in making any affidavit in reference thereto, shall be guilty of perjury, and upon conviction thereof shall be liable to the punishment prescribed by law for perjury. Any person who shall knowingly procure any other person to swear or affirm falsely in verifying any such account or transcript, or in making any affidavit in reference thereto, shall be guilty of subordination of perjury and upon conviction thereof shall be liable to the punishment prescribed by law for this offense.

Section 16. COUNTIES LIABLE FOR SALARIES. All county officers, whose salaries are fixed by this act, whether elected by the people or appointed according to law, and their several deputies, clerks, assistants and appointees authorized, and all other persons and officers whose salaries have been fixed by the salary board or legislative body as in this act provided, shall be paid for their services by fixed and specific salaries or compensation, which shall be a charge upon the treas-

Martin*, 125 Pa. 533; Luzerne County v. Morgan, 263 Pa. 453; Westmoreland County v. Miller, 265 Pa. 394; Bachman's Appeal, 274 Pa. 420; *Lehigh County v. ury of the county to which each such officer, deputy, clerk, appointee, assistant or person shall respectively belong. Said salaries in the case of persons regularly employed, shall be paid semi-monthly on the first and third Mondays of the month succeeding that in which the services were rendered. No warrant shall be drawn for the payment of any of the said officers, his deputies, assistants, clerks or appointees, who shall not have paid to the county treasurer the fees, commissions, mileage and taxes, as provided in this act or who shall not have filed the receipts and transcripts for that month as provided for in this act.

Section 17. SALARY OF CERTAIN COUNTY OFFICERS AND THEIR APPOINTEES NOT TO EXCEED EARNINGS OF OFFICE. In counties of the first, second, third and fourth classes the salary of the prothonotary, clerk of the courts of quarter sessions and oyer and terminer, district attorney, sheriff, recorder of deeds, register of wills, clerk of the orphans' court, the coroner, and of their respective deputies, clerks, assistants and appointees (other than assistant district attorneys, detectives, indictment clerks and solicitors), shall never exceed the fees, commissions and mileage of their respective offices, collected and paid into the county treasury. The salary of such county officers, fixed by this act, shall be paid from the amounts paid into the county treasury from their respective offices, after ascertaining and deducting the amount due the deputies, clerks, assistants and appointees (other than assistant district attorneys, detectives, indictment clerks and solicitors). If there has not been a sufficient sum received and paid in from fees, commissions and mileage for any month to pay the full amount of the salary of any such officer, after deducting the amount due the deputies, clerks, assistants and appointees, such officer shall receive only such portion of his salary as shall be equal to the aggregate of the net fees, commissions and mileage received and earned by him as aforesaid during such month. If the fees, commissions and mileage in any subsequent month or months, during his term of office, shall exceed the amount of the salary for the county officer and his deputies, clerks, assistants and appointees for such month, the deficit of the salary for any preceding month or months, during his term of office, shall be made up from such excess.

All other county officers and their appointees and all other officers and appointees whose salaries or compensation are fixed by the salary board or legislative body, shall be paid the full amount of salary or compensation fixed by this act, or by the salary board or legislative body.

Section 18. SALARIES IN LIEU OF EXPENSES AND FEES. The salaries fixed and provided by the foregoing sections shall be in lieu of all or any moneys, fees, commissions or mileage expenses and other allowances, except for services rendered for acting as agent of the Commonwealth or Federal Government, which are now or may hereafter be received or allowed to any such officer; and all said moneys, fees, mileage or commission from any source whatsoever, shall in all cases belong to the county and shall be paid into the county treasury, except where required to be paid to the Commonwealth, as provided in this act; but necessary traveling and other expenses of the officers incurred in the administration of their offices, shall be paid by the county.

Section 19. PUBLIC RECORDS. All books, records, papers and accounts kept by any of the officers named or included in this act, shall be public records, open to inspection during business hours, and such books, records, papers and accounts shall be received in evidence.

Section 20. COUNTIES TO FURNISH SUPPLIES, ETC. Each county to which this act applies shall at the cost of the county, furnish the office furniture, necessary equipment and supplies, including stationery, typewriters, dating stamps, postage, printed forms, dockets, both blank and printed, printed court calendars, and trial lists for the several courts for the use of officers and attorneys, pay for the advertising of all accounts required to be published as well as trial lists, and furnish heat, light and janitor service, pay premiums on bonds of officers, deputies, clerks and appointees and for the recording of commissions of said officers as well as deeds of appointment of deputies and clerks.

Section 21. POWERS OF DETECTIVES. All detectives allowed by the salary board for the office of the district attorney shall have, possess and exercise all the rights and powers conferred by law upon constables, so far as such laws relate to crimes and criminal procedure. They shall, when requested by the district attorney, make an investigation and endeavor to obtain such evidence as may be required in any criminal case. They shall also perform such other duties as the district attorney may direct.

Section 22. SAVING CLAUSE. The provisions of this act shall not affect any act done, liability incurred or vested or affect any suit or prosecution pending or to be instituted to enforce any rights or penalty, or punish any offense under the authority of any laws repealed by this act.

Section 23. EFFECTIVE DATE AND APPLICATION. This act shall take effect on the first Monday of January, one thousand nine hundred and thirty; but shall not be construed to apply to the salary of any public officer in office at the date of the approval of this act, but all such public officers shall be entitled to receive the salaries now provided by law for such office.

The statutory salary of County Solicitor in second-class counties ($2,000) is obviously inadequate.

The Act of April 27, 1911, P. L. 81, fixes salary of Deputy Prothonotary, Middle district of Supreme Court, at $720. The Act of May 1, 1913, P. The General Appropriation Act of 1927 appropriates for a two-year period $4,800 for the Deputy Prothonotary and a clerk for the Middle district; $7,800 for the Deputy of the Eastern district and $6,000 for a deputy and clerk for the Western district of Supreme Court.

Resolution of the House of Representatives Approved the 17th
Day of March A. D. 1927

Whereas, There has been introduced in the House of Representatives of the General Assembly for the session of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven a bill known as House Bill number one thousand one hundred forty-six, entitled "An act to establish in the Department of Public Instruction a fund for the purpose of insuring school buildings against loss by fire; creating a board to administer the fund; providing methods of administration; and making an appropriation for the expense of initiating the fund" and

Whereas, The passage of the bill might tend to improve the financial condition of school districts by effecting a saving to districts of amounts paid for fire protection; and

Whereas, The Department of Public Instruction and the Insurance Department of the Commonwealth acknowledge merit in said bill, but are not fully agreed as to the proper method of administration thereof; and

Whereas, A proper study should be made of a matter of such vital importance to the school districts before any action is taken thereon;

Therefore, Be It Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the said House bill number one thousand one hundred forty-six be referred to the Superintendent of the Department of Public Instruction and the Insurance Commissioner, as a commission to make a study of the provisions of said bill, and generally of the subject of the economical insurance of school property, with the request that they present their conclusions thereon to the session of the General Assembly to be held in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine.

To the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania

Gentlemen:

Resolution No. 15, approved by the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, March 17, 1927, referred to the Superintendent of the Department of Public Instruction and the Insurance Commissioner as a Commission to make a study of the provisions of House Bill No. 1146, Session of 1927 and generally of the subject of the economical insurance of school property with the request that they present their conclusions thereon to the Session of the General Assembly to be held in the year 1929.

The provisions of the said House Bill No. 1146 were as follows:

An Act to establish in the Department of Public Instruction a fund for the purpose of insuring school buildings against loss by fire creating a board to administer the fund providing methods of administration and making an appropriation for the expenses of initiating the fund.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That there shall be established in the Department of Public Instruction a fund for the purpose of insuring subscribers against loss through the damage or destruction of property by fire. Such fund shall be administered by a board and the State Treasurer shall be the custodian of the fund all under regulations provided as follows:

Section 2. Definitions. For all purposes of this act the following definitions of terms shall apply:

(a) Department of a Public Instruction shall mean the Department of Public Instruction in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

(b) The fund shall mean the fund appropriated accumulated, or in any manner acquired for the purpose of insuring school buildings against fire loss as herein provided.

(c) The board shall mean the seven persons responsible for the administration of the fund as provided herein.

(d) The subscribers shall mean the several school districts that carry insurance in the fund as represented by written certificates or policies either issued or to be issued by the board.

(e) State Treasurer shall mean the State Treasurer of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

(f) Insurance commissioner shall mean the Insurance Commissioner of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

(g) Director shall mean a member of the board.

Section 3. The Board shall consist of seven (7) persons as follows:

The Deputy Superintendent of Public Instruction in charge of administration, the Insurance Commissioner and five other Directors. For the purpose of organization and the initiation of the business, such other five Directors shall be appointed by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, one for a term of one year, two for three years and two for five years. At the expiration of the terms of office of such other five Directors, their successors shall be elected by the subscribers for a term of five years. It shall be the duty of the Board to set up an efficient method of election for the purpose of electing members of the Board and to supervise and conduct such elections. Accidental vacancies in the Board shall be filled by appointment by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction. Directors so appointed shall serve only until the next regular election when such vacancies shall be filled by election in the regular way for the unexpired part of the term involved.

Section 4. Directors shall serve without compensation or salary excepting traveling expenses at current railroad and hotel rates and an additional allowance of fifteen dollars per diem attending board meetings provided, however, that such per diem allowance shall not exceed three hundred dollars ($300) per year for any one director.

Section 5. School Directors and Secretaries of School Boards only shall be eligible for appointment or election as members of the Board.

Section 6. The Board shall have power to establish rules and regulations governing its own organization and the conduct of its business not otherwise provided herein. Also, the Board shall have full power to regulate the fire insurance business for which it is created including the fixing of insurance rates, the classification of property for insurance purposes, the appraisal of insurable property, the adjustment of fire losses, making assessments and declaring dividends, and any other regulations incident to the administration of the fund not otherwise provided herein. Provided, however, That the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, fixing the numbers of subscribers and the number of risks and the minimum amount of insurance required for the establishment of mutual fire insurance companies in Pennsylvania shall apply to the establishment of this fund. Also, the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania governing the establishment and maintenance of the surplus fund by such mutual fire insurance companies shall apply to the administration of the fund except as otherwise provided herein.

The Board shall prepare and publish for free distribution among subscribers and school boards a schedule of premium rates for insurance in the fund as based upon the classification of insurable property.

Section 7. The Board shall keep an accurate account of receipts from premiums and all other sources and of all payments for fire losses and all other expenditures including operating expenses. They shall create a surplus fund for the protection of subscribers. They shall have authority to invest and reinvest such funds in such securities as are legal for the investment of trust funds and for savings bank investments in Pennsylvania.

Section 8. The State Treasurer shall be custodian of the fund or such sums thereof as may be directed by the Board and all disbursements therefrom shall be made by him upon vouchers authorized by the Board. The State Treasurer shall be custodian of any securities owned by or held in the name of the fund. He shall receive from the Board all such securities giving his receipt for the same and shall deliver the same to the Board or to their authorized agent upon the order of the Board.

Section 9. Any school district in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania may become a subscriber to this fund by action of a majority vote of the School Board of such school district at any regular or special meeting of the Board of Directors of such school district and may carry in the fund fire insurance on any property owned by such school district in such amounts as approved by the Board.

All insurance in the fund shall be voluntary on the part of school districts and no property whatsoever other than public school property located within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania shall be insurable in this fund.

Section 10. The Board shall have authority to reinsure any risk which they may deem necessary for the security of any subscriber or the safety of the fund or the general interest of the business.

Section 11. The Board shall appoint for the purpose of administering the fund a manager and may employ the services of an Actuary, a Secretary, Clerks, Stenographers, Appraisers, or such other employees as may be required in the administration of the fund and may fix their salaries or compensation and provide for traveling expenses of such employees, provided, however, that within the first five years of the operation of the fund, the salary of the manager shall not exceed four thousand eight hundred dollars ($4,800) per annum.

Section 12. For purposes of defraying the expenses of organizing and establishing the business of the fund, the sum of thirty thousand dollars ($30,000) is hereby appropriated out of any moneys in the Treasury of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania not otherwise appropriated. Any balance remaining of this appropriation at the end of the second year of the operation of the fund shall be applied to the surplus of the fund.

Section 13. Immediately upon the approval of this Act, it shall be the duty of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction to take the necessary steps to bring about the organization of the Board and the creation and operation of the fund.

Procedure

The form attached hereto and marked Exhibit "A" was prepared and mailed to each and every school district in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

There are 2,587 school districts in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and 1,689 of these districts returned Exhibit "A", and, in preparing this report, we were able to and did use 627, and 1,062 had to be ignored or disregarded because the information reflected thereby was incomplete or insufficient, so that the data hereinafter codified and reported is predicated upon the information furnished by substantially 25% of the school districts of Pennsylvania, excluding inter-alia the city of Philadelphia and the city of Pittsburgh.

The reports were returned to the Department of Public Instruction and Exhibit "B", attached hereto, shows the school districts of the State, according to classes of districts, that were considered in the study.

The reports, when assembled by the Department of Public Instruction were delivered to the Insurance Department for codification and to abstract therefrom the data to be the basis for this report and recommended to you.

Exhibit "C", attached hereto is the composite figure reflected by the 627 acceptable reports and a study thereof shows that these districts have a grand total of 2,441 buildings with a replacement value of $88,411,541.00 carrying aggregate insurance as of July 1, 1927 in the amount of $60,853,903.00. During the five-year period beginning July 1, 1922, and ending July 1, 1927, premiums in the amount of $1,071,091.84 were paid, while losses sustained during the same period amounted to $220,975.89. The detailed figures supporting these totals are shown upon Exhibit "C". Exhibit "C" shows premiums and losses under classifications that reflect inconsistencies, but it is to be presumed that if the premiums and losses are not properly allocated to classifications, that nevertheless, the aggregate of premiums paid and losses sustained are correct.

To better explain the preceding paragraph attached hereto is Exhibit "D" which discloses the percentage ratio of losses incurred to premiums paid for fire protection of the six accepted classifications concluding in the final figure for all classifications of .2063%.

We have previously said that the City of Philadelphia is excluded in the experience above. This, for the reason that they have their own fund, or, in other words, they are self-insured. They have reported their experience from the establishment of their fund in 1913 to June 1, 1927, which reflects that on an assessed valuation of $65,000,000, they have incurred during the period of the fund, losses amounting to $366,978.44 and have had miscellaneous disbursements in connection with the fund of $443.69 or a total for loss and expense of $367,422.13.

The city of Pittsburgh has reported 158 school buildings with a replacement value of $34,558,847.05 insured in the amount of $28,751,800.00. During the five-year period beginning July 1, 1922, total premiums in the amount of $174,572.41 were disbursed for insurance protection while the losses sustained during the same period totaled $36,591.13 or .21%.

From these several tests, it would appear that the experience on school buildings throughout the State of Pennsylvania would reflect a loss incurred of about 20% of the premiums paid to insurance companies for fire protection.

The reports disclose that some of the districts are carrying their insurance with mutual companies (in light of the fact that the Court of Common Pleas of Erie County has decreed, in equity, that school districts are not permitted to insure with mutual companies) where the rates are consistently lower than those charged by stock companies. This would have the tendency of making the ratio still lower.

In other words, each dollar paid for fire insurance means that 20c is paid back to the District in losses and if a fund is created and maintained in addition to the 20c would have to be added, the expense of maintaining the fund including the acquisition of business, inspections, rating, adjustments and management expenses which, it might be safe to assume after the funds is in operation, would amount to, not exceeding 25c, all dependent upon to what extent the school districts of Pennsylvania were insured through the fund.

Based upon the report from the 627 school districts and the figures submitted by the cities of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, it is assumed that the insurable value for fire protection purposes of all of the public school buildings of the State of Pennsylvania aggregates $335,000,000.00 and this figure does not include equipment, supplies, etc., and the spread of the risk and the exposure hazard from an underwriting standpoint is ideal.

These figures warrant the conclusion that a fund such as anticipated by House-Bill No. 1146—1927 is advisable.

If the fund is to be created then the language of said House-Bill No. 1146 is not objectionable, but it could be made to include windstorm and tornado coverage, and the administration of the fund should be placed in the Insurance Department.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN A. H. KEITH,
Superintendent of Public Instruction.

MATTHEW H. TAGGART,
Insurance Commissioner.

Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, January 1, 1929.

To the Honorables, the Legislatures of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and of the State of New Jersey and the Council of the City of Philadelphia.

The Delaware River Bridge Joint Commission respectfully reports that the Delaware River Bridge had a most successful year in 1927 and after paying all expenses of maintenance and operation, the Joint Commission returned $2,093,921.89 to the State of New Jersey, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the City of Philadelphia. Of this amount New Jersey received $1,046,960.95 and Pennsylvania and Philadelphia each $523,480.47.

Total expenses for the year were $346,678.59, as detailed in the balance sheet appended to this report.

The earnings exceeded all estimates made prior to the opening of the bridge. The last six months of 1927 showed a marked increase over the corresponding months of 1926. The bridge opened to traffic on July 2, 1926, and on December 31st the Joint Commission distributed $946,682.83. The net receipts for the same six months in 1927 amounted to $1,229,925.85, an increase of more than 29 per cent.

In our last yearly report was included the agreement for the collection of tolls between the Pennsylvania Commission and the New Jersey Interstate Bridge & Tunnel Commission. Part of this agreement was a schedule of net receipts which might be anticipated. The estimate for the second year of operation called for $1,281,250. Actually the bridge in its second year has reached the net earnings predicted for its sixth year.

During 1927 the sum of $2,411,141.44 was collected as tolls. Interest upon deposits of toll receipts was $15,886.22 and $11,247.58 in miscellaneous receipts was derived principally from the lease of space under the Philadelphia Approach for the parking of automobiles and the lease of Pier No. 11 for the unloading of some barges of paving blocks.

The total number of vehicles was 8,593,201. Of these 7,253,760 were pleasure cars and pneumatic-tired light delivery trucks, paying 25 cents apiece. Next in importance were 1,181,183 passenger buses. Of the total bus receipts of $509,669 the Penn-Jersey Rapid Transit Company paid $263,500 and the independent companies $246,169.

Approximately twenty independent bus companies are engaged in transporting passengers between Philadelphia and points in New Jersey. In addition the Penn-Jersey Rapid Transit Company, which is owned jointly by the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company and the Public Service Railway Company of New Jersey, operates between Philadelphia and the New Jersey suburbs. The Penn-Jersey Company also runs double-deck buses between Philadelphia and Camden.

When the bridge was opened no one foresaw the response of the travelling public to the attractions of the bus. The Penn-Jersey Company guaranteed $100,000 for the first year and in return was permitted to pass single-deck buses for 25 cents and double-deck buses for 40 cents, while the independent companies, which offered no guarantee, paid 40 cents for toll on each single-deck bus. The agreement with the Penn-

Jersey Company expired July 1st, 1927, and was not renewed by the Commission.

There was evidence on the bridge, particularly at the expansion joints, that the heavy vehicles were requiring the expenditure of considerable sums for roadway maintenance and repair. Accordingly the Joint Commission fixed the rate for solid-tired double-deck buses at 75 cents and all single-deck buses at 50 cents. No guarantee was asked from any operator. The bus business had reached a point where it supplied a great and growing demand of residents of New Jersey for transportation. That the number of buses may be expected to continue to increase is indicated by the figures for December, 1927, when 107,637 crossed the bridge, the record number for the year.

The attraction of the bridge has been greatest for vehicles capable of moving at a fair speed. The heavier trucks and the horse-drawn wagons continue to patronize the ferries. During the year 114,678 trucks crossed the bridge while the total return from wagons and led horses amounted to only $425.40. Motorcycles and bicycles numbering 22,585 returned $2,258.50.

The average daily traffic was 23,543 vehicles and the average daily return $6,680.20. The greatest traffic for one day was 55,674, recorded on Sunday, July 17th. On several other Sundays during the summer more than 51,000 cars crossed. These figures are far below the capacity of the toll gates or the traffic lanes on the bridge. Most of the Sunday business was concentrated within a few hours when the rush homeward from the seashore was at its height. The bridge can pass 7,000 cars an hour and 100,000 vehicles could be handled in a day without serious increase of overhead costs.

That the traffic is steadily growing cannot be disputed. Because the bridge has been open for eighteen months, it is possible to compare the period of July 1-December 31, 1926, when 4,137,674 vehicles passed, with the corresponding six months of 1927, when a record of 4,883,658 vehicles was established, an increase of more than 4000 vehicles a day.

For the year the bridge has received 76 per cent of the total cross-river traffic, the balance being divided among the Reading and Pennsylvania Railroad ferries and the Tacony-Palmyra ferry, the latter soon to be replaced with a bridge. In June, 1926, just prior to the opening of the bridge, the ferries carried 538,882 vehicles. In June, 1927, the number was 256,302. There is no indication of the railroad ferries being compelled to suspend operation and it is probable that the bulk of the heavy truck and horse-drawn business will continue to patronize them.

That the bridge has created its own business instead of diverting only the ferry traffic is shown by a comparison of June, 1926, and June, 1927. As against the 538,882 vehicles transported by the ferries in the former year, a total of 1,039,525 vehicles crossed the river in June, 1927, by means of the combined bridge and ferry facilities.

The chief problem facing the bridge today lies in the approaches. By virtue of its proximity to the central business district of Philadelphia, the bridge discharges and receives its daily traffic over streets which even prior to the bridge opening had been carrying about as many vehicles as could well be accommodated. Fifth and Sixth Streets, Race and Vine Streets were already well congested. No provision was made to take care of the additional vehicles the bridge would deliver.

Traffic was well taken care of at the eastern end of the bridge by the State of New Jersey constructing a belt highway around Camden, tapping the principal roads of South Jersey. Access to this highway was provided by reducing the width of the sidewalks on Penn and Linden Streets and throwing the space thus gained into the roadway. This expedient was of value because there is practically no traffic on these residential streets which is not to or from the bridge, differing greatly from the situation in Philadelphia where traffic which has no connection with the bridge is sufficient to fill the narrow streets. The City of Camden also opened an outlet south from the Bridge Plaza by cutting Broadway through from Market Street.

The first step toward the situation in Philadelphia was taken when the City Council in 1927 placed upon the official plan a new street between Fifth and Sixth Streets. The Council decided that Fifth Street and Sixth Street, carrying respectively north and south-bound traffic, were so congested with trolley cars and through traffic that a new street giving access to Spring Garden Street was needed.

The problem of handling traffic in the vicinity of the bridge will grow steadily unless measures are taken to provide better outlets. There is a real danger that the ultimate usefulness of the bridge will be curtailed by the constructed approaches. Unquestionably the bridge loses potential patrons by reason of the inconvenience and delay caused by narrow streets. Additional patronage would mean that the bridge would be paid for faster and hasten the day when it will be free from tolls.

Serious consideration should be given without delay to the most vulnerable point in the continued growth of the bridge, the need of securing a better outlet from the Philadelphia Plaza.

It is gratifying to note that the police and toll bureaus, which are continually in contact with the public, have discharged their duties in a way to earn praise from the patrons of the bridge. Only 128 arrests were found necessary during the year and the majority were of persons driving while intoxicated.

The public has cooperated to a remarkable degree in expediting the collection of tolls. In eight cases out of ten the motorist has his quarter ready, thereby doing away with the necessity of making change. The system of collecting by means of the automatic hand registers has proved successful. A collector can pass from 450 to 550 machines per hour through his lane. At all times during the year the regular ten toll lanes proved sufficient and the auxiliary four lanes were not put in use.

Entrusted with the responsibility of administering a project costing approximately $37,000,000, the Joint Commission has endeavored to keep the bridge in first-class condition, both structurally and for appearance. It was early realized that the bridge would be subject to a closer scrutiny in the matter of painting, general cleanliness and freedom from snow than any highway upon which no toll was charged. With 50,000 tons of steel exposed to the elements and eight million vehicles rolling over the roadway, the importance of quick elimination of rust and immediate repairs of defects in the paving was manifest. With its own maintenance forces the bridge has been kept in condition.

early in the year the entire maintenance department was permanently housed in the garage constructed under the bridge approach at Fourth Street, Philadelphia. There all the tools machinery for cleaning and snow removal, electrical supplies and other material in constant demand for use upon the bridge are stored so that a careful check may be kept upon their use. A workshop is part of the equipment. Heat is obtained from a factory close by.

Much effort was necessarily devoted to combating rust and corrosion. It was found essential to clean, scale and paint the roadway curbs over the entire bridge and approaches, the bases of the box columns along the Philadelphia approach, the hand railing on top of the top cord, practically all doors in the anchorages, both interior and exterior, the base castings of the cable bents and the main towers, the elevator machinery, tee rails and cars in the anchorages and main towers, the steel supporting the roadway in the interior of the Camden Anchorage, the corroded rivet heads and rust spots on top of the top cord and on top of the floor beams and diagonals over the main bridge.

Under the heavy traffic the expansion joints of the roadway sustained a steady pounding which necessitated attention and repairs. A total of 121 blocks at 17 expansion points were torn up and reset. At all the other points the cover plates were raised, steel shims placed beneath to afford an even bearing surface, the bolts renewed and tightened. The objectionable noise caused by loose and clanging plates was thus eliminated.

The main expansion joints at both towers were reshimmed to silence the noise and prevent the finger joints jamming.

Leakage of rain into the main steel towers threatened to be a problem, but this has largely been overcome by recaulking the interiors and the hoods on top of the towers wherever openings were noticed.

Traffic lines dividing the bridge into six lanes were repainted three times on the suspended structure and six times on the approaches. Without these lines it would not be possible to pass six lanes of traffic. Normally traffic flows along three lanes in each direction, the tides being divided by steel buttons inserted in sockets down the middle line. On Sunday nights during the summer when the movement of traffic was preponderantly westward, the markers were shifted to permit four lanes to carry westbound vehicles. This shift was accomplished on ten successive Sundays without accident.

The roadway and plaza surfaces wore well during the year. All cracks in the asphalt were filled immediately upon discovery with hot oil.

The electrical equipment of the bridge has been kept to a high standard. Illumination of the main bridge, approaches, footwalks, plazas, driveways, underneath and certain traffic signs is provided by 399 lamps of 1000, 600 and 400 candle-power capacities. Renewal of lamps over the entire property during the year cost $1700.

In order to permit the use of electrically-operated tools along the approaches and to provide temporary lighting facilities for emergencies, a power line with receptacles at every expansion joint was installed along both approaches from the anchorages. Flood lights were installed at the plazas to play upon policemen directing traffic, as a safety measure.

The bridge has been kept under constant daily inspection and throughout is in first-class condition.

The year was marked by the retirement of Mr. Samuel M. Vauclain, a member of the Joint Commission for more than six years, who on August 20th, 1927, forwarded his resignation to Governor John S. Fisher, of Pennsylvania. Mr. Vauclain had given his time and business experience to the building of the bridge without stint. His duties as president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works demanded his attention and he felt that after the bridge had been in operation for a year he could retire from the Commission. The Governor appointed Mr. William H. Folwell, of Philadelphia, to fill the vacancy.

The Administration Building on the Camden Plaza was occupied by the Joint Commission June 1st, 1927. Previously the offices were in the Widener Building, Philadelphia, while the police force made its headquarters in a rented building in Camden. The Commission meets regularly in the Administration Building, where all the details attending the operation of the bridge are transacted.

Facilities for trolley cars and high-speed electric lines still await utilization by the transportation companies. In April, 1927, representatives of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company presented to the Commission a proposal that the bridge be equipped with tracks and a barn be built under the Camden Approach, at a cost to the Commission of approximately $600,000. In return for the exclusive privilege to operate trolley cars, the company proposed to pay a toll of one-half cent per passenger.

The company announced its intention to operate a line from the subway station under the Philadelphia Plaza, across the bridge and to Fourth and Mickle Streets, Camden. At a hearing on July 13th, 1927, before the Executive Committee of the Joint Commission, the company's representatives declined to guarantee a lump sum return for the franchise beyond assuring the interest and sinking-fund upon the investment of $600,000.

After careful deliberation the Commission concluded that this proposal would not add to the net revenues of the bridge, inasmuch as the operating costs would be increased by approximately $30,000 annually if the anchorage and subway station were put in commission for trolley service. It would be necessary to request the Legislature of New Jersey to appropriate $300,000 for half the cost of the trackage. Pennsylvania and Philadelphia have unexpended balances from the construction account appropriations to meet their share of the cost.

The Commission decided that the company's offer would not warrant the installation of tracks at this time.

Detailed balance sheets of both the operation and construction accounts as of December 31st, 1927, are appended.

The Joint Commission records its appreciation of the spirit of the Legislatures of Pennsylvania and New Jersey and the City of Philadelphia which have always acted for the best interests of the Delaware River Bridge.

Details of receipts, expenses and distribution are appended to this report.

In the thirty months since the opening of the bridge 22,458,345 vehicles crossed. The gain in traffic and in receipts for the corresponding months of 1926, 1927 and 1928 has been steady and consistent. Returns have been greatly in excess of the expectations of the members of the Joint Commission. Prior to the opening our Engineers estimated that the second year would show a traffic of 6,725,000 cars and a net return of $1,281,250. It was further estimated that the annual net revenues would in the seventh complete year of operation amount to $2,437,500. As shown above, this mark has already been exceeded with the bridge only two and one-half years old.

There is little reason to doubt that the bridges can be freed of tolls for private automobiles in 1941 if there is no reduction made in the tolls charged. The rates of toll upon the Delaware River Bridge are lower than on any structure in the country which compares with it in size and cost. A charge of 50 cents is made upon private passenger automobiles upon the Port of New York Authority bridges in northern New Jersey and in the Hudson Vehicular Tunnel while the rate upon the Bear Mountain Bridge is three times the toll charged for a similar car upon the Delaware River Bridge.

During the year the Commission had a computation made of the total cost of the bridge, including interest at 4 per cent, upon funds advanced during construction. Under the laws of both states interest during construction must be added to the appropriations made for bridge purposes and the total set up as the actual cost of the bridge to be repaid out of tolls.

The interest charge amounts to $5,802,851.83 and the amount to be paid New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Philadelphia as of December 31, 1928 was $37,125,876.03. Details of this computation are contained in the appendix.

Pleasure cars and light trucks furnish by far the largest proportion of traffic upon the Delaware River Bridge. Of the total of 9,725,470 cars crossing in 1928, 8,260,066 were passenger cars and light delivery trucks. These are classified together because collection is made by means of quarters inserted in the automatic hand-registers used by our collectors. The department stores, newspaper publishers and specialty shops to whom speed is essential patronize the bridge almost exclusively.

Next in importance as a revenue producer to these vehicles are the passenger buses. In 1928, 1,297,532 buses passed over the bridge, an increase of 116,349 over the record for 1927.

In 1928 receipts from the buses amounted to $665,724.75. Of this amount $319,494.25 was received from the Pennsylvania Rapid Transit Company which is operated by the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company and the Public Service Railway Company of New Jersey. This bus business gives every prospect of increasing as the suburbs of New Jersey grow. There has been some complaint that the public demand for transportation is not wholly satisfied by the number of buses now operating.

The Joint Commission has received only one proposal to operate cars on rails across the bridge. This was made by the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company which requested exclusive rights to operate over the trolley tracks paying in return therefor a toll of one-half cent per passenger. The entire cost of laying tracks was to be met by the Commission. The Company offered to guarantee interest and sinking fund charges on the bonds to be issued for the improvement. The Commission held a conference which was attended by a representative of the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Reading Railroad to determine if these companies would be interested in operating electric trains across the bridge upon the outside track spaces which had been reserved for such service. These companies, how-

To the Honorable, the Legislatures of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and of the State of New Jersey and the Council of the City of Philadelphia.

A gratifying increase in traffic and receipts upon the Delaware River Bridge between Philadelphia and Camden was made in 1928 over 1927. The following figures attest the steadily mounting popularity of the structure and its importance as the link between the states of Pennsylvania and New Jersey:

Year	Vehicles	Receipts	Daily Average Vehicles	Daily Average Receipts
1928	9,725,470	$2,827,786.83	26,718	$7,768.64
Increase	1,132,269	$392,002.43	3,175	$1,088.44

Net receipts in 1928 amounted to $2,449,196.82, an increase of $355,274.93, or more than 16 per cent, over 1927. In accordance with the laws of the States, New Jersey received 50 per cent. of the net receipts or $1,224,598.40 while Pennsylvania and Philadelphia each received $612,299.21. Total expenses of operating and maintaining the bridge in satisfactory condition were $378,590.01 in 1928 and $346,678.59 in 1927. In both years the expenses were kept below the figure of $400,000 which prior to the opening of the bridge was fixed as a conservative estimate for the annual cost of maintenance.

ever, have been deterred by reason of the cost of reaching the bridge in Philadelphia and of connecting in Camden with their present lines.

While the cost of providing for trolley and high speed tracks has represented a large proportion of the total amount expended in bridge construction this space may well be utilized in the future even if rails are not laid. Provision was made in the building of the bridge to carry the extra dead weight that would be added by paving over of the track space so that four additional lanes might be added to the width of the roadway, if and when the growth of traffic warrants this change. It would not be difficult to make provision at the western end of the bridge for vehicles operating upon the track space to reach the Philadelphia streets. However, the Commission feels that the original plan of operating trolley and high speed lines across the bridge has much in its favor.

The capacity of the present six roadways to accommodate traffic has not yet been tested. On Sunday, July 29th, 1928, 59,023 vehicles crossed the bridge. This was the peak of the year. A count made in the evening hours when the rush from the shore points was at its height showed that 4,244 cars per hour were passing over the bridge. This number was handled by the collectors on duty on ten toll lanes without trouble. There was no occasion to open the four emergency toll lanes which have been reserved for an unusual rush. Without serious difficulty the bridge can accommodate 40,000 vehicles upon the present six traffic lanes. The average daily traffic in 1928 was 26,718 vehicles.

Our heavy truck business showed an increase of 7,023 in 1928 over 1927. The figures for the year were 137,518. In one class of business, the horse-drawn, a decided decrease was noted during the year. In 1927, 5,169 horses went over the bridge while in 1928 this had fallen to 1,145. The horses are now being driven to the ferries, as the steep pull up the bridge has proved too much for them. The reduction in receipts from this class has been more than made up for in the increased speed thereby permitted to other patrons of the bridge. It takes a horse-drawn vehicle about 30 minutes to cross while the average automobile traveling thirty miles an hour goes over in less than four minutes.

The bridge carries approximately 78 per cent. of the total cross river traffic. The remaining 22 per cent. cross on the ferries operating between Camden and Philadelphia and Palmyra and Tacony. The ferries receive the bulk of the horse drawn traffic, the larger trucks and some private automobiles. In July 1926 the ferries were used by 284,023 vehicles, in July 1927, 293,200 vehicles and in July 1928, 305,349 vehicles showing a steady though not sensational increase.

Future growth of traffic upon the bridge is dependent to a large degree upon improvement in streets leading to and from the Philadelphia Plaza. The question of widening these approaches has been agitated in Philadelphia during the past year and there is good reason to believe that some improvement will be made in the near future. In this connection it has been realized that the streets leading from the bridge make a distinct impression upon the visitor. Unfortunately the streets are narrow and the buildings lining them are, in the main, of a character to give an unfair impression of the city. Particularly to visitors, Race and Vine Streets are the show windows of Philadelphia. It has been well said that a public street, however utilitarian its purpose, is also a work of art. It is something that people must look at, whether they will or not. The streets upon which the great tides of bridge traffic flow hold tremendous advertising potentialities for Philadelphia.

The City of St. Louis has just concluded the widening of Olive Street from 60 to 100 feet to help traffic and to re-establish property values in an area which was regarded in St. Louis as blighted. The cutting through of broad avenues from the Bridge Plaza would not only be of tremendous importance to the motorist but would improve a district which at present cannot be said to be flourishing. It has been found that the establishment of a traffic artery tends to stabilize land values and undoubtedly the taxable valuations would be increased on widened thoroughfares.

Some way must be found to give access to the bridge motorist to Broad Street and possibly at a later date to the Parkway. In addition a large proportion of the private cars carry persons bound for the shopping district of Philadelphia and all the intercity buses using the bridge have their chief delivery points along Market Street. This results in almost intolerable confusion and jamming of traffic in Sixth Street. Suggestions have been made to remedy this condition by the widening of Sixth and Seventh Streets or the cutting through of a new boulevard from Market Street to the bridge plaza. Without attempting to indicate which plan should be followed it may be said that the relief is badly needed.

Delays incident to this congestion have undoubtedly been very costly to the motorist and to the bus companies. There can be no jamming of traffic upon the bridge because of its six lanes and the policy of permitting no cars to stop but the difficulty of reaching the bridge probably sends a number of cars to the ferries.

The 9,725,470 vehicles crossing the bridge in 1928 represented approximately 19,000,000 car miles of traffic yet the total accidents for 1928 were only fifty-eight, resulting in the death of one man and the minor injury of twenty-one. The one fatality was due to a motorist speeding over the bridge in the early hours of the morning and crashing into the rear of a large flusher engaged in cleaning the bridge.

Our police followed their usual custom of making arrests only when absolutely necessary. The Commission has found that the average motorist can be trusted to operate his car safely without being harassed and bedeviled. Forty-seven arrests were made for reckless driving, twenty-five of drunken men, seven for larceny, seven for assault and battery, seven for holding no driver's licenses, five for attempted suicide, three for speeding and one as a hit-and-run driver. Three runaways were returned to their parents and three youths were arrested for malicious mischief. Two arrests were made at the request of the Camden police for embezzlement, three men were arrested as suspicious characters and one man as a material witness.

Nine persons committed suicide and nine attempted suicide were prevented. Our police extinguished thirty-three fires with no serious damage. Disabled vehicles numbering three hundred and four were lifted or towed from the bridge. The tow wagon authorized by the Joint Commission in 1928 proved of great benefit. During the year bridge patrolmen in automobiles and motor cycles covered 154,234 miles, a distance of approximately six times around the world. This system of patrolling has proved of inestimable value, bringing assistance to stranded or disabled cars and exercising a salutary effect upon reckless drivers. The work of the police, however, has been carried on in a way to bring praise from the motoring public and the automobile clubs.

At the close of the year the bridge and its equipment were in excellent condition. An improvement of considerable importance was made in the Camden Plaza by the removal of the island around which cars entering from Broadway were compelled to pass. In conjunction with the removal of this island, thereby affording a direct line between the Broadway entrance and the toll lanes, a blinker light which formerly stood at Sixth and Vine Streets, Philadelphia, and which had become somewhat of an obstruction, was taken from Philadelphia to the Camden Plaza. Our maintenance department transformed this blinker light into a three-color traffic regulator replacing the semaphore which formerly controlled traffic at Broadway.

During the year the maintenance force, including the electricians, was occupied constantly in seeing that the bridge was kept in perfect condition. A daily inspection was made in order that no chances should be taken with the structure in which $37,000,000 of the money of the tax-payers of Pennsylvania and New Jersey is invested.

The resignation of Mr. Isaac Ferris, Jr., as a member of the New Jersey Interstate Bridge and Tunnel Commission was forwarded to the Secretary of the State of New Jersey on October 10th, 1928. Mr. Ferris was a member of the Commission since March 18th, 1922. His services during construction of the bridge and during the first two years of operation were invaluable and his fellow members record his retirement with deep regret.

In closing, the Delaware River Bridge Joint Commission extends a most cordial invitation to the members of the Legislatures of Pennsylvania and New Jersey and the Council of the City of Philadelphia to inspect the bridge at any time.

Respectfully submitted,

APPENDIX TO THE REPORT OF THE DELAWARE RIVER
BRIDGE JOINT COMMISSION OF PENNSYL-VANIA AND NEW JERSEYAUDIT REPORT
DELAWARE RIVER BRIDGE JOINT COMMISSION
CAMDEN, NEW JERSEY
DECEMBER 31, 1928

February 1, 1929.

Delaware River Bridge Joint Commission,
Administration Building,
Camden, New Jersey.

Gentlemen:

We have completed the annual audit of the accounting records of the

DELAWARE RIVER BRIDGE JOINT COMMISSION

for the year ended December 31, 1928, and herein present our report embodying comments, balance sheets, statements of earnings and expenses growing out of the operation of the Bridge for the year just concluded, the accumulation of earnings to date and other data.

The Bridge has been open to traffic and in operation since July 1, 1926. For the two and one-half years elapsed since that date, net earnings have amounted to $5,490,291.54. A total amount of $5,489,801.54 has been refunded to the three participants in the project—the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, the State of New Jersey and the City of Philadelphia, in accordance with the terms of the Tolls Agreement of 1926.

Net earnings for this period exceeded the amount originally anticipated by $2,158,088.66. Comparison of the actual with the estimated revenue is more clearly presented in a tabulation appearing on a later page of this report.

The Tolls Agreement of 1926 between the Pennsylvania Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the New Jersey Interstate Bridge and Tunnel Commission of the State of New Jersey, under the terms of which the Bridge is operated, requires that a supplement thereto, to be known as Schedule C, should be executed upon the completion of the construction of the Bridge. In accordance with this provision, authority was given us to establish Schedule C. This was done as of June 30, 1928, interest during the period of construction being calculated at the rates and in the manner set forth in our report on the subject dated October 1, 1928. Due to unsettled real estate claims, which of necessity were included in this computation at an approximate estimate, the figures contained in said Schedule C are subject to future revision.

The operating balance sheet, Schedule B of this report, sets forth the cost of the Bridge, including the interest accrued to December 31, 1928, interest accruing between June 30, 1928 and December 31, 1928 having been added to that set forth in our report as of June 30, 1928, to which reference is made above.

It is worthy of note that in the case of the State of New Jersey, the total amount reimbursed has been sufficient to defray all interest accrued to date and to also reduce the principal by $103,690.19. With respect to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the City of Philadelphia, refunds from earnings have been made to the extent of liquidating to within $197,839.67 and $193,984.43, respectively, all interest accruals to date. The next semi-annual distribution of earnings will be sufficient to effect the payment of all back as well as current interest up to that date with an excess sum to apply against the principal with respect to each of the three participants.

The accounting records generally were found in excellent condition. The pages which follow deal with the scope of the audit, further explanations of the figures and statements contained in this report, suggestions for the further improvement of the system and other matters of interest to which attention is invited.

Respectfully submitted,

MAIN & COMPANY,
Certified Public Accountants.

General Scope of Audit

This examination embraced both the Bridge construction records and the Bridge operating records. It included a detailed audit of all income including the interest allowed by banks on deposits; and all disbursements. Confirmations by the various banks of the balances before the distribution of December 31, 1928, were obtained. The minutes were examined for authorizations of disbursements, changes in personnel and increases in salaries. Neither this audit nor any of our previous ones included an examination and check of the deeds and documents supporting the acquisition of real estate for Bridge purposes. We feel, however, that an audit covering this phase of the Bridge records should be completed in order to ascertain that all necessary papers have been obtained and are intact.

Appropriation Balance Sheet—Bridge Construction

Schedule A of this report represents the Appropriation Balance Sheet. It shows the cost of the Bridge, exclusive of interest, to date; the remaining available appropriations; the construction cash balance and the sources from which derived. Of the available appropriations in the total sum of $966,351.95 an amount of $360,013.86 is reserved for the settlement of the remaining Pennsylvania real estate claims still pending. Where further analysis is relevant, the items of this balance sheet are amplified by detailed schedules.

The cost of the Bridge to date as set forth on the Appropriation Balance Sheet amounted to $36,496,012.62. This amount also appears on the Operating Balance Sheet, Schedule B, as the principal amount of the liability to be authorized through the collection of tolls.

Operating Balance Sheet

The Operating Balance Sheet is shown in Schedule B. It sets forth the cost of the Bridge, plus interest accrued to December 31, 1928, at 4% per annum from the dates of contributions by each of the respective contributors. Including interest, the cost of the Bridge to date is shown as $42,273,-948.07. Against this amount the net earnings to date, in the sum of $5,490,291.54 have been applied, leaving a balance of $36,784,146.53 to be refunded and applied toward the cost of the Bridge with interest from future earnings.

With respect to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the city of Philadelphia, refunds to date have not been quite sufficient to meet the accrued interest accumulations; but in the case of the State of New Jersey, all accrued interest has been met and $103,690.19 applied on the principal.

Income

The earnings and expenses for the year just concluded as well as the cumulative revenue and expenses for the two and one-half years that the Bridge has been in operation are set forth on Schedules B-1 and B-2 of this report. The cumulative net earnings amounted to $5,490,291.54 of which all with the exception of $490.00 petty cash balance, has been returned to the participants.

Actual net earnings have exceeded the original estimates by $2,158,088.66. This excess, together with the annual percentage of increase is set forth in the following summary:

	July 1 to Dec. 31, 1926, 6 months	Jan. 1 to Dec. 31, 1927, 12 months	Jan. 1 to Dec. 31, 1928, 12 months	July 1, 1926, Dec. 31, 1928, 30 months
Actual Tolls Receipts	$1,103,046.45	$2,409,337.43	$2,804,068.05	$6,316,449.93
Actual Expenses	158,352.64	346,610.80	378,397.83	883,361.27
Actual Net Receipts..	$944,693.81	$2,062,726.63	$2,425,668.22	$5,433,088.66
Actual Ratio of In- crease in Net Re- ceipts		(27.9%)	(17.6%)
Estimated Tolls Re- ceipts	$756,250.00	$1,681,250.00	$1,837,500.00	$4,275,000.00
Estimated Expenses ..	200,000.00	400,000.00	400,000.00	1,000,000.00
Estimated Net Re- ceipts	$556,250.00	$1,281,250.00	$1,437,500.00	$3,275,000.00
Estimated Rate of In- crease		(15.2%)	(12.2%)
Excess of Actual Over Estimated	$388,443.81	$781,476.63	$988,168.22	$2,158,088.66

The excess of the actual over the estimated net earnings has been equivalent to 66% of the estimated total to date. This indicates the contributors to the cost of the Bridge will be reimbursed in full much sooner than was originally anticipated.

Tolls

Recommendations contained in our report of a year ago relative to the procedure of handling the tolls register records were carried out with the result that improvement was noted in the chain of records supporting the collection of tolls and the records were more amenable to complete audit. We were able to trace the readings of the registers and account therefor in cash deposited to within a very small amount for the entire year. However, there were some discrepancies noted, between the readings reported by Money Meters, Inc. when returning the registers to the Bridge and the readings at which these same registers were entered on the records when placed in service, for which we could not account. There were quite a number of instances showing a difference of one number. Cases in which the difference was more than one are listed below:

Meter Number	Meter Reading per Letter from Factory	Meter Reading per Teller's Register Record	Difference
			Numbers	Dollars
7581	89505	89507	2	$0.50
7578	18746	18749	3	.75
7584	36740	36407	63	15.75
9900	38660	38687	27	6.75
9901	320	345	25	6.25
9902	33885	33894	9	2.25
9903	26200	26230	30	7.50
9909	17410	17412	2	.50

There were also a few differences for which we could not account between the readings reported by the Bridge to the factory when returning registers for repairs and the readings of the same registers last entered in the records. These differences in only two cases exceeded one number and money value involved only amounted to $3.75.

In addition to the factory reporting by letter the readings of the registers when returning them to the Bridge, it also should acknowledge the receipt of the registers citing the reading of each when received. If this were done, as recommended in our last report, a complete external check of the register readings while out of service could be accomplished.

Register number 9929, according to a notation in the register reading record, was tested from 78364 to 78795, or 431 tolls, by the teller's department. Such an exhaustive test would appear to be unusual. We recommend that the tests should be made only by officials selected by the General Manager, who are not directly connected with the tolls department.

Interest Allowed by Banks

Total interest allowed by the several depositories, during the year 1928, amounted to $18,809.73 as compared to $15,886.22 for the preceding year. We calculated the interest and compared the result with the amount allowed by the bank in each instance. In all but two cases, the differences were such as might be caused by differences in dates due to funds in transit. The two exceptions should be subject to further inquiry. They are as follows:

	Interest Allowed by Bank	Our Calcula- tion	Differ- ence
Burlington County Trust Co	$692.81	$1,073.55	$80.74
Franklin Trust Company ...	1,093.20	1,154.94	61.74
Totals	$2,086.01	$2,228.49	$142.48

Expenses

Total expenses for the year amounted to $378,397.83, and for the two and one-half years $883,361.27 of which $677,779.40 represented salaries. The operating books being maintained on a cash basis, unpaid bills at the end of the year in the amount of $3,621.46 are not included in the above figures or in the statements accompanying this report.

The expenditures of the Joint Commission were, with the exception of a few of those pertaining to settlements of real estate claims, in connection with the construction records, evidenced by vouchers approved by the General Manager. Approval of the expenditures by the Joint Commission were also recorded in the minutes.

It has not been the practice for the Commission to take advantage of cash discounts offered by various vendors for prompt payment of invoices. We believe several hundred dollars per annum could be saved if cash discount terms were complied with and the deductions availed of.

A more appropriate and amplified classification of expense accounts, that is designed to furnish a more complete analysis of the expenses than has hitherto been practicable with the classification in use, is suggested. This classification, which should entail but little more bookkeeping than has previously been done, is recommended for use beginning with January 1, 1929. The classification suggested follows:

Insurance

A list of the insurance carried and in force at December 31, 1928 is given in Schedule C.

Depository surety bonds for all the banks in which funds of the Joint Commission were on deposit, with the exception of the Burlington County Trust Company, were inspected by us. The bond in behalf of the latter bank expired November 17, 1928 and up to the time of the examination, January 5, 1929, no renewal certificate had been received. It was also observed that in two instances the deposits at the end of the year materially exceeded the amounts of the bonds. These cases, which are pointed out for such steps as are deemed desirable, are as follows:

	Amount of Bond	Balance on Deposit De- cember 31, 1928
Northern Trust Company	$25,000.00	$50,488.81

REPORT OF THE PENNSYLVANIA DELAWARE RIVER
BRIDGE COMMISSION NO. 2

John S. Fisher, Governor, Harrisburg.
 Samuel S. Lewis, Treasurer, Harrisburg.
 Edward Martin, Auditor General, Harrisburg.
 Harry A. Mackey, Mayor, Philadelphia.
 Edgar C. Felton, Chairman, Philadelphia.
 Dr. Francis B. Patterson, Secretary, P. O. Box 4061, W. Philadelphia.
 Burton C. Simon, Philadelphia.
 Thomas S. Boyle, Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, March 14, 1929.

To the Honorable, the Senate and the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

The Pennsylvania Bridge Commission No. 2, created under the Act approved the 11th day of April, 1927, and composed of the following ex-officio members, the Governor the Hon. John S. Fisher, the Auditor General the Hon. Edward Martin, the State Treasurer the Hon. Samuel S. Lewis and the Mayor of the City of Philadelphia the Hon. W. Freeland Kendrick, and Edgar C. Felton and Dr. Francis D. Patterson, appointed by the Governor, and Thomas S. Boyle and Burton C. Simon, appointed by the Mayor of the City of Philadelphia, was organized at a meeting held in the office of the Governor at Harrisburg on August 18, 1927, by the election of Mr. Edgar C. Felton as Chairman and Dr. Francis D. Patterson as Secretary.

As provided in the Act, a meeting with the New Jersey Interstate Bridge and Tunnel Commission was thereupon arranged for. At this meeting held in the Administration Building of the Delaware River Joint Commission, Bridge Plaza, Camden, N. J., on October 21, 1927, the Delaware River Bridge Joint Commission No. 2 was organized by the election of the Hon. John S. Fisher, Governor of Pennsylvania, as Chairman and Mr. Thomas J. S. Barlow of New Jersey as Vice-Chairman. Mr. Joseph K. Costello of Pennsylvania was elected Secretary-Treasurer and Mr. David J. Smythe of Pennsylvania and Mr. T. Harry Rowland of New Jersey Counsel. These three gentlemen held corresponding positions in the Delaware River Bridge Commission and kindly volunteered to serve Commission No. 2 without compensation. Mr. Ralph Modjeski, Chief Engineer of the Delaware River Bridge was appointed Engineer, also serving without compensation. At the same time the office facilities and clerical resources of the Delaware River Bridge Commission were generously placed at the service of the Commission No. 2 free of charge. By these arrangements this Commission was enabled to function without expense until the actual work of location could be begun.

The limits prescribed by the Pennsylvania Act for the location of the bridge extend from Snyder avenue in Philadelphia to the mouth of the Schuylkill river. The limits fixed by the New Jersey Act restricted the site of the bridge on the New Jersey side to West Deptford Township in the vicinity of Red Bank. Reference to the accompanying map will make plain the limits fixed for the location of the proposed bridge by the two states. On this map the position of Snyder avenue is marked by a heavy line, the boundary of the Government Reservation at League Island is outlined in red, and on the New Jersey side of the river the boundary of West Deptford Township is outlined in yellow and the territory added by the New Jersey Act of March 19, 1928, between West Deptford Township and Big Timber Creek is outlined in red.

It was immediately evident to the Pennsylvania Commission that the limits prescribed by the New Jersey Act necessitated a bridge passing either directly over the League Island Navy Yard itself or in its immediate vicinity. Such a location would obviously arouse the opposition of the United States Government authorities and if insisted upon might result in the removal of the Navy Yard from League Island. It was, therefore, determined that this location was impossible. After visiting the proposed site the members of the Pennsylvania Commission at a meeting of the Joint Commission held on January 20, 1928, gave formal notice to the New Jersey Commission that due to the restrictions imposed by the New Jersey Act, the Pennsylvania Commission found it impossible to approve of a location within these limits and asked that the Governor and Legislature of New Jersey be promptly advised of this decision and requested to so change the New Jersey Act as to permit the location of the bridge approximately within the bounds allowed by the Pennsylvania Act. As a result of these representations the Legislature of New Jersey by an Act approved March 19, 1928, created an entirely new Commission known as New Jersey Commission No. 2 and fixed the permissible location of the bridge on the New Jersey side of the river between Big Timber Creek on the north and Mantua creek on the south. Reference to the accompanying map will show that the new Act extends the site of the bridge from the northern boundary of West Deptford Township to Big Timber Creek, a distance of only a few hundred yards, and does not meet the objections pointed out by the Pennsylvania Commission, the space covered by the extension to Mantau Creek being entirely impracticable for a bridge site. A bridge in the immediate vicinity of Big Timber Creek is subject to the further objection of crossing the river where it is more than a mile wide from shore line to shore line, making its cost excessive. The Pennsylvania Commission No. 2 thereupon notified the newly appointed New Jersey Commission No. 2 by letter from its Chairman, dated May 21, 1928, that no location of a bridge within the limits prescribed by the new Act of the New Jersey Legislature could be considered, a conclusion which this Commission has further emphasized by Resolution adopted at its meeting held in the office of the Mayor of the City of Philadelphia on February 6, 1929, and communicated to the New Jersey Commission.

It will be seen from the foregoing that no progress has been made in the location of the proposed bridge and that none can be made until the Legislature of New Jersey extends the limits within which the bridge can be located so as to conform more nearly to the limits allowed by the Pennsylvania Act. Under these circumstances no surveys have been made or borings authorized and no expenses or obligations incurred. The original appropriations of $25,000 by the State and $25,000 by the City of Philadelphia are therefore intact.

At an informal conference on February 25, 1929, between the Director of the Department of Wharves, Docks and Ferries of Philadelphia and the Chairman of this Commission it was made clear that the location of any bridge across the Delaware River south of the existing Delaware River Bridge would be opposed by the Port authorities of the City and also by its important shipping interests. This Commission, therefore, feels that it is advisable to call the attention of the Legislature to this development and to suggest that should the life of this Commission be continued or a new Commission be authorized, its powers be so extended that it may also consider and report upon the location and construction of a tunnel under the Delaware river at or near the location proposed for the bridge.

Respectfully submitted,

Pennsylvania Delaware River Bridge Commission

To His Excellency, the Governor: John S. Fisher, and to the Members of the Senate and House of Representatives, the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:

Your Commission, authorized by act of June 8, 1923 (P. L. 282, page 688); appointed by His Excellency, Gifford Pinchot; continued by Supplementary act of May 14, 1925 (P. L. 389, page 715); and re-appointed by His Excellency, John S. Fisher, under Supplementary act of May 4, 1927 (P. L. 339, page 674), respectfully submits the following report:

Foreword

The original act of June 8, 1923, states the duties of the Commission to be as follows:

" * * * to study the subject of consolidation of the various municipalities, to wit: cities, boroughs and townships in counties of the second class into one municipality, and to file with the next General Assembly its report, together with an act providing a method of such consolidation."

The report of the Commission, in accordance with its legislative mandate, was submitted under date of November 10, 1924. However, the magnitude of the assignment precluded submission of an act within the time allotted, the reason therefor being outlined in the report. Recommendations were made for continuation of the studies and for a method of procedure.

A supplementary act, approved May 14, 1925, continued the Commission for a further period of two years, gave said Commission certain additional powers and made a small appropriation for its use.

Similarly, a second supplementary act, approved May 4, 1927, continued the Commission for a further period of two years, provided additionally for its organization and method of procedure, granted certain supplementary powers and required it to submit to the General Assembly of 1929 a further report on the consolidation of municipalities in Counties of the Second Class. No appropriation for the use of the Commission was made under the act of 1927.

The report presented herewith is in fulfillment of the requirements of the supplementary act of May 4, 1927. It reviews briefly the substance of the previous reports, dated November 10, 1924, February 28, 1925, and February 15, 1927; outlines the activities of the Commission during the past two years; refers to the results accomplished; and presents, as directed, a draft of a charter for the consolidation of Allegheny County and the municipal divisions thereof.

The proposed charter, which is included herewith as Appendix "C", has been authorized for enactment under an amendment to Article XV of the Constitution of Pennsylvania. Such amendment was adopted by the General Assembly of 1925 at its special session of 1926, passed finally by the General Assembly of 1927, and ratified by the people of the State at the election of November 6, 1928. A copy of the Amendment (P. L. of 1926 No. 2, page 34) may be found in Appendix "A" of this report.

The Commission now respectfully makes the following recommendations:

1. That the General Assembly, in its sessions of 1929, enact the proposed charter as submitted herewith.
2. That the Commission be continued for a further period of two years.
3. That the continuing legislation be in accordance with the text of the proposed act, attached hereto as Appendix "D".

Part I

Review of Previous Reports and Work of the Commission.

Since its appointment, the Commission has prepared three complete reports. These have presented the result of its activities, the conclusions which have been developed by its studies, and recommendations designed to make possible the consummation of the purpose for which it was created.

Preliminary Report.

This was prepared and submitted by a Committee on "Methods of Establishing Metropolitan Districts and Municipal Consolidation". Such Committee was made up of Messrs. H. W. Crider, E. M. Herr, J. W. Vickerman and Morris Knowles, Chairman. Three methods of consolidation were considered as available for practical adaptation under the conditions existing in the Pittsburgh region. These were outlined, examples of their applications in other parts of the country stated, and tentative conclusions presented for consideration of the full Commission. Such conclusions were approved by the Commission and incorporated in the first official report.

Report of February 28, 1925.

This was the first report of the Commission to the Governor and the General Assembly and was submitted in compliance with the requirements of the act of June 8, 1923. It presented a discussion of the existing conditions in Allegheny County and the methods of consolidation available, reviewed the activities of the Commission, and submitted definite recommendations for continued study, with a program of procedure.

Quoting from the report the methods of consolidation, which were considered by the Commission as available under the circumstances, were as follows:

- "1. Annexation of territory surrounding city, until natural rural limitations determine the extent—sometimes made coincident with the county lines.
- "2. Metropolitan districts to be established for particular public works or improvements as needed.
- "3. Modified or enlarged city government, with a central governing body, but giving local autonomy in certain matters to constituent political units."

The tentative conclusion of the Commission was:

"That the third method referred to is the one that will prove most practical and successful, and the only one that will prove acceptable to the majority of interests in the Pittsburgh District. In just what form this general principle of consolidation can be applied is yet to be determined."

The recommendations submitted by the Commission and which appeared under "Part IV" of the report read as follows:

"The Commission further recommends:

- "1. That no plan that may be developed will be worthwhile and satisfactory unless the greater city secures credit for the population of surrounding urban communities.
- "2. That such a plan, to be made satisfactory, should give to the constituent and smaller municipalities proper and reasonable control of their local affairs.
- "3. It has been discovered that it is essential to have complete data of the functions, assets, liabilities, local needs and development of each community, and that without these data no practical and acceptable plan can be formulated.
- "4. These data must be compiled in such form as to determine duplication and overlap that can and should be removed, to locate present waste that can be eliminated, so that the Commission may build any future plan thereon in such a way as to develop proper efficiency upon a new plan of government that will be practical. Any proposed plan built upon data to be secured must so drawn as to protect the proper rights, privileges and liberties of each constituent unit and to secure the same for the future.
- "5. That such an investigation will require adequate financing and should be done by a staff thoroughly informed and experienced in such work, of careful and practical judgment, and familiar with such work and such problems heretofore encountered and solved.
- "6. That a plan be found and made adaptable in such a way that it may aid in the solution of metropolitan aspirations and developments in other locations in the State of Pennsylvania, where somewhat similar conditions may exist or come into being.
- "7. Such an important study, pregnant with great possibilities for service, for the whole State, should be aided by the State, and not wholly financed as the present act provided by voluntary contributions from the various municipalities.
- "8. Legislation should be considered looking towards the continuation of this Commission—a bill for the purpose of which accompanies this report. A constitutional amendment is being prepared, and will be offered at a later date for your consideration."

Report of February 15, 1927.

The Commission, following its reappointment under the supplementary act of May 14, 1925, developed a proposed amendment to the State Constitution. The purpose of the amendment was to make possible a plan of consolidation for Allegheny County and its municipal divisions which would be acceptable to the majority of the people directly concerned. Such amendment was introduced at the special session of the General Assembly in 1926 and was passed both by the House of Representatives and the Senate. (The joint resolution is reported under the Pamphlet Laws of 1926, No. 2, page 34.)

The activities of the Commission, and the progress with its studies, public conferences, etc., which made possible the development of a definite plan of procedure, were described fully in the report of February 15, 1927. Other features of the report were a discussion of the problem of consolidation, a review of the methods available for its solution, an explanation in detail of the Constitutional Amendment, a restatement of the findings presented in the former reports, recommendations with reference to continuation of the study, and an outline of procedure. The recommendations as given under "Part III, Section 2," of the report, read as follows:

- "1. That the Commission be continued for a period of two years. The principal work of the Commission, the most difficult part of its task, remains to be done. The assembling of adequate information and the preparation of a charter are absolutely essential if the work, begun by the passage of the proposed constitutional amendment, is to be completed. If the Commission is continued with an adequate appropriation, it can present to the 1929 session of the General Assembly a tentative form of charter which, if the Legislature approves, can be submitted to the voters in the Fall of that year.

"2. That the Commission be given effective power to obtain all necessary information from the authorities of the county and its municipalities and districts. An attitude of reluctance on the part of the officials of any unit to be investigated can seriously hamper and delay the work of the Commission. The Commission, therefore, requests authority to apply to the Court of Common Pleas for an order requiring the officials or representatives of the county or any municipality, poor district or school district thereof, to comply with the Commission's request for information.

"3. That there be appropriated for the work of the Commission for the next two years the sum of ninety-nine thousand, five hundred fifty dollars ($99,550.00). A carefully prepared budget of the proposed expenditures of the Commission is included herewith as Appendix "F". The collection of such data and statistics as are necessary from one hundred twenty-four municipalities and the county government obviously requires extensive professional assistance.

"4. That the amendment to Article XV of the Constitution, adopted by the General Assembly of 1925 at its special session of 1926, be passed in identical form by the current session of the General Assembly. If this is done the amendment may be voted on at the general election of 1928 and the charter prepared by the Commission considered by the General Assembly of 1929. Since constitutional amendments must be passed by two successive General Assemblies and can be submitted only at intervals of five years, any interruption in the progress of the amendment would mean that no amendment on the subject could be submitted prior to 1933. If the amendment is not passed at this session, a delay of at least six years in dealing with this pressing problem will result."

Part II

Activities and Progress of the Commission Since February 15, 1927

Organization

The report of 1927 was accompanied by the resignation of the Commission as a whole. Following the enactment of continuing legislation, the Commission was reappointed with some few changes in the membership. The officers elected at the organization meeting of the Commission were as follows:

Chairman—Jos. T. Miller, Borough of Edgewood
Vice-Chairman—Morris Knowles, City of Pittsburgh
Treasurer—William E. Best, Borough of Dormont

The Executive Committee, as authorized by the Commission and later appointed, included:

William E. Best—Borough of Dormont
W. G. Costin—City of Pittsburgh
Charles A. Lewis—City of Clairton
S. A. Taylor—Borough of Wilkinsburg
E. A. Young—City of Pittsburgh
Morris Knowles—City of Pittsburgh
Jos. T. Miller—Borough of Edgewood (Chairman)

As the work progressed, a full-time staff was organized as follows:

Director of Research—Thomas H. Reed
Director of Publicity—Frank C. Harper Organization Secretary—Doris Darmstadter

The advisory staff of the Commission was enlarged to include legal, accounting, engineering and other advice of a similar nature, as needed.

Adoption of Program

At the first meeting of the full Commission, following appointment by the Governor, a program of activities, designed according to the general results which it was hoped to accomplish, was adopted as follows:

1. Secure necessary funds from public and private sources for the development of such organization and staff as may be required to carry out the work of the Commission.
2. Organize and carry out a campaign of publicity and education, through the press, by means of public meetings and by the circulation of especially prepared articles in the form of booklets and pamphlets.
3. Undertake a survey of the district for the purpose of collecting such data, of a reliable and adequate nature, as is necessary for the study of the Commission, and prepare these for practical use in the development of the charter.

4. On the basis of such data, develop a tentative charter in accordance with the general outline and authority of the constitutional amendment, the details of such charter to be prepared with the assistance of expert advice on the various factors involved. (The preparation of the tentative charter to proceed on the assumption that the constitutional amendment will be ratified, so that the charter may be presented at the next session of the legislature thereafter.)
5. Promote ratification of the constitutional amendment at the general election in the fall of 1928.
6. If the constitutional amendment be adopted, submit to the 1929 Legislature the proposed charter with recommendations for action at such current sessions, so that the charter may be presented for vote by the people of Allegheny County in the fall of 1929.
7. Promote the adoption of the charter, as enacted by the legislature, at election to be held in the fall of 1929. Such adoption will require a majority vote of the people of Allegheny County and also a two-thirds vote in the majority of the municipalities of the County.

Meetings

The rules of procedure, developed for the operation of the Commission, provided for meetings in regular session on the first Monday of each month and at other times on call of the Chairman. The first meeting was held on August 1, 1927. The Executive Committee held its first meeting on August 10, 1927.

Progress

The work of the Commission has been concentrated upon the items outlined under the program given above. The progress has been such that it is possible now to submit, as a part of this report, a proposed charter. The charter has been drafted in accordance with the constitutional amendment.

Commenting on the items of the program in order:

1. Financial Statement. A complete financial statement of the moneys appropriated for the work of the Commission from various sources and of the expenditure of such funds is on file in the office of the Treasurer of the Commission.
 2. Publicity. An organized campaign of publicity and education has been carried on in reference to the constitutional amendment and in explanation of the purpose and form of the proposed charter to be presented under the authority granted therein. Such campaign has included 387 addresses before public meetings throughout the county, the distribution of 962,900 especially prepared pamphlets, news and feature articles in the newspapers throughout the county and state, poster and billboard advertising, etc. The addresses before public gatherings have been made by members of the Commission and its organization staff, and by members of a speakers' committee recruited for the purpose.
 3. Research Activities. A comprehensive survey has been conducted throughout the county for the collection of data in regard to the various subjects to be covered by the proposed charter. Such data have been utilized in the preparation of the charter and the records are being preserved in the files of the Commission.
 4. The Charter. In the development of the proposed charter, the various interests of the community, both private and public, and the public generally, have been urged to express their views to the Commission. The response has been both gratifying and helpful and the Commission is confident that the charter presented herewith satisfies, as nearly as conflicting views will permit, the interests of the region to be affected by the proposed consolidation.
- The official count of the vote in the cities, boroughs and townships of Allegheny County on the constitutional amendment is given in Appendix "B".

Part III

Conclusions and Recommendations.

The will of the people of Allegheny County, as expressed by the vote of November 6, 1928, is for an opportunity to consider and pass upon a charter for the consolidation of the region, as authorized under the constitutional amendment.

Such a charter has been prepared on the basis of information obtained through the research activities of the Commission and after discussion and consultation with many and varied interests and with representative citizens throughout the district.

The Commission respectfully submits the charter as drafted and recommends, as stated in the foreword of this report:

1. That the General Assembly, in its session of 1929, enacted the charter as presented so that it may be submitted to the people of Allegheny County for consideration and vote in the early Summer of 1929. It is only by such prompt action that a fully operating consolidated city can be established by January 1, 1930, in time to secure the desired census rank for the Pittsburgh area. Otherwise Pittsburgh must wait at least ten years to get its due in this regard.
2. That the Commission be continued for a period of two years. (The work of the Commission which still remains to be done is that of presenting the charter as enacted to the people of Allegheny County, of explaining its features in detail and offering to the newly established consolidated city the benefit of the Commission's best advice in developing its governmental and administrative framework. To obtain the full benefit of the consolidation requires that it be submitted to the voters in the early Summer of 1929. To do this, with assurance that when submitted it will be thoroughly understood and may be given intelligent and serious consideration, will require concentrated and continued effort on the part of the Commission to disseminate pertinent information in explanation of the charter. Additional data must be secured, studies prepared, and a campaign of education and publicity arranged. The task of making suggestions to the new city in filling in the details of the scheme of government provided by the charter will necessitate, not only careful reflection on the materials already gathered, but extensive additional studies.)
3. That the continuing legislation be in accordance with the text of the proposed act attached hereto as Appendix "D".

APPENDIX "A"

The said charter shall be submitted to the electors of said county, at a special election to be provided for therein. If the majority of the electors voting thereon, in the county as a whole, and at least two-thirds of all the electors voting thereon in each of a majority of cities, boroughs and townships thereof, vote in the affirmative, the act shall take effect for the whole county. If rejected, the said charter may be resubmitted to the electors in original, new or modified form at any subsequent election until adopted.

It shall be competent, subject to the police power of the State, for the Legislature to provide in said charter:

3. The power to acquire, own, construct, maintain, operate or contract for all kinds of public property, works, improvements, utilities or service, which shall be within the municipal division, and principally for the use and benefit of the inhabitants thereof, provided this power shall not be taken to include the construction and maintenance of through-traffic streets and bridges, tunnels, subways and appurtenances thereof, nor main or trunk lines for sewer, power, and water service, running through more than one municipal division, and designated as such by the board of commissioners.

4. The power to maintain a local police force, and local fire department, with the necessary buildings, appurtenances and equipment therefor, which may be supplemental to the police force and fire department of the consolidated city.

5. The power to establish a limitation of indebtedness for the consolidated city and the municipal divisions thereof, provided that the total of the indebtedness of the consolidated city and the municipal divisions thereof shall not, in the aggregate, exceed the limits of the total indebtedness allowed by the constitution to the county and to the separate municipalities.

6. All other powers not specifically granted by the charter to the consolidated city: Provided, however, That a municipal division may surrender, by majority vote of the electors voting thereon at any general or special election, any of its powers to the consolidated city, subject to the acceptance thereof by the board of commissioners.

The said charter may be amended by the Legislature, subject to the ratification of a majority of the electors of the consolidated city voting thereon at any general or special election: Provided, That no amendment reducing the powers of municipal divisions, shall be effective unless ratified by a majority of the electors voting thereon in each of a majority of said divisions.

ARTICLE I.

General Provisions

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That pursuant to the provisions of article fifteen, section four, of the constitution of the state, Allegheny county, the offices and poor districts thereof, and as hereinafter provided, the cities, boroughs and townships situated therein are hereby consolidated into a city and county with the constitutional and legal capacity of a municipal corporation, to be known as the City of Pittsburgh and hereafter referred to as the consolidated city.

Section 2. The said consolidated city shall be governed in accordance with the terms of this charter. All laws of the state, including all special acts, applicable to Allegheny county as the same may be on the thirty-first day of December, 1929, shall continue to be of full force and effect except as the same may be inconsistent with the terms of this charter.

Section 3. The consolidated city shall be at the same time a city and a county. All laws of the state heretofore enacted relative to the government of counties or county officers and applicable to Allegheny county as the same was on the thirty-first day of December, 1929, except as the same may be inconsistent with the terms of this charter, shall be and become a part of this charter as if incorporated herein, and shall so remain until amended or repealed by amendment of this charter as provided in the said article fifteen, section four, of the constitution.

Section 4. The cities, boroughs and townships within Allegheny county on the date of ratification of this charter shall continue to exist as municipal divisions thereof with their then names and boundaries; except, that the present city of Pittsburgh shall henceforth be officially designated as "Pittsburgh". Provided, however, that the corporate authorities of "Pittsburgh" may adopt such other designation for said city as they may determine by ordinance, not inconsistent with this charter. Any two or more municipal divisions may in accordance with the procedure hereinafter prescribed be united to form a single municipal division. The powers, rights, capacities and duties of such cities, boroughs and townships as municipal divisions of the consolidated city, and the forms of government thereof, shall, except as otherwise provided in this charter, continue to be determined by the laws of the state relating to cities, boroughs and townships of their respective classifications as the same now are or may hereafter be.

Section 5. Nothing in this charter shall be taken to repeal or modify in any respect any present or future law of the state relating to courts of record in Allegheny county, except as hereinafter provided, juries and jury commissioners, the administration of public schools, public libraries, or state highways or state aid highways, applicable to Allegheny county or any part thereof, but the same shall continue and be in full force and effect in the consolidated city and in the cities, boroughs, townships and school districts situated therein in like manner as if the consolidated city were a county only and not a city.

Section 6. The consolidated city shall be a body corporate and politic under the title City of Pittsburgh, and shall have power to make contracts, to lease, acquire and own real and personal property within and without the consolidated city and to lease, sell or convey the same, to sue and be sued, to enjoy perpetual succession and have a corporate seal.

Section 7. There are hereby transferred to the consolidated city all the property, rights, interests, claims and causes of action now possessed by Allegheny county and the directors of the poor of Allegheny county, and all the works, buildings and properties of the several cities, boroughs and townships of Allegheny county now devoted to the care of the poor, indigent, feeble-minded and insane. The property rights of the several municipal divisions of the said consolidated city in such streets and bridges as may be designated by the board of commissioners as through-traffic streets shall upon such designation pass to the consolidated city. In the same manner all works, buildings and property used in connection with any function of a municipal division hereafter surrendered by such division and accepted by the consolidated city shall pass to the same.

Section 8. There shall be transferred to the consolidated city upon the ratification of this charter, as set forth in article twenty-two hereof, the following bonded and other indebtedness as the same may be on January 1, 1930, as follows:

(a) The bonded and other indebtedness and liabilities of Allegheny county.

(b) The bonded and other indebtedness and liabilities of the directors of the poor of Allegheny county.

(c) The bonded and other indebtedness and liabilities of the present city of Pittsburgh incurred for and on account of the care of the poor indigent, feeble-minded and insane, and being the indebtedness of the present city of Pittsburgh incurred in connection with the activities now administered by its department of welfare.

The consolidated city shall be liable for the payment of the foregoing indebtedness and liabilities, the same as if it had been originally incurred by the consolidated city. In the case of the existing bonded and other indebtedness and liabilities of Allegheny county, and of the directors of the poor of Allegheny county, the consolidated city shall pay the same in accordance with the terms on which such bonded indebtedness was created or such other liabilities incurred. The said bonded and other indebtedness and liabilities of the present city of Pittsburgh hereby transferred to and assumed by the consolidated city shall be treated and regarded as a new indebtedness of the consolidated city, and the ratification of this charter, as hereinafter provided, shall be taken to constitute the consent of the electors thereof authorizing the creation of the said new indebtedness of the consolidated city, as provided in section eight of article nine of the constitution of the state. The consolidated city may issue bonds pursuant to the said authority in an amount equal to the said indebtedness upon such terms as may be permitted by law and may, for the purpose of discharging and paying the said indebtedness of the present city of Pittsburgh, wherever possible, exchange the said bonds for the outstanding obligations, or it may sell the bonds, or any remaining portion thereof, and pay the amount of the remaining and outstanding obligations to the present city of Pittsburgh, so that the said indebtedness of the present city of Pittsburgh transferred under this section to the consolidated city may be liquidated and discharged or that the present city of Pittsburgh may be provided with funds for the payment thereof.

In case of works, buildings, property and improvements including through-traffic streets which may from time to time be taken over, transferred and acquired by the consolidated city, pursuant to the provisions of the preceding section, the then outstanding indebtedness incurred by reason thereof shall be assumed and paid by the consolidated city. For this purpose the consolidated city shall have all the appropriate rights and powers heretofore given in connection with the payment and liquidation of the assumed indebtedness of the present city of Pittsburgh.

Whenever only a part or a portion of the works, buildings, or property, including through-traffic streets, may be taken, acquired, and transferred by the consolidated city from any municipal division thereof on account of which there is outstanding bonded or other indebtedness of the said municipal division, the amount or proportion of such indebtedness to be transferred to the consolidated city shall be determined by agreement, if possible, between the board of commissioners of the consolidated city and the corporate authorities of the municipal division. If such agreement cannot be reached, then the matter shall be submitted to a board of arbitration to determine the fair and equitable adjustment of the said bonded or other indebtedness. The said board shall consist of three members, one member to be selected by the board of commissioners of the consolidated city, another member to be selected by the corporate authorities of the municipal division affected and the third member to be selected by the aforesaid two members of the board of arbitration. A decision of the majority of the board of arbitration shall be final and conclusive without appeal.

Section 9. The consolidated city shall succeed to the rights and obligations of the several cities, boroughs and townships of Allegheny county under all franchises, consent ordinances or other agreements with public utilities to the extent to which the same relates to the portion of the facilities of any public utility company located in through-traffic streets as designated by the board of commissioners. Where the conditions of any such franchise, consent ordinance or agreement entitles a city, borough or township to use any portion of the authorized facilities for its own purposes, the said city, borough or township shall continue as a municipal division of the consolidated city to enjoy the same privilege during the life of such franchise or consent ordinance. The consolidated city shall be entitled to receive a share of the payments due to any such city, borough or township under any such franchise, consent ordinance or agreement equal to the proportion which the facilities located in through-traffic streets bear to the total of facilities authorized by such franchise or consent ordinance or covered by such agreement. If in any case the board of commissioners cannot agree with the governing board of the municipal division concerned as to the sums to which the con-consolidated city is entitled, the board of commissioners and the governing body of the municipal division affected shall each appoint one member of a board of arbitration and these two shall appoint a third. The decision of a majority of the said board of arbitration shall be final.

ARTICLE II

Powers

Section 1. The consolidated city in its corporate capacity, as distinguished from the municipal divisions thereof, shall have in addition to the powers and duties conferred or imposed thereon by the laws of the state as provided in article one of this charter, the following powers and duties.

Section 2. The power and duty to regulate and provide for the care of the poor, sick, defective, feeble-minded and insane, and for the care of neglected and dependent children, and for these purposes to acquire, provide and maintain grounds, buildings and equipment needed therefor. The consolidated city shall have henceforth all the powers and duties now possessed by the directors of the poor of Allegheny county and the department of welfare of the present city of Pittsburgh.

Section 3. The power and duty to provide institutions for the care, custody and education of juvenile and adult offenders, and to maintain, direct and administer the same. The power to direct and administer all such institutions now maintained by Allegheny county is hereby transferred from the several authorities charged with the same to the consolidated city.

Section 4. The power to make and enforce regulations in relation to public health, in addition to and not in conflict with the laws of the state and the regulations of the advisory board of the state department of health, and to construct, maintain and manage hospitals, clinics, sanitariums, laboratories and other institutions for the promotion of the same. Municipal divisions may adopt regulations in relation to public health in addition to and not in conflict with those of the consolidated city.

Section 5. The power to acquire, lease, improve, maintain and manage, within or without the corporate limits of the consolidated city, parks, athletic fields, playgrounds, swimming pools, public baths, bathing beaches, gymnasiums and other recreational facilities, and to construct and maintain buildings and work appurtenant thereto. This power shall include the power to make all needful regulations for the use of said parks, playgrounds and other recreational facilities and to lease concessions and to charge or allow to be charged reasonable prices for goods sold or fees for the use of property or services.

Section 6. The power to designate from among streets and highways, other than state highways or state aid highways, at any time existing in any part of the consolidated city, and in addition to county roads hitherto established by Allegheny county, or hereafter established by the consolidated city, through-traffic streets which shall henceforth be maintained by the consolidated city; the power to lay out and open new through-traffic streets; the power to name, improve, widen, grade, regrade, pave, repave and establish street lines and grades for all through-traffic streets, and to number buildings thereon; the power to construct and maintain sidewalks, curbs, gutters, catch basins, drains, culverts, signs, lighting fixtures and all other appurtenances incident to such through-traffic streets. No street shall be designated or laid out as a through-traffic street unless the proposal so to do originates with the planning commission of the consolidated city or until the proposal has been laid before the said commission and it has had not less than sixty days in which to express its opinion thereon. If the planning commission of the consolidated city advises against the designation or laying out of any street as a through-traffic street, the board of commissioners must reconsider the proposal but the decision of the board of commissioners by a two-thirds vote shall be final. Nothing in this section shall be taken to limit the power of the consolidated city to assess the cost of any public improvement upon the property materially benefited thereby as hereinafter provided. Whenever a change of grade of such a through-traffic street results in or requires a change of grade of any connecting street or highway, the said change of grade on the said connecting street or highway shall be regarded and treated in all respects as a part of the improvement of the through-traffic street, and the consolidated city shall have the power to fix the grade of the said connecting street or highway and do all other things necessary to fully carry out and complete the said improvement and shall assume all burdens arising therefrom and not paid by any special assessments arising therefrom.

Section 7. The power to make regulations with regard to the erection of fences, signs, billboards, buildings and structures within three hundred feet of any through-traffic street or county road, provided that in any municipal division which has an ordinance inconsistent with such regulations, the ordinance of the municipal division shall control.

Section 8. The power to construct and maintain bridges, viaducts and tunnels connecting streets or portions of streets designated as through-traffic streets as provided above.

Section 9. The power to determine when and under what conditions through-traffic streets, so designated by the board of commissioners, or any portion thereof, may be occupied by poles, wires, conduits, pipes, subways, tracks or other property or facilities of public utility companies. Municipal divisions shall have the right to use such through-traffic streets for their facilities subject to such reasonable regulations as the board of commissioners shall adopt.

Section 10. The power to create districts for the purpose of regulating the location, height, area, bulk and use of buildings and premises and to exercise planning powers as hereinafter provided.

Section 11. The power to create and provide for the management of special districts for the purpose of acquiring, constructing, maintaining and operating or contracting for any public property, work, improvement, utility or service not for the exclusive benefit of any one municipal division and, when the same are not self-sustaining, to provide for the payment of the cost and/or maintenance of such property, work, improvement, utility or service by a special tax levied throughout such special district. No such district shall be created unless and until the board of commissioners has held a public hearing upon the creation thereof. Notice of such hearing shall be served upon the governing body of each municipal division any part of which is included in the said proposed district, and shall be published three times at intervals of one week in a newspaper of general circulation in the consolidated city and similarly in a newspaper published in each of the said municipal divisions and of general circulation therein if there be such a newspaper. The board of commissioners shall provide by rules and regulations that a reasonable number of copies of ordinances shall be printed, as the circumstances may require, and as the demand therefor may exist by the public generally or by persons specially interested therein. In case ordinances are passed at the request of and for a private interest, the person, firm or corporation, one or more, so interested in the said ordinance, shall pay in advance all costs of printing and publication involved in the enactment of the said ordinance.

Section 13. The board of commissioners shall have the power to fix the amounts of the bonds to be given by all elective and appointive officers of the consolidated city, provided they shall be approved in the case of the controller by the board of commissioners and in the case of all other officers by the controller and that the premiums thereon shall be paid by the consolidated city. The said bonds shall be bonds of surety or trust companies incorporated under the laws of, or authorized to do business in this state.

Section 14. On or before the first Monday of November in each year the president of the board of commissioners shall submit to the board of commissioners an estimate of the revenues and expenditures of the consolidated city for the ensuing year. This estimate shall be compiled from detailed information supplied by the several departments and other officers and boards of the consolidated city upon uniform blanks furnished by the director of finance, and it shall be the duty of every department head and officer or board to fill out the said blanks with all the information demanded thereon and return the same to the director of finance on or before the date set by the director of finance for such return. The classification of the estimate of expenditures shall be uniform for the main functional divisions of each department and office and whenever the system of accounts referred to in article seven shall have been put into effect shall correspond with the classification employed therein. For the purpose of this and the succeeding sections of this article the offices of the several county officers as provided in article four of this charter shall be deemed to be departments of the consolidated city.

Section 15. The estimate of expenditures submitted to the board of commissioners shall contain in parallel columns a detailed estimate of the expense of conducting each department and each other office or service of the consolidated city as submitted by the head of such department or the officer or board in charge of such office or service, and the recommendation of the president of the board of commissioners as to the amounts to be appropriated with his reasons for his recommendation, together with such other information as may be prescribed by the board of commissioners. The estimate of expenditures shall likewise contain a statement of the total debt of the consolidated city, the debt sinking fund, the debt less assets legally deductible in determining debt incurring capacity and a schedule of the maturities of all bond issues, together with an estimate of the sums to be expended in the ensuing fiscal year for (1) interest on the debt, (2) paying off serial bonds maturing during the year and (3) sinking fund requirements.

An abstract of the estimate of revenues and expenditures shall be made available in pamphlet form for general distribution.

Section 18. With the estimate of revenues and expenditures, the director of finance shall present to the board of commissioners a draft of an appropriation ordinance which shall thereupon be deemed to have been regularly introduced therein. The board of commissioners shall give notice by advertisement in two successive issues of two daily newspapers published in the consolidated city and of general circulation therein of a public hearing or hearings upon the said estimates. Following the public hearing or hearings the appropriation ordinance may be amended and shall take the same course as other ordinances.

Section 19. The fiscal year shall begin with the first day of January and end with the thirty-first day of December next following.

Section 20. Not later than one week after the final passage of the appropriation ordinance, the director of finance shall certify to the board of commissioners the tax levy in dollars per hundred of assessed valuation necessary, with other sources of revenue as estimated, to produce the income necessary to provide for the total sum appropriated in the appropriation ordinance. The board of commissioners shall thereupon proceed to adopt a tax levy ordinance.

Section 21. The board of commissioners may transfer any portion of the unencumbered balance of an appropriation to any other purpose upon the written recommendation of the director of finance certifying the existence of such unencumbered balance and setting forth the reason for such transfer, and may at any time appropriate any moneys in the treasury not otherwise appropriated.

Section 22. Together with the annual estimate of revenues and expenditures as heretofore provided, the director of finance shall submit an estimate of the revenues and expenditures for the ensuing fiscal year for each special tax district. Said estimates shall be presented as near as may be in the same manner and form as the general estimate of revenues and expenditures and like proceedings with regard to hearing, appropriation ordinance and tax levy shall be had thereon, except that notice of hearing shall be published in the manner provided for the publication of notice of ordinances as provided in section twelve.

He shall keep in his office such records and accounts of the financial transactions of the consolidated city, the form of which shall be prescribed by the director of finance, as will enable him promptly and accurately to perform this duty. He shall have access at all times for himself, or for any person designated by him, to books, records and cash in the offices of the director of finance, treasurer and of all other officers keeping accounts or handling money on behalf of the consolidated city. He shall have power to inquire into all contracts, including the performance thereof, all other proceedings involving the expenditure of public funds to which the consolidated city is a party, and the financial transactions of all officers and employees of the consolidated city. For this purpose he may administer oaths, summon witnesses and order the production of relevant books and papers. If any person fails to obey such summons or order or refuses to answer a proper question addressed to him by the controller in the course of any hearing, the controller may apply to any judge of the court of common pleas for an order to compel the witness to attend, to produce the books and papers demanded and to answer any question or questions. If the said judge is satisfied, upon such hearing of the matter as he may require, that the order should issue, he shall issue the same.

Section 4. The controller shall have power to employ such expert accountants and other agents as he may deem necessary to carry out his power of investigation, and for this purpose the board of commissioners shall appropriate a sum of not less than twenty-five thousand dollars per annum, from which so much as may be needed shall be expended on his order.

Section 3. Any vacancy occurring in any elective office of the consolidated city by reason of death, resignation or other cause, shall be filled forthwith by appointment by the court of common pleas, for the unexpired balance of the term of a person qualified to be elected to such office and who shall have voted for the officer whose place is to be filled. Such appointments shall be made in open court and shall be signed by a majority of the judges of the said court.

Section 4. Special elections called by the board of commissioners shall be held in such cases as are provided by this charter or by the laws of the state. Special elections in the municipal divisions shall be held when and as provided by the laws of the state applicable to each of them respectively.

Section 5. As soon as possible after the United States census commissioners shall by ordinance divide the consolidated city into districts of which the members of the board of 1940 and each decennial census thereafter, the board of commissioners must be residents as provided in article three. District number one shall consist of the municipal division of Pittsburgh, and districts two, three and four respectively shall contain as nearly as may be an equal number of inhabitants and they shall be composed of contiguous and compact territory, except that where another municipal division is wholly surrounded by the municipal division of Pittsburgh to which it is most nearly contiguous, measuring from nearest boundary to nearest boundary.

ARTICLE VI

Section 2. He shall have power to appoint and remove the employes of his own office and by and with the consent of the board of commissioners, he shall appoint the heads of all departments of the administrative service of the consolidated city and such other officers and boards as this charter may provide. Any officer or member of a board appointed by the president of the board of commissioners may be removed for assigned cause as follows: the president shall first notify in writing the person to be removed of his proposal to remove him, stating the specific grounds of such removal. The person so notified may thereupon within five days file with the secretary of the board of commissioners a request for a public hearing by the board of commissioners which must be granted him. He shall have the right at such hearing to be represented by counsel. After such hearing the order of removal shall become final unless the board of commissioners by at least five votes determine otherwise.

Section 3. The president of the board of commissioners shall have the power of direction and command, acting through the directors of the several departments, over all officers and employes on the administrative service of the consolidated city. He may at any time inquire into the conduct of any department, office or service or any officer or employe thereof.

Section 4. The administrative service of the consolidated city shall include the following departments: finance, health, safety, public works, welfare, parks and recreation, planning, art, personnel, law, research and information, transit, and such other departments as the board of commissioners may by ordinance provide. The board of commissioners may by ordinance assign and reassign among the departments, the offices, functions and services of the consolidated city except as the same are specifically assigned by this charter.

Section 5. Except as otherwise specifically provided in the charter, the directors of departments shall have the power to appoint the other officers and employes thereof, subject to the provisions of article fifteen. In all cases the appointing officer shall have power to remove and to discipline by fine, suspension or demotion any officer or employe appointed by him upon furnishing the said officer or employe with a statement in writing of the grounds of the removal or disciplinary action. The officer or employe must, before the order of removal or disciplinary action becomes final, be given the opportunity to be heard by the director of the department or other officer making the order or removal or disciplinary action at a public or private hearing as the applicant for the hearing may request. After such hearing the officer making the order of removal or disciplinary action shall confirm the said order or revoke or modify the same in his discretion. Nothing in this section shall prevent the summary suspension from duty of any officer or employe pending hearing.

Section 6. All persons who in accordance with the terms of this charter are appointed for fixed terms shall continue to exercise the functions of their several offices until their successors are appointed and qualified, and all persons appointed to fill vacancies in such offices shall be appointed for the unexpired balance of the term only, except judges of the municipal court.

ARTICLE VII

Department of Finance

Section 1. There shall be a director of finance who shall be the head of the department of finance. He shall have administrative charge of the financial affairs of the consolidated city, including the keeping or supervision of all accounts except of the controller. Except as otherwise provided in this charter he shall appoint the officers and employes of the department, subject to the provisions of article fifteen.

Section 2. The director of finance shall have power to prescribe the nature and forms of all accounts to be kept in the department of finance and by all officers and employes of the consolidated city, including the controller, and the times when and the manner in which all officers and employes receiving money for the use of the consolidated city shall pay the same into the treasury.

Section 3. There shall be in the department of finance a division of accounts under the immediate charge of the director of finance, in which shall be kept the general accounts of the consolidated city. These accounts shall be adequate to record in detail the value and custodianship of all property of the consolidated city and all transactions relating thereto, and the financial transactions of the consolidated city in such manner as to show besides cash receipts and disbursements, accruals of revenue and the incurrence of obligations in relation to each fund and appropriation. There shall be an appropriation ledger in which each appropriation shall be set up as in the appropriation ordinance, and it shall be the duty of the director of finance to encumber each such appropriation with the amount of each order, contract or other obligation before the order is placed or obligation incurred. Separate accounts shall be kept of all financial transactions relating to current operation, outlays from bond issues, special assessment proceedings and the principal and interest of the bonded debt.

Section 4. The director of finance shall prepare and submit to the board of commissioners, not later than the twentieth day of each month, a summary statement of revenues and expenses of the previous month, detailed as to appropriations and funds in such manner as to show the exact financial condition of the consolidated city and of each appropriation and fund, as of the last day of the previous month. This statement shall be made available to the public.

Section 5. No money shall be drawn from the treasury of the consolidated city, nor shall any obligation for the expenditure of money be incurred except in accordance with an appropriation by the board of commissioners. At the close of the fiscal year any unencumbered balance of an appropriation shall revert to the fund from which appropriated and shall be available for re-appropriation by the board of commissioners.

Section 6. No contract, agreement or other obligation involving the expenditure of money out of appropriations made by the board of commissioners shall be entered into, nor shall any order for such expenditure be valid, unless the director of finance shall first certify that there is an unencumbered balance in the appropriation account to be charged therewith sufficient to meet the obligation thus created. Nothing in this or the preceding section shall be taken to prevent the consolidated city from entering into contracts for more than one and not exceeding ten years and for the payment thereon from current revenues from year to year.

Section 7. At least once in four years the board of commissioners shall appoint a certified public accountant or certified public accountants to audit the accounts of the consolidated city and all officers and employes thereof. Such accountant or accountants shall have access to all books, records and accounts of the consolidated city.

Section 8. No claim against the treasury of the consolidated city shall be paid except by means of a warrant issued by the director of finance and signed by the director of finance or his authorized deputy and countersigned by the controller or his authorized deputy. No such warrant shall be issued to pay a claim for goods delivered unless the receipt of the goods for which the claim is made is certified by the purchasing agent and the officer or employe accepting delivery of the same on behalf of the consolidated city. No warrant shall be issued for the payment of any wages or salary, other than the compensation of elective officers, except upon the basis of a payroll or pay voucher certified by the department for which the service has been rendered and by the director of the department of personnel. No warrant shall be issued for the payment of the whole or part of the obligation of any contract for public work or for contractual services until the performance of such part of the contract as entitles the claimant to receive the same has been certified by the head of the department under the direction of which the work or service is done. The director of finance may require such additional evidence of the validity of any claim and conduct such investigation with regard thereto as he may deem necessary. For this purpose he shall have the same powers with regard to compelling the attendance of witnesses, the production of relevant books and papers and the administration of oaths hereinbefore conferred upon the controller.

Section 9. There shall be in the department of finance a division of the treasury at the head of which shall be the treasurer of the consolidated city. The treasurer shall appoint all officers and employees of this division, subject to the provisions of article fifteen.

Section 10. It shall be the duty of the treasurer to collect all special assessments and taxes due the consolidated city, including delinquent taxes, and the office of the delinquent tax collector is hereby abolished. Annually and prior to the date when taxes are payable in advance, the treasurer shall mail to each taxpayer a tax bill setting forth in detail such data relating thereto as may be prescribed by the board of commissioners. This provision is directory and not mandatory and the failure to mail any such bill shall not invalidate the levy of any tax or any proceedings based on such levy. The treasurer shall arrange with banking institutions located throughout the consolidated city, the terms of the agreement being subject to the approval of the board of commissioners, to receive tax payments on behalf of the consolidated city.

Beginning with the first of January, 1931, all taxes shall be payable in advance during the months of January, February and March of each fiscal year. In all other municipal divisions, as soon as possible after the first day of January, 1930, and every four years thereafter, the governing body of the municipal division and the board of school trustees of the school district corresponding thereto, shall each appoint two members of an assessment committee, and these four members shall appoint a fifth member. It shall be the duty of each such committee to name a qualified elector of the municipal division to serve as the local assessor thereof for a term of four years from the said first day of January and until his successor is appointed and qualified. Such local assessor must be certified by the department of personnel of the consolidated city to possess the qualifications which may be established for such position by the board of commissioners of the consolidated city. Vacancies in the position of such local assessor shall be filled for the unexpired balance of the term in the same manner as original appointments are made. The assessment roll for each year shall be compiled and turned over to the board of assessment appeal by the first Monday of October of each year.

Section 14. The assessor shall maintain a system of tax maps and land value maps and shall record separately each parcel of land and the value of any building or other improvement thereon. The tax maps shall show the dimensions of each separately assessed parcel of land and the land value maps shall show the value per front foot, according to a standard unit of depth, of all land abutting on any street, public way or place within the consolidated city; but as to farm land and all other lands not subdivided into lots of less than one acre in extent, the land value maps shall show the value per acre. All such maps and other records of the assessor shall be open to public inspection at all reasonable times.

Section 15. There is hereby established a board of assessment appeal of three members who shall be persons experienced in real estate values, to be appointed for a term of six years by the court of common pleas in open court, each appointment to be signed by a majority of the judges of said court. This board shall hear, in accordance with such reasonable rules as it may prescribe, all persons aggrieved by any assessment, and shall have full power to confirm and correct, adjust and equalize assessments as between individual parcels of property, and as between municipal divisions. Appeals may be taken from the board of assessment appeal to the court of common pleas as now provided by law for appeals from tax assessments.

Section 16. It shall be the duty of the board of assessment appeal to certify on the first Monday in January, or at such time as may be necessary for the purpose of levying taxes thereon, to the appropriate officer of each municipal division and school district a copy of the assessment roll for that municipal division or district as corrected, adjusted and equalized. Such assessment roll shall furnish the valuation of all properties subject to taxation in such municipal division and school district in appropriate form and detail. Nothing in this charter shall in any way repeal or modify any law of the state now in force providing for a separate and different rate of taxation in any municipal division or district upon land, improvements or machinery, or any exemption or reduction pertaining thereto.

Section 21. Whenever the electors of the consolidated city shall have assented to an increase of indebtedness exceeding two per cent. upon the last preceding assessed valuation of the taxable property therein, the board of commissioners may for the purpose of financing any work or improvement for which such increase of indebtedness has been authorized, issue short term notes which shall be chargeable to the said increase of indebtedness and paid for from the sale of bonds issued in pursuance of such authorization, provided the terms of maturity of said notes and bonds shall not in the aggregate exceed thirty years, and provided further, that said short term notes shall not be issued for a longer term than three years and shall be sold to the highest responsible bidder

Before the adoption of the plan or any such part, amendment, extension or addition, the planning commission shall hold at least one public hearing thereon, notice of the time and place of which shall be given in the same manner as notice of ordinances as provided in article three, section twelve, of this charter. The adoption of the plan or of any part or amendment thereof shall be by resolution and shall require the affirmative votes of not less than six members of the commission. The resolution shall refer expressly to the maps and descriptive and other matter intended by the commission to form the whole or part of the plan, and the action taken shall be recorded on the map and plan and descriptive matter by the identifying signatures of the chairman and secretary of the commission. An attested copy of the plan or part thereof shall be certified to the board of commissioners and the recorder of deeds.

Section 6. Whenever the planning commission shall have adopted the master plan of the consolidated city, or of one or more major sections or districts thereof, no street, square, park or other public way, ground or open space or public building, bridge, viaduct, subway, tunnel, overhead or underground structure or facility for a public utility, for which a franchise may hereafter be granted by the proper municipal authorities, shall be constructed or authorized in the consolidated city, unless the general location conform thereto subject, however, in so far as the facilities or public utilities are concerned, to the provisions of section nineteen hereof. In case the proposed work or improvement does not conform to the master plan, and if the planning commission, upon application to it, shall refuse to alter the master plan so as to permit the construction, the planning commission shall refer the same to the board of commissioners together with its reasons for disapproval, and the board of commissioners shall have power to overrule the disapproval by a two-thirds vote of its entire membership. The failure of the planning commission to act within sixty days from and after the date of official submission to it shall be deemed approval.

Section 7. The planning commission shall, from time to time, recommend to the appropriate public officials programs for specific improvements and for the financing thereof. It shall be part of its duty to consult and advise with public officials and agencies, public utility companies, civic, educational, professional and other organizations and citizens, with relation to the carrying out of the plan, and it may publish and distribute copies of the plan and may authorize its members and staff to attend city planning conferences and meetings and pay the expense incident thereto. All public official shall, upon request, furnish to the planning commission, within a reasonable time, such available information as it may require for its work. The planning commission, its members, officers and employees, in the performance of their functions, may enter upon land and make examinations and surveys and place and maintain necessary monuments and marks thereon. In general the commission shall have such powers as may be necessary to enable it to fulfill its functions and carry out the purposes of this article.

Section 8. The secretary of the board of commissioners shall, upon introduction, furnish to the planning commission for its consideration, a copy of all ordinances relating to the location of any public building and to the location, extension, widening and enlargement of any street, boulevard, parkway, park, playground or other public grounds, and to the vacation of any street or other alteration of the plan of streets and highways, and to the location of any bridge, wharf, conduit, tunnel or subway, or of any surface, underground or elevated railway or other means of communication. The said planning commission may make a report or suggestion in relation thereto if it deems a report necessary or advisable for the consideration of the board of commissioners. All such reports, when delivered to the clerk of the board of commissioners, shall be for the information of the public, and the planning commission shall furnish to any newspaper of the consolidated city on request for publication a copy of any such report.

Section 9. The powers of the consolidated city with regard to zoning as provided in article two of this charter shall be exercised as hereinafter provided. The planning commission shall possess the same powers and duties with respect to zoning of the consolidated city which are now possessed by planning commissions in cities of the second class. In each municipal division, which now has in effect a complete and comprehensive zoning ordinance, the same shall continue in force within the limits of such municipal division and may from time to time be amended. Where no such local municipal zoning ordinance exists, each municipal division shall have until January 1, 1933, to prepare and adopt a complete and comprehensive zoning ordinance and may thereafter amend the same. No such ordinance, however, shall be adopted, or any amendment made in any existing ordinance except in accordance with general regulations of the planning commission as to completeness, comprehensiveness, uniformity of symbolic representation upon the maps, and methods of adjustment and appeal. Except as above provided the consolidated city shall have exclusive zoning powers throughout the consolidated city.

Section 10. The territorial jurisdiction of the planning commission over the subdivision of land shall include all land located in the consolidated city and all land lying within five miles of the corporate limits of the consolidated city and not located in any other city or borough, except that in the case of any township land lying within five miles of any city or borough having a planning commission, the jurisdiction of such municipal planning commission and of the planning commission of the consolidated city shall terminate at a boundary line equidistant from the respective corporate limits of such municipalities.

Section 11. Whenever the planning commission shall have adopted a master plan, including a major street plan of the territory, within its subdivision jurisdiction or a part thereof, and shall have filed a certified copy of such plan in the office of the recorder of deeds, then no plat of a subdivision of land, within such territory or part thereof, shall be filed or recorded until it shall have been approved by the planning commission as conforming to the general requirements of such master plan and major street plan. Such approval shall be in addition to approval by a planning commission of a municipal division, if such be required. Such approval shall be entered in writing upon the plat by the chairman of the planning commission and certified by the secretary thereof.

Section 12. Before exercising the powers referred to in section eleven, the planning commission shall adopt regulations governing the subdivision of land within its jurisdiction. These shall be general so far as they relate to subdivision of land located within municipal divisions which have planning commissions with competent jurisdiction, and shall be particular as to territory which is not included within municipal divisions having such planning commissions. Such general regulations may provide for the proper arrangement of streets in relation to other existing or planned streets and to the major street plan. The detailed regulations may provide for adequate and convenient open spaces, or traffic, utilities, access of fire-fighting apparatus, recreation, light and air, and for the avoidance of congestion of population, including the minimum width and area of building lots. Such detailed regulations may include also provisions as to the extent to which streets and other public ways shall be graded and improved, and to which water and sewer and other utilities, mains, pipes or other facilities shall be installed, as a condition precedent to the approval of the plat. The regulations of the planning commission may provide for a tentative approval of the plat, previous to such installation, but any such tentative approval shall be revocable and shall not be entered on the plat. In lieu of the completion of such improvements and utilities prior to the final approval of the plat, the planning commission may accept a bond, with surety, to secure to the consolidated city the actual construction and installation of such improvements or utilities at a time and according to specifications fixed by or in accordance with the regulations of the planning commission. All such regulations shall be printed and be available for distribution upon request.

Section 13. The planning commission shall approve or disapprove a plat of a subdivision of land within thirty days after the submission thereof, otherwise such plat shall be deemed to have been approved and a certificate to that effect shall be issued by the planning commission on demand. The applicant for the planning commission's approval may waive this requirement and consent to an extension of such period. The ground of disapproval of any plat shall be stated upon the records of the commission. Any plat submitted to the planning commission shall contain the name and address of a person to whom notice of a hearing shall be sent, and no plat shall be acted on by the planning commission without affording a hearing thereon. Notice shall be sent to the said address by registered mail of the time and place of such hearing not less than five days before the date fixed therefor. A copy of such notice shall be published not less than five days before the date of said hearing at least once in a newspaper published in the municipal division in which each parcel of land immediately adjoining such plot is located and of general circulation therein, or where no newspaper is published in the municipal division, in a newspaper of general circulation therein. Every plat approved by the planning commission shall, by virtue of such approval, be deemed to be an amendment of or addition to and become a part of the master plan. Approval of a plat shall not be deemed to constitute or effect an acceptance by the public of any street or other open space shown upon the plat. The planning commission may from time to time recommend to the commissioners of the consolidated city amendments to the zoning ordinance or map or additions thereto to conform to the commission's recommendations for the zoning regulation of the territory comprised within approved subdivisions.

Section 14. Whoever, being the owner or agent of any land located within a subdivision hereafter established, transfers or sells, or agrees to sell, any land by reference to, or exhibition of, or by other use of a plat of a subdivision, before such plat has been approved by the planning commission and recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds, shall forfeit and pay a penalty of one hundred dollars to the consolidated city for each lot or parcel so transferred or sold or agreed to be sold; and the description of such lot or parcel by metes and bounds in the instrument of transfer or other document used in the process of selling or transferring shall not exempt a transaction from such penalties or from the penalties here provided. The planning commission may enjoin such transfer or sale or agreement by action for injunction brought in a court of equity jurisdiction, or may recover the said penalty by a civil action in any court of competent jurisdiction.

Section 15. If the recorder of deeds files or records a plat of a subdivision without the approval of the planning commission, as required by law, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars.

Section 16. The consolidated city shall not accept, lay out, improve, grade, pave, curb or light any street, or lay or permit water mains or sewers or connections to be laid in any street, within any portion of territory for which the planning commission shall have adopted a major street plan, unless such street shall have been accepted or opened as, or shall otherwise have received the legal status of, a public street or road prior to the adoption of said major street plan, or unless such street corresponds with a major street shown on the official master plan, or with a major street on a subdivision plat approved by the planning commission, or with a major street on a street plat or official map made by and officially adopted by the planning commission. The board of commissioners may, however, accept any street not shown on, or not corresponding with a street on, the official master plan or on an improved subdivision plat or an official street plat or the official map, provided the ordinance accepting such street, upon submission to the planning commission, is approved thereby, or if disapproved is enacted by not less than a two-thirds vote of the entire membership of the board of commissioners. A street approved by the planning commission upon submission by the board of commissioners, or accepted by a two-thirds vote after disapproval by the planning commission, shall thereupon have the status of an approved street and be a part of the official street map, as fully as though it had been originally shown on the official master plan or on a subdivision plat approved or plotted by the planning commission or on an official street plan.

Section 17. From and after the time when the planning commission shall have adopted a major street plan of the territory within its subdivision jurisdiction or part thereof, no building or buildings or parts thereof, shall be erected on any lot, nor shall a building permit be issued therefor, unless the street giving access to the lot upon which such building or buildings is proposed to be placed shall have been accepted or opened as a public street, or unless such street corresponds with a street shown on the official master plan or with a street on a subdivision plat approved by the planning commission or with a street on a street plat or the street map officially adopted by the planning commission. Any building erected in violation of this section shall be deemed an unlawful structure, and the building inspector or other appropriate official may cause it to be vacated and have it removed.

Section 18. It shall be the duty of the planning commission in deliberating upon the master plan and other matters within its jurisdiction to consult with the planning authorities of the municipal division concerned. The planning commission shall also arrange for periodical conferences of all planning authorities within the consolidated city to which may be invited any other persons interested in city planning.

Section 19. Nothing contained in this article thirteen shall be deemed to affect, vary, alter or modify the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission or the public service commission of the state.

ARTICLE XIV

The Department of Public Art

Section 1. There shall be a department of public art which shall be in charge of an art jury consisting of nine members, appointed for a term of six years, and of certain ex-officio members as hereinafter provided. No member shall receive compensation for his service on this board. The appointed membership shall consist of one sculptor, one painter, three architects, one landscape architect—all of eminence in their respective professions—and three representative citizens familiar with the fine arts but not professionally or commercially engaged therein. Not more than five members shall be residents of any one municipal division. Of those first appointed, three shall be appointed for a term of six years, three for a term of four years and three for a term of two years from the first Monday of January 1930. Five appointed members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of any business or the decision of any matters within the competence or jurisdiction of the art jury, and a majority of such a quorum may decide. The jury may, by a three-fourths vote of its appointed membership, delegate to a committee, an officer, or an accredited executive, power to act upon and decide such matters as it shall adjudge to be of a minor or routine character; and such actions or decisions shall be deemed to be valid acts of the jury unless rescinded by it within thirty days. The art jury shall adopt its own rules of procedure, not inconsistent with any law or ordinance, and so that in proper cases reasonable notice and full opportunity to be heard shall be afforded according to law. The art jury shall elect a president and a vice-president from among its appointed membership for a term of two years, and shall appoint an executive director whose salary, together with the salaries or wages of clerks and other employees and the necessary expenses of the department, shall be provided, in the discretion of the board of commissioners, by the proper appropriations and ordinances.

Section 2. The president of the board of commissioners, and the executive director of the department of art shall be ex-officio members of the art jury with all the powers and privileges of appointed members except that of voting upon submissions. In like manner, the mayor, burgess or one authorized representative of any municipal division, or the director of an administrative department of the consolidated city shall be an ex-officio member of the jury during the consideration of any project or submission originating with, or of concern to, the municipal division or department which he represents.

Section 3. The art jury shall have, for the consolidated city as a whole, the powers and duties hitherto vested in the art commission of the present city of Pittsburgh, except as otherwise provided herein. The jurisdiction of the art jury shall not be affected by the cost of any structure or building, including bridges. The art jury shall have a period of sixty days in which to decide matters within their jurisdiction, except where in the opinion of competent authority a work of art or structure to which it is attached, has become a menace to life or property, the art jury or its executive director shall approve or disapprove the temporary relocation of the same within forty-eight hours of notice, and failure so to do shall be deemed to be an approval of such relocation. The art jury shall be privileged to examine and to make suggestions upon any projects which are in process of study by planning agencies of the consolidated city or a municipal division thereof. The art jury shall prescribe the form of submission to be made to it, and the nature of data, graphic and otherwise, to be presented therewith. Except under unusual circumstances of which the art jury shall be judge, projects shall be first submitted in preliminary form and before the plans and designs thereof shall have been fixed and completed.

Section 4. The department of public art shall be the custodian of all works of art within the meaning of this article, and shall preserve and maintain the same in good order and repair; and the necessary funds for such maintenance shall be provided at the discretion of the board of commissioners or of the legislative authority of the municipal division or divisions concerned. The department of public art may, of its own motion or upon the request of the proper legislative authority, delegate the custody and maintenance of any work of art to a public officer, private donor, or responsible organization, but without waiver of its rights and duties hereunder. The department of public art shall have jurisdiction over the design of planting or other embellishment incidental to any work of art, bridge, building or other structure, and shall advise the proper authorities in the maintenance thereof; nor shall any change in the existing setting of a work of art be made without approval of the art jury provided in section two of this article. It shall be the duty of the department of public art to direct the expenditure of funds or other things of value delivered to the consolidated city by gift or bequest, for the purchase of works of art or sites therefor, for the maintenance of such works, and the development of sites, or for any other purpose looking toward the creation, preservation or appreciation of beauty within the consolidated city and no such expenditure shall be made except upon its order.

Section 5. The art commission of the present city of Pittsburgh is hereby abolished.

ARTICLE XV

Department of Personnel

Section 1. There shall be a department of personnel at the head of which there shall be a director who shall have the power to appoint the employees of this department.

Section 2. No person shall be appointed to any office or employment of the consolidated city except the county officers named in article four, the heads of departments, the secretary of the board of commissioners, and the members of boards and of commissions serving without compensation, until they have been examined by the department of personnel and a report on their mental ability, education, experience, character and reputation and other characteristics has been filed by the said department with the appointing authority.

Section 3. Whenever the board of commissioners or any other competent officer or board shall adopt minimum requirements to be possessed by the appointee to any office or employment or when such requirements are specified in this charter, no person shall be appointed to such office or employment unless the department of personnel shall certify that he fulfills said minimum requirements.

Section 4. It shall be the duty of the department of personnel to classify all positions in the service of the consolidated city and to recommend to the board of commissioners a plan of salary standardization and from time to time recommend changes therein. No salary shall at any time be increased or diminished until the recommendation of the said department is on file with the board of commissioners. It shall likewise be the duty of the department of personnel to recommend to the board of commissioners or other competent authority minimum requirements for each class of position.

Section 5. The department of personnel shall keep a permanent employment record. Section 7. The department of personnel shall have power to make, subject to the approval of the board of commissioners, uniform regulations with regard to absences, sick leaves and vacations, and to determine their effect on compensation.

Section 8. Whenever the board of commissioners shall adopt a system of retirement allowances, the same shall be administered by the department of personnel. This power may be exercised either by the purchase by the consolidated city of policies of insurance for each officer and employee or by the creation of an insurance fund. If the latter alternative is adopted, the contributions to such fund and the allowances to be derived therefrom must be regulated in accordance with sound and tested actuarial principles. The employees of Allegheny county, as the same were on the thirty-first day of December 1929, who have acquired rights in the pension fund of the employees of Allegheny county, as now provided by law, shall retain their rights in the said fund so long as they shall continue to make contributions thereto as required by law. The consolidated city shall henceforth make such contributions to said fund as would have been made by Allegheny county. Any employee of the consolidated city contributing to and enjoying rights under the said fund may elect to withdraw from said fund and become a participant in any system of retirement allowances which the board of commissioners may establish, upon such conditions as may be determined by the board of commissioners. The employees of any municipality, who, by the operation of this charter, become employees of the consolidated city and who on the thirty-first day of December 1929 had acquired rights under the pension system of such municipality, shall retain their rights in the said pension system so long as they shall continue to make contributions thereto as required by law. The consolidated city shall pay annually to the pension fund of the municipal division concerned for each such employee a sum equal to that which the said municipal division would have paid if the employee had remained an employee of the municipal division. Any such employee may elect to withdraw from the pension system of the municipal division concerned and become a participant in any system of retirement allowances which the board of commissioners may establish, upon such conditions as may be determined by the board of commissioners.

It is the intent and purpose of this section to provide for and insure the preservation of the existing rights relative to pensions of the employees of Allegheny county and the municipalities thereof as the same may respectively exist on the thirty-first day of December 1929, who shall thereafter become employees of the consolidated city by operation of this charter, and any plan for a system of pensions which may hereafter be adopted by the board of commissioners shall provide for the continuation and preservation of these rights to the said employees.

ARTICLE XIX

Special Assessments

Section 1. In the exercise of its power to pay the cost of any public improvement, in whole or in part, by special assessment upon abutting or non-abutting property materially benefited thereby, the consolidated city shall be governed by the following provisions.

Section 2. The board of commissioners may, saving always the provisions of article thirteen of this charter, propose by resolution to initiate a public improvement the cost of which is to be assessed in whole or in part against abutting or non-abutting property materially benefited thereby as provided in article two of this charter. Such resolution shall set a date for a public hearing, shall refer to the map of the proposed area of benefit which shall be on file at the office of the secretary of the board of commissioners prior to the hearing, shall describe the proposed area of benefit by the use of an outline map or other readily understandable means, shall state the aggregate assessed valuation of land which may be subject to special assessment within the proposed area of benefit as evidenced by the last assessment roll on which taxes for the consolidated city were levied, and shall state in general terms the location and character of the proposed public improvement and its estimated cost. A copy of such resolution shall be sent to the governing body of each municipal division any part of which is included in the proposed area of benefit and shall be published once in a newspaper published in the consolidated city and of general circulation therein, and in a newspaper published in each of the said municipal divisions and of general circulation therein, if there be such a newspaper. The hearing shall be held not less than fifteen days after the last publication and the receipt of the resolutions by the governing bodies of said municipal divisions.

Section 3. The presentation to the secretary of the board of commissioners, on or before the date set for the hearing, of a petition signed by the owners of land representing ten per cent of the total number of parcels within the proposed area of benefit, shall make it mandatory on the board of commissioners to provide for a further hearing at a date not less than fifteen days after the first date assigned for the hearing.

Section 4. The presentation to the secretary of the board of commissioners, on or before the date for the continuance of the hearing, of a petition objecting to the proposed improvement and signed by owners of land representing sixty per cent of the total number of parcels, or separate pieces of ground belonging to the same owner or owners, within the proposed area of benefit, shall serve as a veto on the power of the board of commissioners to proceed with the improvement. Nothing in this section shall be construed as limiting the power of the board of commissioners to re-initiate the proposed improvement in its original form after the lapse of one year from the date of the original notice of intention, or in modified form at any time, always subject to the foregoing provisions relating to notice, hearing, continuance of hearing and veto.

Section 5. In the award of contracts for the construction of such a public improvement, the board of commissioners shall proceed under the provisions of article seven of this charter.

Section 6. In the exercise of the right of eminent domain for the acquisition of lands, rights and easements essential to such a public improvement, the board of commissioners shall proceed under the statutes of the state now or hereafter applicable thereto.

Section 7. After the passage of the ordinance authorizing the said public improvement, the board of commissioners shall apply to the court of common pleas for the appointment of viewers to ascertain the damage to the property proposed to be taken, injured or destroyed by such public improvement, and such board of viewers shall proceed to ascertain the said damages without then considering any special benefits arising from said public improvement, and shall proceed in accordance with law. The board of commissioners may at any time prior to the actual entry upon and the taking possession of said property so damaged repeal the said ordinance and reimburse the said owners for any expense actually incurred.

Section 8. At any time after the completion of the said public improvement and not later than one year thereafter, the board of commissioners shall by resolution order the assessor to prepare an assessment roll and assessment map for the area of benefit. Such resolution shall direct the assessor to consult with the heads of the departments having charge of the design or construction of such improvement and to have charge of its use or operation thereafter and such other officers or employees as may be designated in said resolution. The said resolution shall contain a statement of the aggregate cost incurred for the said public improvement which shall be grouped under the following heads:

(a) Amounts actually paid for the costs and damages for the lands, rights and easements taken, injured or destroyed, together with the amounts then fixed and determined by the board of viewers or by the courts as the case may be.

(b) The actual total cost of the construction of the public improvement.

(c) All costs of engineering and inspection incident to the planning for and construction of the said public improvement.

(d) Interest paid on indebtedness incurred on account thereof during the period of the planning for and construction of the said public improvement.

The said resolution shall also fix and determine whether all or what percentage of said aggregate cost shall be assessed against the properties specially benefited.

Section 9. The assessor shall thereupon promptly proceed to ascertain the amount of special benefit, advantage or increase in value which the respective lots and parcels of land shall be determined to receive by reason of such public improvement and in no case shall any assessment on any parcel of land exceed in amount such special benefit, advantage or increase in value or its just proportion as may be fixed and determined by the board of commissioners, as provided in section eight hereof.

In preparing the said assessment roll the assessor shall classify the real estate within the area of benefit into urban, suburban or rural or into as many of such classes as may exist within the area of benefit.

Section 10. When the assessor shall have completed such assessment roll and such map, he shall give notice in the manner prescribed in section two of this article, that the assessment roll and assessment map are open for inspection in his office for a period of thirty days and that he will on a certain date thereafter hear all objections to the said assessments. He shall also mail to every known owner of land against which an assessment appears on such roll, whose address or whose agents address is on file in his office or in that of the treasurer of the consolidated city, a copy of such notice together with the statement of the amount assessed against each and every parcel of which such person was the known owner on the date of completion of the roll. This requirement is directory and not mandatory and failure to mail any such notice shall not invalidate any proceeding or assessment hereunder.

Section 11. Objections to the said assessments shall be filed in such form as may be prescribed by the assessor and within such limit of time as may be set forth in the notice provided for in the preceding section. The said assessor shall thereupon proceed to consider such objections and hold such hearings in connection therewith as he may determine advisable and make such changes in the assessments as may appeal to him to be proper and reasonable under the circumstances. After his final determination the assessor shall, as promptly as possible, transmit the assessment roll and the assessment maps to the board of commissioners.

Thereupon the board of commissioners shall direct the solicitor of the consolidated city to apply to the court of common pleas for the appointment of viewers and to attach to the petition for the appointment of said viewers a copy of the said final assessment roll and assessment maps. Thereupon, notice thereof shall be given to the said property owners in the same manner as is provided in section ten hereof. Said requirement as to mailing is directory and not mandatory and failure to mail any such notice shall not invalidate any proceeding or assessment hereunder. Said assessment shall become final and conclusive with respect to all assessments to which no exception is taken within thirty days after said last publication and the board of viewers shall thereupon approve and confirm the same. With respect to all assessments to which exception is taken before the said board of viewers within said thirty days, the board of viewers shall proceed to determine the special benefit, advantage or increase in value in accordance with law.

Section 12. The board of commissioners may provide for the payment of the said assessments in one or more installments provided that all installments shall be paid within ten years from the date of the final determination of any assessment. Interest shall be charged on all deferred payments at the rate of six per cent per annum. If any installments shall become due and delinquent the same shall be collected in the same manner and under the same penalties as in municipal liens and municipal claims as now or hereafter provided by law.

ARTICLE XX

Municipal Divisions

Section 1. Whenever any municipal division of the consolidated city shall desire to become united with another contiguous municipal division and shall signify such desire, either by the passage of an ordinance of the governing bodies of the said municipal division, or by a petition signed by qualified electors of such municipal division equal to fifty per cent of the votes cast therein at the last general election, and the governing body of the other municipal division agrees thereto.

the board of commissioners of the consolidated city shall by appropriate ordinance, within fifteen days after receipt of a certified copy of the said ordinance or satisfactory verification that the requirements of the said petition have been fully met, submit the question to the electors of such municipal division and the municipal division to which the annexation is to be made, at the next general municipal election occurring at least sixty days after the passage of the said ordinance, or, at the request of the governing bodies of both municipal divisions, at a special election to take place not less than sixty days after the passage of the said ordinance. The question shall be submitted in the following form:

No

In all other respects the general laws of the state relating to elections or special election as the case may be shall apply. The cost of such elections shall be borne by the municipal divisions concerned. If the majority of votes on this question in each of the municipal divisions is in the affirmative the municipal divisions shall be united to form a single municipal division.

Section 2. The governing body of any municipal division may propose to the board of commissioners of the consolidated city to surrender one or more of the powers of the said municipal division to the consolidated city may accept or reject such a proposal. In accepting any such proposal, the board of commissioners of the consolidated city must attach to its acceptance such conditions as may be prescribed in this charter and may attach other conditions in its discretion. If the proposal be accepted, the board of commissioners shall submit to the electors of the municipal division at the next general municipal election the question as to whether they will approve the surrender upon such conditions, if any, which the board of commissioners has attached thereto. If a majority of those voting on such question be in the affirmative, the said power or powers shall be deemed surrendered to the consolidated city upon the conditions embodied in such question.

Section 3. There are hereby reserved to each of the municipal divisions of the consolidated city all the properties, powers, rights, capacities and duties of cities, boroughs and townships of their respective forms and classes, which have not been by this charter granted to the consolidated city, together with the substantial powers expressly reserved to the cities, boroughs and townships situated in Allegheny county as provided in section four of article fifteen of the constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

ARTICLE XXI

Municipal Court

Section 1. There shall be, and hereby is, created a court in the consolidated city, to be known as the "Municipal Court", to be composed of one judge for each fifty thousand of population, such a population to be determined by the preceding decennial census of the United States. The exact number of judges shall be determined and fixed from time to time by the judges of the county court who shall have the appointing power. The said judges shall have the right, on the recommendation of the board of judges of the municipal court, to appoint additional judges from time to time, never exceeding fifteen additional judges, whenever in their opinion the business of the municipal court requires such additional judges and the increase in number is approved and authorized by the board of commissioners.

Section 2. Persons having the following qualifications shall be eligible to appointment as judges of the said court, either (a) admission to practice before the highest court of the state; together with an actual legal experience of not less than three years; or (b) not less than six years of active business experience and a manifested interest in public affairs; or (c) service as a magistrate, alderman or justice of the peace for not less than six years. The county court, by a vote of not less than two-thirds of all of the judges, shall appoint the judges of the municipal court of whom one shall be appointed president judge and two shall be appointed vice-president judges. The president judge and the two vice-president judges shall all be persons learned in the law. All judges shall hold office for a term of five years from the date of their appointment except as hereinafter provided.

The president judge shall receive a salary of seven thousand five hundred dollars per annum, the two vice-president judges a salary of six thousand dollars per annum, and the other judges shall receive a salary of five thousand dollars per annum, payable monthly.

A commission shall issue from the county court to each judge, under the seal of the said court, and the said judge before entering upon his duties shall take the oath of office prescribed by the constitution before one or more of the judges of the county court. Each judge shall devote his whole time and capacity to the duties of his office so long as he shall continue to be a judge of the municipal court.

The president judge and the two vice-president judges shall be appointed on or before October 1, 1930, and the other judges constituting the first board of judges shall be appointed on or before October 1, 1931, and as so appointed shall constitute such municipal court with full power to act with respect to all preliminary matters, including the adoption of rules, locating and furnishing of court rooms, appointments of employees and all other matters of arrangement and assignment, which shall be completed prior to January 1, 1932, when the said judges shall begin to exercise their judicial powers and duties. The term of five years of the judges constituting the first board of judges shall be computed from January 1, 1932.

Section 3. All nominations for appointment of said judges shall be filed with the county court in the form prescribed by that court. Among other requirements, the rules of the county courts shall provide as follows:

(a) All nominations shall be signed by not less than five hundred qualified electors who either know the nominee personally or by general reputation and who shall certify to his fitness and requisite qualifications for appointment; and,

(b) That there shall be forwarded in confidence to the judges of the county court not less than ten letters of persons who have known the nominee for not less than six years who shall state their personal knowledge of the qualifications and fitness of the nominee for appointment and of his work and activities during their period of acquaintanceship, together with such other and additional information as may be helpful to the judges of the county court in making the said appointments.

Such nominations shall be indexed in a docket specially kept for this purpose and shall not be acted upon by the court for fifteen days after they have been filed. The county court shall also prescribe rules for the filing of objections thereto and for hearings and for methods of procedure pertaining to the appointment of all nominees. All appointments shall be made in open court and a record thereof shall be made in the minutes of the court.

Section 4. The county court may remove any judge of the municipal court for misfeasance or malfeasance in office, or for any other proper cause. The county court may hear all complaints against any judge of the municipal court, and such complaints shall be filed under oath, setting forth the grounds and reasons thereof, and the county court may adopt and amend such rules and practices relating to hearings of such complaints in open court as they may from time to time deem to be necessary and advisable.

Section 5. The said municipal court shall have jurisdiction as follows:

(a) The existing jurisdiction of all magistrates, aldermen and justices of the peace in Allegheny county and in the cities of the second and third class constituting municipal divisions thereof, which shall include all existing powers of every kind and character whatsoever, both civil, criminal and summary, as are provided under the laws of the state.

(b) In all civil actions where only a money judgment is sought to be recovered, and in all actions of replevin in which the sum demanded, or the value of the property replevined, exclusive of damages for the taking or detention thereof, does not exceed five hundred dollars exclusive of interest and costs, except in cases where the title to lands or tenements may come in question. This shall also include the right of the defendant to present his claim for set-off or counterclaim in a like amount.

(c) In all cases of violations of ordinances of the consolidated city, and of the municipal divisions thereof, including the right to impose the fines and penalties provided for therein.

(d) Such other and additional jurisdiction as may from time to time be conferred upon said court by appropriate legislation.

Section 6. The said municipal court shall have the following powers:

(a) To adopt, prescribe and amend rules for the procedure in said courts in all matters within the jurisdiction of the court, subject to the right of the county court to review the said rules and to veto any rule which may be in conflict with the rules prescribed by the county court for the taking of appeals from the said municipal court to the said county court.

(b) To fix the hours during which the court shall be open, which shall make adequate provision for evening sessions.

(c) To fix the duties of the secretary of the board of judges, who shall also be the clerk of court in charge of the docket and records of the court, clerks, constables and other employees which may include a public prosecutor and a public defender, one or more, as may appear necessary and when as authorized by the board of commissioners; the manner of keeping records and papers, the collection and disposition of moneys and accounts thereof.

(d) To prescribe the forms and practice of the court, including forms of pleading, when pleading may be required, and all matters of procedure, and to provide for the keeping of the proper dockets and the entries to be made therein.

(e) To fix the calendar practice and the designation of divisions of the court where special classes of cases, such as criminal cases, small claims, traffic complaints, matters of moral conduct, or any other classes of cases, shall be brought and tried.

(f) To establish a system of consolidation whereby any civil controversies may be submitted by consent of the parties to a judge of the court for informal hearing and decision, without entry of judgment.

(g) To establish a system of arbitration and the procedure thereof.

(h) To provide for a board of review of three judges to which appeals may be taken on condition that the decision of the said board of review shall be final and conclusive.

(i) To fix and prescribe the rules and regulations with reference to the keeping and preservation of the records, documents and papers pertaining to the business of the court, and by resolution to direct the clerk of the court to destroy any records or papers deposited or filed in his office which may be considered as no longer necessary.

(j) To establish rules authorizing the taking of testimony by deposition of witnesses residing out of the county or state, or who, by reason of age, sickness or other infirmity, are unable to attend the trial or whose presence cannot reasonably be had, and to authorize the taking of such testimony in such manner, not inconsistent with the laws of this state, as the court shall deem proper.

It is the spirit and intent of this article to require the said municipal court to dispose of the business of the said court with dispatch, having due regard for the convenience and interests of all parties in litigation in said court in the matter of place and time of hearing, and to secure this result adequate provision shall be made for evening sessions and for such other times of hearing as will not unduly interfere with the normal times and periods of occupation of litigants and witnesses. For this purpose provision shall be made for appropriate classifications of cases and divisions of the court. Among other divisions there shall be a small claims court where litigation in civil matters not exceeding fifty dollars shall be promptly heard and disposed of without unnecessary formality, and where rules of procedure and evidence may be reduced to the simplest and most direct methods possible, and cases shall be heard and disposed of at the least possible cost and without the necessity of the engagement of attorneys-at-law to represent the parties to the litigation, and where the right of appeal may be limited and restricted so far as the same may be done within constitutional limitations, so that justice may be promptly and easily accomplished and litigation may not be unduly protracted.

Section 7. To insure the accomplishment of the purposes of its creation, the following requirements are mandatory upon the judges of the municipal court and it shall be the duty of the president judge and of the two vice-president judges to see that they are fully carried out, not only in the letter but in the spirit of the provisions relating to the municipal court:

(a) The court shall be open at all reasonable times for the transaction of business and provision shall be made so that the remedies which may be afforded by this court shall be available to all litigants at all times; and for this purpose, a central exchange shall be maintained, which shall be open at all times where telephone communication may be established and appropriate relief may be promptly and expeditiously afforded.

(b) A system of rotation of judges shall be provided by which provision shall be made that no judge may hold court continuously in the same place for more than six months, except that judges specially assigned to hear traffic complaints and matters of moral conduct may hold court continuously in the same place for not more than two years.

(c) A geographical distribution of the places of holding court shall be made throughout the consolidated city which shall give consideration to the amount of business to be transacted, the convenience of the litigants and of witnesses, and provision shall be made for holding court in each municipal division which has a population in excess of twenty-five thousand inhabitants. So far as possible cases shall be heard at the location most convenient to the litigants, and in case this works a hardship to the defendant then in the most convenient location to the defendant. These matters shall be covered by appropriate and clearly definitely stated rules.

(d) The cases shall be heard and disposed of as promptly as the circumstances will permit and wherever possible the judge hearing the case shall make his decision at the conclusion of the hearing, and in all other cases within one week thereafter.

(e) Within thirty days after the first of April 1932, and quarterly thereafter, there shall be a statistical report made to the board of commissioners of the consolidated city in sufficient detail to show the total number of cases brought before the said court in each quarter, the nature thereof, and the disposition thereof and the number of appeals taken from the decision of the court.

Section 8. The president judge, in addition to all other powers as a judge of the said municipal court shall exercise general supervision over the business of the court, and have such other powers as may be conferred by resolution of the board of judges. He shall have power to assign the judges to the different sections or districts of the consolidated city, where places may be provided for the holding of court, and shall have power to assign the said judges; and he may also divide the consolidated city into convenient districts for the more prompt and expeditious handling of the business of the court, and make assignments with respect to the said districts if, in his opinion, the said arrangement will operate to more promptly and expeditiously dispose of the business of the court. He may transfer cases for trial from one judge to another for convenience of the parties or for any other proper cause. The acts or directions of the president of the board of judges may be vacated, amended or modified by majority vote at a regular or special meeting of the board.

Section 9. The two vice-president judges of the said municipal court shall hold their commissions in the order of their appointment and shall in said order exercise the duties and powers of the president judge in his absence or inability to serve. The said vice-president judges shall also, together with the president judge, act as a board from the time of their appointment of the first board of judges on or before October 1, 1931, and a majority of the said board shall exercise all powers conferred by the provisions of this article up to October 1, 1931, and shall prepare a statement of the proposed classifications and divisions of the said court and the geographical distribution of places of holding court, together with the rules, regulations and practices proposed to be adopted, which shall be completed on or before October 1, 1931, and submitted to the first board of judges for their final consideration and approval. One of the said vice-president judges shall be placed in charge of the small claims court and shall have direct charge and responsibility thereof. The other vice-president judge shall be given charge and shall be held responsible for the handling of any other division or class of cases which may be specifically assigned to him by the president judge.

Section 10. The judges of this court shall constitute the board of judges and shall discharge the functions thereof. A majority of all the members of the board shall constitute a quorum. The board shall have the power to appoint and remove the secretary of the board, who shall be the clerk of court, and all the other employees of the court.

Section 11. The salaries of all employees of the said municipal court shall be fixed from time to time by the board of commissioners, who shall provide for a secretary of the board, for at least one clerk and one constable for each judge thereof, for one or more certified public accountants and for such other additional employees as may be recommended by the board of judges from time to time and may be approved by the board of commissioners. The board of commissioners shall also provide the necessary quarters for the holding of court, not less than one court room for each judge, together with the necessary furnishings and facilities, at such locations as may be recommended from time to time by the said board of commissioners, and shall pay all the necessary costs for the furnishing, maintenance and use of the said quarters as may be recommended from time to time by the said board of judges or the president judge thereof and approved by the board of commissioners.

Section 12. The municipal court shall have a seal for the use of said court, which shall contain the words "The Municipal Court of the City of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania Seal," which seal shall be affixed to all writs of summons, transcripts and other official certificates issued by or under the direction of the said court. The seal of the court shall be in the custody of the clerk or of deputy clerks specifically so authorized by the board of judges of the said court. The court may provide for the keeping of a seal at each place designated by it for the holding of court.

Section 13. The municipal court is empowered to issue writs of subpoena and, under rules prescribed by the court, to issue writs of subpoena duces tecum, under its official seal, into any part of the consolidated city and into any county of this state, to summon and bring before the court any person to give testimony or to produce any paper or writing in any cause or matter pending before it, under the penalties hitherto appointed and allowed in such cases, under the laws of this state; but no subpoena shall issue to summon a witness from any other county of the state except after an order made by a judge of said court upon cause shown.

Section 14. Service of the writ of summons and copies of plaintiff's statement or defendant's statement of set-off or counterclaim, when statements are required under the rules of the said court, shall be made in the same manner as is now provided by law for the service of writs of summons in personal actions and may be made by a constable for the said court or by the sheriff or by such other persons as may be appointed by the court for that purpose.

Section 15. Constables shall be appointed and removed by the board of judges of the municipal court. The board of judges shall, from time to time, recommend to the board of commissioners the number of constables required to properly carry on the business of the said court. The constables shall be paid a salary to be fixed from time to time by the board of commissioners and may, in addition thereto, receive such fees and charges for specific service as may be recommended by the judges of the said court and approved by the board of commissioners. The constables shall have and exercise all the powers now conferred upon constables as provided by the laws of this state, and such duties as may be imposed upon them by the said board of judges of the municipal court.

Section 16. The fees and costs of all writs, entries and other services charged for shall be fixed by the board of judges of said court, provided, however, that the same shall be substantially less than the charge for the corresponding fee, writ, entry or service in the court of common pleas and quarter sessions of the county; and the same, with all witness fees, which shall also be fixed by the board of judges of said court, shall follow the judgment in civil cases; but the court may, in any case, make such order as to the payment of costs, either by the plaintiff or the defendant, or by both of the said litigants, as may, in the judgment of the trial judge, be fair and equitable; but no costs shall be required to be deposited or secured in advance, except in the case of non-resident plaintiffs upon order of the said court. All fees and costs in civil matters where the amount in controversy does not exceed fifty dollars shall be fixed at a minimum and shall not exceed one dollar, exclusive of witness fees.

Section 17. The judges of the said court shall have the power to administer oaths or affirmations, and to commit persons for contempt of court. Any clerk of said court shall be empowered to administer oaths or affirmations and shall, under the rules and regulations of the court, have the right to do all things helpful to conduct and expedite the business of the court, other than the actual hearing of cases.

Section 18. A record shall be kept of all moneys paid into the said court, and the same shall be promptly paid over to the consolidated city from time to time, as may be required and prescribed by the director of finance of the consolidated city; and the board of commissioners is hereby authorized and empowered to fix the amount of bond to be given by the judges of the said court, and any or all of the employees thereof. All salaries, expenses and costs incurred by the said municipal court, and provided for herein, shall be paid out of the treasury of the consolidated city as in this charter provided for other expenses of the consolidated city.

Section 19. The municipal court may issue the following writs of execution; writs of fieri facias, capias ad satisfaciendum, or attachment execution upon its money judgments, and writs de retorno habendo in replevin, as provided by law relating to the enforcement of judgments of the court of common pleas. These writs shall be executed by the constables of the said municipal court, or by the sheriff; and the practice in the execution of writs of fieri facias, capias ad satisfaciendum and de retorno habendo shall be the same as is provided by law in the case of writs issuing out of the court of common pleas, except that such writs shall be returnable as the municipal court may by rule prescribe. In writs of attachment execution, the practice shall be the same as in cases of corresponding civil suits in the municipal court, subject to such special rules as the court may prescribe. No writ of fieri facias or attachment execution issuing out of the municipal court shall in any manner operate as a lien on, or be used for the sale of, real estate; provided, however, that all writs as aforesaid shall be stayed when an appeal has been taken to the county court and perfected as hereinafter provided.

Section 20. At any time after twenty days from the final judgment of the municipal court and in the event that no appeal has been taken to the county court, the party to whom such judgment is awarded shall be entitled to file in the office of the prothonotary a transcript from the docket of the municipal court showing the judgment so rendered, which judgment shall be entered on the judgment index of said county and from the date of such entry shall bind the real estate of the party against whom judgment is rendered, and thereupon the judgment creditor shall be entitled to preserve and continue the lien of or enforce such judgment by execution attachment or other process in the same manner and to the same extent as though it had originally been entered in the office of the prothonotary upon confession.

Section 21. Appeals may be taken from the municipal court to the county court within twenty days after final judgment or order, in all cases in which said county court now has or may hereafter be given jurisdiction. In all other cases appeals may be taken to the courts of quarter sessions and oyer and terminer, and in all cases in which the magistrates, aldermen and justices of the peace shall act as committing magistrates, the practice shall be as heretofore unless changed or modified by the rules of the quarter sessions or oyer and terminer courts as hereinafter provided.

Section 22. The county court shall have the right to adopt and amend rules relating to the appeals to it from the said municipal court which shall include the right to fix and prescribe all of the conditions relating to the taking and perfecting of the said appeals, including the matter of the giving or dispensing of bond either for debt, interest and costs or for costs only and for the payment of costs or the securing thereof, and the said county court shall have the right, subject only to the limitations of the constitution of the state and of the United States, to impose such restrictions and limitations upon the right of appeal in cases involving not exceeding claims of fifty dollars as it may by its rules fix and prescribe, to the end that the matters in controversy may be promptly and finally disposed of without undue or protracted litigation and that justice may be reasonable and speedily accomplished

Section 23. The courts of quarter sessions and oyer and terminer shall have the right to adopt and amend rules relating to the appeal to these courts from the said municipal court which shall include the acts of the said judges of the municipal court as committing magistrates, and the said courts of quarter sessions and oyer and terminer may fix and prescribe all of the conditions relating thereto and to the taking and perfecting of the said appeals, including the matter of the giving or dispensing of bond, payment of costs, or the securing thereof.

Section 24. Nothing herein contained shall reduce, diminish or alter the existing jurisdiction, powers and duties of the mayors of the cities of the second and third class or of the burgesses of the boroughs in the consolidated city, except as otherwise provided herein.

Section 25. From and after the ratification of this charter, as herein provided, no justice of the peace, alderman or constable shall be elected to office.

Section 26. In case of any change in the laws of the state relating to the organization and jurisdiction of courts of record which affects any of the provisions of this article, the general assembly may enact such legislation as is necessary to secure the continued operation of the municipal court and to adapt the foregoing provisions to the said changes as nearly as may be in accordance with this article.

REPORT OF THE COMMISSION ON PENAL INSTITUTIONS.

To the Honorable, The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The Commission on Penal Institutions respectfully begs leave to submit the following report:

The Commission was created by the Act of May 10, 1927, P. L. 449:

"Laws of Pennsylvania, 1927.

No. 449—An Act creating a Commission on Penal Institutions; defining its powers and duties; and making an appropriation.

Section 1. Be it enacted, etc., That a commission is hereby created to be known as the Commission on Penal Institutions. The commission shall be composed of five members to be appointed by the Governor. The commission shall organize by selection of a chairman and secretary. The members of the commission shall serve without compensation, but shall be reimbursed for all expenses necessarily incurred in the discharge of their duties. The commission shall have power to employ such experts and stenographers as may be deemed necessary and to fix their salaries.

Section 2. It shall be the duty of said commission to inquire into the advisability of making the State Penitentiary at Rockview a penitentiary, separate and apart from the Western Penitentiary, to be governed and administered under the supervision of a board of trustees appointed by the Governor; to investigate the several State and local penal institutions, their method of administration and the commitment, employment, care, and maintenance of inmates therein, and to suggest methods for the improvement of the same; to study and make recommendations relative to the transfer of inmates to and from such institutions; and to inquire into the advisability of providing for the construction of district or central prisons or workhouses for the confinement of prisoners now confined in county and city prisons and workhouses.

Section 3. The commission shall make a report of its work to the Legislature at the session of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine, accomplished by such drafts of legislation as it deems advisable to carry its recommendations into effect.

Section 4. The sum of twenty thousand dollars ($20,000), or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby specifically appropriated to the commission for the payment of the expenses of the commission, the compensation of experts and stenographers, and for the payment of any other expenses and charges incurred in carrying out the provisions of this act. Payment from said appropriation shall be made, after requisition by the chairman of the commission, by warrant of the Auditor General on the State Treasurer in the manner provided by law.

Approved—The 10th day of May A. D. 1927.

JOHN S. FISHER.

In pursuance of the authority vested in him by this act, the Governor appointed Dr. William E. Wright, of Harrisburg, Mr. Stanley P. Ash of Pittsburgh, Hon. William C. Alexander of Media, Hon. John Monaghan, District Attorney of Philadelphia and Mrs. Fannie Sax Long of Wilkes-Barre, to membership in this body.

The Commission met for the purpose of organization on January 7, 1928, at which time Hon. William C. Alexander was elected chairman and T. A. D. Hildenberger as secretary.

The Commission held subsequent meetings at the following institutions which were visited:

Rockview Penitentiary, Feb. 4, 1928—July 6, 1928.

Eastern State Penitentiary

Philadelphia County Prison (Moyamensing)

Philadelphia County Prison (Holmesburg)

Philadelphia House of Correction

Delaware County Prison—Media

Glen Mills School (Boys)—Glen Mills

Sleighton Farms School (Girls)—Glen Mills

Pennsylvania Training School—Morganza

Western State Penitentiary

Allegheny County Prison—Pittsburgh

Allegheny County Workhouse—Blaunox

Thorn Hill School (Boys)

Pennsylvania Industrial Reform School

Laurelton State Village

State Industrial Home for Women (Muncy)

Lycoming County Prison—Williamsport

Centre County Prison—Bellefonte

and special executive meetings in Philadelphia, May 6, 1928 and Harrisburg Jan. 2, 1929.

It is the unanimous opinion of the Commission that it is inadvisable at this time to make the State Penitentiary at Rockview a Penitentiary separate and apart from the Western State Penitentiary.

After most careful deliberation the Commission decided that the time allotted was insufficient to inquire thoroughly into the many details necessary to make properly recommendations and fulfill its imposed trust, therefore it is recommended that a bill or bills be prepared amending the Act of May 10, 1927, so as to continue the Commission in existence and enable the Commission to complete its work and make report to the Legislature at the Session of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one. It is further recommended that an appropriation of the unexpended balance of sum appropriated by Act of May 10, 1927 be made, said balance the Commission deems sufficient to complete its work.

Respectfully submitted,

WILLIAM C. ALEXANDER,
Chairman.

WILLIAM E. WRIGHT,
FANNIE SAX LONG,
S. P. ASHE,
JOHN MONAGHAN.

T. A. D. HILDENBERGER, Secretary.
